Latest reports said at least 40 persons had died in the 26-storey building, in which owner Roberto Andraus estimated there were 1,500 people when the blaze started Thursday night on the ground floor.

A fire department spokesman reported 15 charred bodies had been recovered from lower floors and the Jornal do Brasil news agency said it had reports of 30 missing, believed killed, on the first floor and 12 more in a broken-down elevator.

Hospitals reported at least 200 survivors had been treated for burns and smoke poisoning.

The fire began in a ground floor electrical appliance store just after 2 p.m.

Flames shot upwards, fuelled by exploding gas canisters, and devoured all but the top few floors of the Pirani Building within 30 minutes.

Twenty military helicopters joined the spectacular rooftop rescue bid. The first to arrive was beaten back by gale-force updrafts of hot air and bursts of flame, but pilots pressed on through choking clouds of smoke.

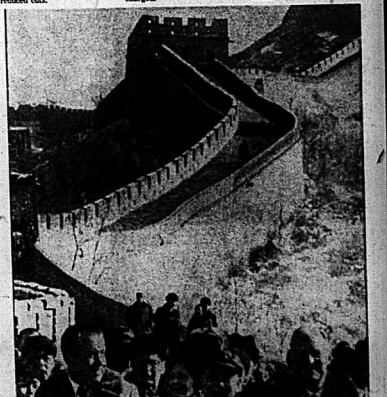
Eire Arrests IRA Men

DUBLIN (AP) — Prime Minister Jack Lynch's drive against the Irish Republican Army moved into high gear today. Thirteen militants were behind bars and police lodged formal charges against Cathal Goulding, chief of the IRA's leftist Official wing.

Supporters of the outlawed organization called for mass demonstrations throughout the Irish Republic to protest the government's crackdown.

Goulding was charged with violating the Offences Against the State Act by belonging to an illegal organization. Charged with him were three executives of Sinn Fein, the Official IRA's political division, including General Secretary Tony Heffernan.

They were among eight men arrested in Dublin Wednesday after the Officials had claimed responsibility for bombing a British army base at Aldershot, England, the day before. Seven persons, including five civilian women and a Roman Catholic army chaplain, were killed in the blast.



However, four of the eight arrested Wednesday were released early today without being charged.

Miners Vote to End Walkout

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 280,000 coal miners today ended their country-wide strike, casting an overwhelming majority vote to accept a settlement that guaranteed a speedy windup of a power crisis disrupting Britain's economy and idling millions.

The miners will go back to work Monday.

Power cuts are expected to continue for several weeks, until coal supplies are built up again at power stations, but the outcome of the vote means the government now can go ahead with reduced cuts.

CN Dayliner Strikes Car At Barcovan Beach Crossing

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Two persons were killed last night when the car in which they were travelling was struck by a Canadian National passenger train at a level crossing four miles west of here.

Dead are William James Richardson, 37, of 47 Third Avenue, Trenton and Mrs. Pauline Gertrude Plachta, 36, of RR 4, Trenton. They were pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Dr. W. D. Elliott. They were the only occupants of the car.

The wrecked automobile was pushed about 400 yards by the eastbound CN dayliner, following the 8:50 p.m. crash at Barcovan Beach Road's level crossing. There are no warning lights at the crossing.

Wedged under the front section of the dayliner, the car was finally dislodged from its position straddling the two parallel sets of track by the westbound Rapido, which acted as a tow truck.

No police or ambulance vehicles could get near the accident just south of Hwy. 2 between New Development Road and Barcovan Beach Road. The bodies were carried to waiting ambulances on New Development Road.

Israelis Make Raids On Lebanon

TEL AVIV (AP) — New Israeli raids were reported in southern Lebanon today in retaliation for guerrilla attacks as UN mediator Gunnar Jarring arrived in Israel in an effort to revive his deadlocked peace mission.

Residents in southern Lebanon reported that Israeli planes and tanks struck in three areas.

There was no immediate confirmation from the Israeli government, but the Lebanese army reported that two Israeli infantry battalions and an armored battalion attacked at dawn under a heavy air and artillery cover.

The army communique said Lebanese border outposts fought back, and the Israeli units began withdrawing three hours later. One Lebanese soldier was wounded, it added.

The Al Fatah guerrilla organization said six guerrillas were killed and three were wounded in the first hours of the battle.

Arab guerrillas killed a young married couple in a bazooka ambush just below the border early Thursday, and infiltrators in another attack later in the day killed a soldier and wounded seven others.

Golda Meir Sees Men as Victims

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir thinks women's "liberation" is foolish and it's men, not women, who suffer from discrimination.

"Men are discriminated against," she told a visiting delegation recently. "Because they can't give birth to children as we do."

Mrs. Meir, 73, is the mother of two and grandmother of five.

Davis Fears Lag In Cleanup

OAKVILLE (CP) — Premier William Davis said Thursday little will be accomplished if Ontario goes ahead with the clean-up of Lake Erie and the United States does not.

He told Sheridan College students his government is deeply concerned about an announcement from Washington earlier this week that President Nixon had vetoed spending $138 million to speed up treatment of pollution in the lake.

Mr. Davis said Environment Minister James Auld has been in touch with Ottawa and Washington following the United States announcement.

"Little will be accomplished if we solve our problems on the north side of Lake Erie . . . if the problems on the south side are not being solved," said the premier.

Job Training Need Evident

JOHNSON, Neb. (AP) — A determined but apparently inept burglar had a rough time of it, according to police reports.

The would-be thief broke into the post office but couldn't get the safe open. He then broke into a grain elevator office but couldn't get that safe open either.

He broke into the First National Bank of Johnson, tried to open the vault and was tear-gassed when he tripped a safety device. With that, he apparently gave up.

'Begun to Remove Wall' -- Nixon

PEKING (AP) — President Nixon said tonight that in the last four days of talks with Premier Chou En-lai "we've begun the long process of removing that wall between us."

In a toast at the Great Hall of the People he said it is possible for nati... with different systems and values to live together in peace . . . by letting history rather than the battlefield be the judge of their decisions.

Chou, seated at Nixon's right at a banquet given by the president for the Chinese, frequently applauded.

Then Chou and Nixon drank a toast as the band played America the Beautiful.

Chou responded to Nixon's toast by expressing his thanks to the president for being host at the banquet.

"We have exchanged views on normalization of relations," Chou said, noting that Nixon had met with him and had a talk with Mao Tse-tung.

"There exists great differences between us," Chou said, but he pledged that China "will work unswervingly" for the establishment of normal relations.

"The general trend in the world is definitely toward light and not darkness," Chou said.

Injuries Slight To Pedestrians

Two pedestrians were treated for minor injuries at Belleville General Hospital yesterday, and released.

Gordon Bruce McKay, 6, of 220 Foster Avenue, sustained facial scratches when he stepped into the rear portion of a Central Taxi, driven by George Scott of 63½ North Park Street.

Witnesses report the cab was partially through the intersection when the lad stepped out into the street.

A crossing guard was on duty at the corner of Victoria and Chatham Streets at the time of the noon accident. Cause of the mishap may have been due to misinformation by the boy of the guard's signals.

Later yesterday, Mrs. Janet Williamson, 71, of 127 Chatham Street, received scraped knees after colliding with a car driven by John Reynolds of RR2, Marmora.

Mr. Reynolds was driving west on Campbell Street when the accident occurred at the Front Street pedestrian crossing.

Park Building Plans Approved

Plans and specifications for the proposed canteen-change room structure at the west riverbank park site were approved yesterday by members of the city parks board.

The board will now ask city council to pass the necessary construction bylaw before calling tenders for the construction of the building as soon as possible.

Estimated cost of the canteen change room structure is $35,000.

Tenders will also be called for 560 eight-foot concrete park sections for barricade purposes on the riverbank road.

A report on 1971 canteen operations for three park locations — Meyers Alemite Park, Exhibition Park and Zwick's Centennial Park — was received by the board. Breakeven point on sales at the three locations returned the parks board $3,122.19, it was shown.

One Way of Getting A-round

Jill Victoria Ross! 4, literally rolled into the YMCA annual meeting last night as part of a Kinder Gym demonstration. Other demonstrations included judo and vaulting.

President Optimistic About YMCA Future

Changes are coming for the Y, both in programming and staff facilities, in an attempt to increase the Y's image and attendance, claimed Dr. D. D. Horne, last night at the annual meeting.

"Our biggest financial asset is the five acres of land around the Y building on Victoria Ave.," said Dr. Horne, president of the board of directors.

"We are going to take a hard look at that land and determine the best way of making it into a total complex," he said.

A series of complaints were lodged against the Y after its last fund raising campaign for its failure to build a promised gymnasium.

"As well as complaints, controversy held back on pledges saying "no gym — no money" recalled Dr. Horne.

"At the time we could see no way of coming through with a gym," said Dr. Horne. "Our financial situation was in such a state, we could not afford the expense. We hope to do something about it now."

After the formal meeting, in an interview with The Intelligencer, he cautioned, "there is no way another fund raising campaign can be held for the Y in this city for many, many years."

When questioned about funding for the "total complex" scheme, Dr. Horne said, "soliciting personal contributions, philanthropic organizations might come good and perhaps even the possibility of single person contributing the financial backing."

No names were mentioned but Dr. Horne commented such a person might be contacted in the near future.

At the moment, the Y and the United Community Services are doing in depth research on opinion of the Y, and soliciting comments and suggestions to better the Y.

Dr. Horne, finishing his address to the group said, "it is not a gloomy outlook, rather we are on the upswing, but there won't be as many people saying we are a useless, parasitic organization."

Police Web Pays Off

Police forces in adjacent counties have established a close-knit web of co-operation which has begun to pay off.

For the past three years, a monthly Zone Crime Conference has been held for area Ontario Provincial Police and municipal departments. The idea to hold such conferences initially, has been credited to Napanee Police Chief J. J. Paquette.

Such meetings are also held across the province.

Representatives from Number 9, OPP district, municipal police in Belleville, Napanee, Picton, Tweed, Napanee, Kingston and Sharbot Lake, as well as officials from Ontario Hydro and Canadian National Railways, alternate location for their conferences.

Due to a rapid supply of inter-force information, a recent table decrease in certain types of crime has been noted. Information regarding known criminals in the area is supplied, including license numbers, make of car and other particulars.

In this way, forces can be alerted.

They have been very successful in the interchange of information at a working session. Chief Douglas Crosbie said of these meetings.

"Also, if we get a certain type of crime in the area, we can alert the other forces," he said.

Each force is represented either by its chief or another representative. A member of Belleville's detective force regularly attends the sessions.

The heads of each department also attend a quarterly meeting at Kemptville.

Total value of the break-in has been estimated at $23.

Two Killed

Brighton OPP detachment, investigating the accident, say they have no indication that the car had stalled on the CN main lines before it was struck by the dayliner, driven by Arnold Welch of 329 Mac-Donald Avenue, Belleville.

Mr. Welch said today that "the car just kept moving on to the tracks," as the train moved toward it.

Funeral will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. from Rushnell Funeral Home for Mr. Richardson, and at a later hour from Mt. Motors in Trenton. Funeral arrangements have not been completed for Mrs. Fluchin.

In the '30s, Richardson had been one of the Quinte area's all-time big Irish Sweepstakes winners, netting well over $100,000.

Toronto - Montreal rail traffic ground to a full stop for 2½ hours after the mishap. One line was cleared shortly before midnight.

However, CP officials said the dayliner did not have the dayliner moving from the other tracks until about 7 a.m. this morning, when it was towed to Toronto by an auxiliary engine, after its front wheel assembly had been properly set back on the tracks.

Dayliner passengers were taken from the scene by chartered buses to stations at Trenton, Belleville, Napanee and Kingston.

Four trains, including the through-the-night Toronto-Montreal pigey-back transport trailer freight and three passenger trains were halted at the scene before one set of tracks was cleared and they could be routed past the disabled dayliner.

Directors Named To Board

At last night's meeting of the Belleville Family YMCA, 10 members were nominated and elected to the board of directors.

Two members will serve for three years on the board.

The remaining two positions will be filled by Louis Maraskas and a representative of the Quinte Labor Council.

These two will serve for one year only, to replace two board members who moved from the city in mid-term.

The entire board consists of 20 members, nominated and elected by the rest of the Y membership.

Each year, 10 people leave the board and are replaced.

This is the first time members experienced at all times.

Demonstrations Meet Highlight

Between reports of various Y committees, demonstrations of Y activities were presented to the audience under the direction of Jim Cleveland, physical education director for the Y.

Demonstrations were Kinder Gym, judo, vaulting and the Y majorette group.

Highlighting the evening was the presentation of three fellowship awards.

These were presented to Y treasurer Frank Heiss, Kathryn Lloyd, teacher of baton and Kathy Watson, member of the board of directors and chairman of the youth committee.

Since the beginnings of the award, 15 years ago, 72 have been presented to Y members who have given great amounts of time and effort promoting the activities of the Y.

A special presentation was also made to a member of the judo group.

Margaret Way was presented with a medallion for judo, signifying the respect she has won from her fellows.

Mrs. Way is currently working on judo's highest honor, the black belt.

Hill Hearing Opens

A preliminary hearing into the murder charge against Herman Gerald Hill, 32, of Foxboro, began in criminal court here this morning.

Hill was charged January 30 with the shooting death of Wayne Gordon Bailey of Marie Hill.

First witness was Corporal Larry Smith, Belleville detachment OPP, the identification officer who had raised latents in crime.

Preliminary trial is being held before Judge T. R. Bastedo of Peterborough who is conducting proceedings in the absence of Judge F. C. Wills.

The hearing, which will determine whether Hill will be brought to trial, is expected to continue through the afternoon.

Loyalist Quartet Proposes Centre

Four graduates of Loyalist College's early childhood education course have a scheme to become self-employed and offer a community service at the same time.

They want to start a co-operative day-care nursery in the Park Dale - West Park Village section of Belleville and have applied for an Opportunities for Youth grant to help them get started.

But first they must determine the extent of the need, and are conducting a survey Saturday of the 200 parents in the community.

Knocking on doors in Park Dale and West Park Village, they hope to find out how many parents would enrol their children in a co-operative day-care nursery.

The quartet, Ruth Wright, Karen McCoy, Diane Brethour and Anele Pearson, have tentative plans to establish their nursery in Park Dale Community Hall. The enterprise would begin May 15 and continue under the Opportunities for Youth grant (if obtained) until Sept. 15. After that date the nursery would continue on either a private or co-operative basis.

The four young women are now second year students at Loyalist, but will have been graduated from the early childhood education course by the time their nursery is ready to open.

Snowmobile, Car Collide

TWEED (Special) — Two men escaped injury in a car-snowmobile collision on the Cooper Road Thursday afternoon.

Roy Moorcroft of RR3, Madoc, was southbound on the road when his car came into collision with a snowmobile operated by Douglas Charles Donaldson of RR1, Eldorado, who was crossing the road at the time. Damage to the snowmobile amounted to about $200.

Scouts Cited for Good Citizenship

As Fox Population Grows, Rabies Problem Increases

Rabies has increased throughout much of Quinte district in the past year.

But whether it has the makings of a serious problem is hard to define.

The disease is being reported fairly regularly but appears scattered over a wide area, instead of being concentrated in specific locations, Dr. J. F. McCorquodale, federal government veterinarian in Belleville said today.

"I don't think the situation is really serious, but it is a nuisance," said Dr. McCorquodale, whose jurisdiction covers Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland counties.

However, there is "a definite increase" in incidents over last year, he agreed.

The number of foxes depleted some time ago, appears again on the upswing but is still "below normal" a Department of Lands and Forest survey indicates, says Dr. McCorquodale.

Foxes are carriers giving most trouble. Skunks also are common hosts for the disease although they have made few problems in the district as yet, said the veterinarian.

When foxes increase "we can almost expect an increase in the rabies situation," explained the veterinarian.

The fact the incidence of infection is spread more evenly over a larger area, may be favorable to its demise, he indicated.

Every case reported said Dr. McCorquodale, is "considered serious. But whether the over-all situation is serious I don't know. I would think the way it is spread all over, that possibly the cycle will sort of run out.

"We're hoping that instead of having a heavy pocket moving from area to area, the whole thing will decrease. It would take several months before that would happen of course."

Complicating the situation are domestic pets running at large — "a perennial problem" — and offering contact targets for rabid wildlife.

When humans get involved in possible contact it means a rigorous 14-day series of injections.

Dr. McCorquodale said "quite a few people" have taken the treatment in the past year as a preventative, after becoming involved in contact mainly through handling animals suspected of rabies.

Ewes' Blood Serum Industry Possible

PICTON (Staff) — Sheep breeders in Prince Edward County could receive additional income if a Connecticut laboratory firm completes arrangements to buy ewe's blood for use in its operations.

The American firm has purchased property in Prince Edward and has rented a local post office box and obtained a telephone listing.

The sheeps' blood, is included in a variety of serums and plasma used exclusively for veterinary and animal purposes.

The Prince Edward County Industrial committee has worked toward the location of a local plant for several months and its operations were outlined at a meeting of sheep breeders held at Prince Edward Yacht Club.

Industrial commissioner William Duggan observed that the blood lettings of the sheep would fall under strict regulations and inspections conducted by the Federal Department of Agriculture.

William Otan, assistant agricultural representative for Prince Edward County said that American firm will receive from $5 to $8 for each pint of ewe's blood once a month.

He observed that location of a plant in Prince Edward could offer supplementary income for sheep breeders but added that further study is planned to determine the effects of the blood lettings on the sheep.

Discussions with veterinarians to date have revealed that the monthly bleedings should have no adverse effects on the sheep.

William Duggan said that if the Connecticut plant establishes a branch here, a maximum of 15 persons will be hired.

It was love at first slurp for Margaret Cunningham of 217 Dufferin Avenue yesterday. Students and teacher Mrs. Janet Kritikos of Queen Elizabeth School invited Rev. For the price of a Skylark you can have a Buick!

GS Convertible
And all this time you didn't think you could afford a Buick fleet.
Come to think of it, maybe you can't afford not to have a Buick Skylark.
To begin with, Skylark is priced a lot less than you may have thought. And when you compare it to other cars in Skylark's price class, you'll find it's very competitive. Because Skylark comes equipped with Buick features. Like Buick's ride and handling. And Buick's semi-closed cooling system. The one that should never overheat. Nickel-plated engine exhause valves for longer life. A low freeon detector switch to protect the air conditioning system. And, if you want, we'll even relocate the spare to give you more trunk floor area at no extra cost.
All these features help make Skylark a great new car. They also help make Skylark a valuable used car. Which is why Skylark resale value is traditionally the highest in its class.
Another reason Skylark's resale value is so high in the fleet-minded Buick dealer network. They take good care of you.
Talk to one of Buick's fleet specialists. He knows his business. And yours.
You'll probably find out that you've been paying for a Buick fleet all this time. And as long as you're paying for one, why not operate one.

Trenton's Plan

The Municipal Affairs Department's rejection of Trenton's official plan — including criticism of the plan's apparent concentration on industrial needs at the expense of recreational land — understandably has caused concern in the community.

There is a conflict here between the theoreticians in Toronto, who have no on-the-spot knowledge or appreciation of Trenton's requirements, and the town's own administration and its consultants.

The government department's decision is all the more questionable considering it has taken them eight months, according to one councillor, to make its recommendations. It is just one more example of the time-consuming and costly studies which in aggregate (consultants' report, followed by government examination and so on) constitute the municipal planning scene today.

It would be far better, given government's desire to have the last word on virtually everything these days, if a representative of municipal affairs sat with the community's consultants in the first place. That way there would be a meeting of minds and a pooling of skills from the beginning. Instead we have separate approaches, resulting in the kind of exasperating impasse that now obtains. This is not to say that the people in Toronto do not have some worthwhile suggestions, given alertness for the fact that there has evidently been no on-the-spot assessment from that quarter; but as we have said, co-operation from the start would be more desirable.

Trenton council meanwhile is studying the situation and hopes to present the department with answers, or rebuttal, at an early date. It would be satisfying to think that any adjustments made will be in the best interests of Trenton, and that they will be made expeditiously, without further costly delays.

Tobacco Habit

If there are far too many young people acquiring the tobacco habit — and we have discussed this a number of times lately — what about the rest of us?

One of the more perplexing ironies of the tobacco scene are the smoke-filled waiting rooms in medical clinics — people smoking while waiting to see the doctor and asthmatics full of butts. It is as if the patient's life depended on smoke and of course it does not; just the opposite in fact, as we have been led to believe more and more of late.

The medical profession itself comes in for criticism in this regard. Dr. John Bennett, director of the Canadian Medical Association's professional division, complains of medical meetings immersed in tobacco smoke and exhibiting holding chest x-rays with tobacco-stained fingers. In the CMA's journal he offers guidelines such as these: no smoking in the presence of patients, no smoking at medical meetings, restricted smoking in hospitals, a ban on sale of cigarettes in hospitals, and discouragement of smoking, especially among young patients.

For all such advice, we will never see a complete banishment of the tobacco habit. But it is not too much to expect that smokers evaluate the risk they run and frown on heavy smoking in particular. Nor is too much to ask that certain restrictions be observed such as those suggested by Dr. Bennett, if for no other reason than there are other patients around, including nonsmokers.

Home Visits

The prospect of the Home Care program in Belleville being expanded to include home visits by non-professionals is one that will give the plan a whole new dimension. It will add the personal touch which is so necessary in the healing process and which is not present in the same degree in the busy atmosphere of a hospital.

As Mrs. Alison Kuglin ,the programs's nursing administrator, points out, "we have patients who are extremely lonely. All they need is assurance of a visit from one or two people once or twice a week."

We look forward to seeing such an initiative becoming part of the Home Care program. It cannot help but benefit all concerned.

Election Prophecies

MPs Try to Read Signs and Portents of Throne Speech

By FARMER TESSINGTON

OTTAWA — The great guessing game connected with Throne Speeches was on by the recent throne speech. When's the election going to be? That's the most popular question in Ottawa and, I suspect, across the country.

This throne speech, like all throne speeches, was interpreted in as many ways as there were rolling phrases in the speech itself. Some MPs and pundits saw it as a clear sign the election would be soon, certainly not later than June. Still others decided it was designed as a holding action, awaiting the election call in October. A few backards resurrected the spring 1972 theory.

The MPs, even those in the government ranks, were as confused as the pundits. An informal poll taken among seven Liberals after the speech revealed in seven different interpretations and dates.

The prime minister continues to say he has not yet set a date which is likely correct but given much thought to the problem—which isn't likely Opinions of others range from that the prime minister who called an election now would have to be out of his mind,' to: "We'll go soon, before his options run out."

Election dates are set by the prime minister after careful consultation with caucus, cabinet and party brass. One of our former PMs was believed to have consulted the spirit world as well. But the date is always the one believed most favorable to government fortunes.

What's in mind, put yourself in Mr. Trudeau's position next week. He has to decide, before this spring or this fall, considering the following plus and minus factors.

Reasons why an election should be held in May or June: 1 — Growth rate of our gross national product expected by any industrialized country; 2 — Rate at which Canadians entered labor force compared to industrial nations; 3 — Rise in total employment and output achieved with reasonable price stability; 4 — Government's weathered crisis in international monetary system and played leading role in election; 5 — Have implemented measures to combat unemployment and improve economy such as tax cuts, local initiatives programs, incentive grants; 6 — Established Canada Development Corp.; 7 — Have improved unity of provinces and social security measures; 8 — Put in two-price system for oil; have passed farm products marketing act; 9 — Business pickup and stock market strong; 10 — Election would come soon after publication of Statistics Canada census; 11 — Favorable impact of Pitts levelling of Quebec city as number in public mind; 12 — Favorable impact of marriage and arrival of Justin Pierre Trudeau.

Reasons why an election should be postponed: 1 — High unemployment; 2 — Cost of living seems to be accelerating again; 3 — Many angered over delays in unemployment insurance benefits; 4 — Increases in family allowances delayed; 5 — Public upset about continuing strikes, two disrupting air travel and one CBC services; 6 — Breakdown in trade negotiations with the U.S. over auto and dozens and layoffs in number of important industries across country; 7 — Proposed competition act, and labor code unpopular in some circles; 8 — Spiralling British Columbia over equalization payments and PM called [illegible] Quebec city; 10 — Government - subsidized Canada Development Corp.; 11 — Favorable impact of Pierre Vallieres; 11 — Many Canadians have doubts about Canada getting chummy with the Communist countries and recognizing Red China; 12 — Spring income tax time when many people are naturally mad at the government.

So there are a number of arguments on each side of the coin and you can probably think of several others. The throne speech, as a bland statement of government's general aims, isn't much of an indicator as to election dates. More significant will be the details of the legislation brought in; the budget, if there is to be one before election call; and the departmental spending estimates which will [illegible] the government in acting like Scrooge or Santa Claus to hundreds of local and national projects.

And finally, remember the date is often aimed by the opposition as the government chooses on any excuse to pull the plug if the other parties even appear to hold up the legislative program.

Greater Deterrents Needed

Impaired Driving Growing Menace On Highways of the Country

Brockville Recorder and Times

Chief Constable Les Sterritt, in his annual report to the Brockville, Police Commission, cited some statistics that are alarming. During 1971 there was a 59 percent increase in the number of people charged with impaired driving or related offences under the Criminal Code. Police picked up 278 suspected drivers and found sufficient reason to charge 243 of them. It is a grim picture, one that seems to prevail in most provinces today. And all provinces want to rid the roads of this menace, but few are doing enough to get the job done. It will take drastic action by our legislators and the courts if there is to be any noticeable decrease in the number of highway deaths and injuries caused by demon rum every year. The work of the police counts for little if their efforts are not backed by a stern court.

And this, it seems, can only be brought about by stermer legislation. That passed a couple of years ago, when mandatory penalties were imposed, is a case for another revision since the courts tend to use only the minimums.

Ontario has had automatic suspension of driving licenses for some years now. While there is a minimum three-month suspension for impaired driving and six months when property damage, injury or death are involved, a guilty driver can continue to drive for some time until the department of transport calls in the driving licence. Previously the licenses used to be taken from the driver by the court. These suspensions have a small deterrent effect, only because for most people a three to six months suspension means but a slight inconvenience. Nor has the increased fines had a deterrent effect. Indeed instead of a steady decrease in the number of traffic offences, there has been a decided increase, an increase much greater than the percentages of increase in the number of automobiles in use.

A new approach is needed. Harsher penalties for impaired drivers may be the answer. A stiffer fine or sentence cannot readily be considered a penalty as much as a defence against the impaired driver; insofar the people are entitled to protection against this kind of driver and the deterrent should be sufficient to make it worthy of note.

For years newspaper editorials have blamed the nut behind the wheel for the increase in traffic deaths and injuries. It continues to hold true, yet the government has not done much about this particular nut. Some states in the United States are considering psychological testing for drivers' permits. This may be the answer to the problem. It is the driver's attitude towards his responsibility to others, or the lack of an attitude at all, that causes the driver to get impaired in the first place. And drivers who continually have their licence through suspension should be mentally tested. There are some drivers who are accidents going around looking for a place to happen. They aren't fully qualified, mentally, to be driving a car. And there are 5,000 dead and about 200,000 injured in Canada each year to prove it. They should be psychologically tested.

Somebody Cared

A Stray Dog on A Cold Night

Editor,

The Intelligencer.

On Saturday night a female stray dog (collie size and coloring, 1972 Belleville dog tag number 071) followed our dog and myself home and joined a late evening walk. We inquired at some neighbors as to her owners. No one knew of such a pet locally.

We began a 2½-hour telephone call-in order to find shelter for the hapless stray. It was windy, snowing and the temperature was reported to drop to zero. We have a male canine and it was soon evident that for her to stay with us for the night would be impossible and impractical.

Our calls in sequential order were:—

1. The Humane Society, who seemed little sympathetic, explained that only an injured or dead animal would roust them into the cold! They said to either keep her until Monday morning or turn her out; after all WE had picked up the stray. Is this really our society for the prevention of cruelty to animals?

2. The Belleville Police Department referred us to the "Society" and apologized that they knew of no way to locate the owners.

3. The gentleman on duty at CJBQ could not believe his ears at the "Society". He took our number and said he would call them himself. Minutes later he phoned back to sympathize and explained nothing more could be done.

4. Mayor Scott's answering service assured us that the Doctor would call the minute he returned. We called our location in the hope that we could locate someone in City government with a key to the offices at City Hall willing to check the records for the dog's owners.

5. We reached one city official who referred us to another who might have a key. In the end we phoned Alderman Enos David who found shelter for our canine guest at the Moira Street Fire Hall.

Today in History

Pope Pius V excommunicated Elizabeth I of England and all persons ago today—at 1570—and declared her a usurper. Elizabeth's concern about papal claims of supremacy in ecclesiastical matters had resulted in the breaking of diplomatic relations with Rome in 1562. Thanks largely to Spanish diplomatic support, the Papal bull occasioned during her came too late to encourage northern rebels.

Juvenile Offenders And Penal Reform

Kingston Whig - Standard

According to The Christian Science Monitor of Boston, "a two-part program now being set up in Massachusetts to reduce the present institutional system of institutions for juvenile offenders to a minimum which could sign that meaningful reform in at last be beginning to crack through the wall of the American penal practices." We agree.

The Monitor points out that one of the programs, called JOE (Juvenile Opportunities Experiment), has placed 100 youngsters out of juvenile prisons and reformatories on a day-to-day basis with student volunteers at the University of Massachusetts." Each student volunteer takes on one juvenile offender as a buddy, living together in college dormitories, apartments, private homes. The juvenile offender and his student buddy work out a program of schooling or work, and the volunteer worker acts as mentor, guide and supportive friend." The Monitor observes:

Under another segment of the program 130 former juvenile inmates are housed in "group homes," supervised by foster parents. According to The Monitor, the JOE program has been under way for a year and a half now; it exists in other states and other countries, including Denmark. However, as the editorial cautions, the "key to success in any such effort, of course, is the close interpersonal relationship that develops between the foster parents and their charges. The qualifications for those who take on such a responsibility must be high indeed."

Nevertheless, the two - part program — which emphasizes knit units is a realistic move away from impersonal institutions. The Monitor puts it, "It should go far toward eliminating the well-documented tragedy of putting youthful first-time offenders in institutions which destroy, instead of rehabilitate, them." Canada would do well to study the mechanics and the results of the Massachusetts program.

Abortion Opposed

Editor,

The Intelligencer,

On February 1, Dr. Richard Leader stated that Ontario had failed to open a therapeutic abortion committee in every hospital and that Ontario's Catholic hospitals should be made open-minded to abortion.

As a taxpayer I strongly believe that I should have the right to support Roman Catholic hospitals who are not as lenient on abortions in some cases.

To use this as a solution for unwanted pregnancy, or for birth control, is sheer madness, for who are they going to allow to be killed next, the old?

MRS. B. ARBOUR

Report Says Canadian Shoe Industry Faces Death by 1975

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

STIRLING — The Canadian footwear industry is in trouble and this Quinte community is a microcosm of the ailment.

This village is the home of Elaine Footwear, the biggest industry in the area.

But for several weeks, workers at the plant have been on short time. Their union organizers some months ago agreed to defer wage increase demands because of problems which are industry-wide.

"Last year at this time we were six weeks behind on deliveries," says Elaine's secretary-treasurer John McCann. "... But we're working a four-day week at the moment."

There have been no layoffs among the 265 workers. Management is hopeful that business horizons will brighten. But if not, they might have to consider measures even more drastic than short-time work hours to keep operating.

The problem is foreign imports, subject of a now-released study prepared for the department of industry, trade and commerce.

The study, tabled in the Commons yesterday, says the ailing Canadian footwear industry will be virtually destroyed by 1975 if footwear imports continue to increase. It recommends that foreign imports be limited and Canadian manufacturers encouraged to increase exports to the U.S.

It gives these bleak, supporting statistics:

—While Canadian consumption of leather and vinyl footwear had increased by 6.4 million pairs — a 15 per cent rise — between 1962-1970, Canadian production decreased by five million pairs.

—Employment at footwear manufacturing plants fell to 16,000 from 20,300 in the same period.

—Total Canadian consumption in 1970 was slightly less than 90 million pairs.

About 300 footwear plants are located in Canada — mainly in Ontario and Quebec, many in small communities like this one.

But, says a Belleville industrially involved in labor organization within the industry, Bata is not in the same position, since it also imports footwear besides manufacturing Canadian products.

He agrees with the report's warning.

So does a visitor, by coincidence at the Reilly home in Belleville today when news of the study was public — John Mara, international president of the union from Boston, Mass.

"There's no doubt about it," says Mr. Reilly. "At the present rate of decline in companies, the industry will be destroyed — whether it is in 1975 or 1976."

Adds Mr. Mara: "Percentagewise, Canada is worse off than the United States, because I think imports represent more than 30 per cent of the consumption of shoes here. It's around 37 per cent in the United States.

"In 1971 (in the U.S.) we made less shoes than in 1967. The work force dropped from 200,000 to 170,000 . . ." despite population and consumption rises.

Mr. Reilly says a big plant like Bata — where his union has about 600 members — is not similarly affected since it is large enough to diversify and its work force remains about the same. Bata is also an importer of shoes, says Mr. Reilly.

But other companies — such as Elaine — do not enjoy similar circumstances, he says.

A spokesman for Bata was not immediately available for comment.

Last September, said Mr. Reilly, his union took a six-month contract extension without wage increases.

Now, the company wants another six months grace on wage increases "because they don't have any money to pay the workers any more," says Mr. Reilly.

"We're taking a vote next Monday as to whether the employees are going to accept this," he added.

Meantime, Mr. McCann says the company is "of course hoping it's a temporary situation."

In another three to four weeks, the company will be starting its fall production, which will include boots — an item not as heavily contested by imports.

"We are looking forward in a good fall as far as winter boot production is concerned. But it still isn't a very rosy picture really," said the company official.

"There have been so many firms go out of business completely in the last five years and Canadian manufacturers are not taking up the slack," said Mr. McCann. "Their production has been replaced by imports."

And a solution?

"I don't really know the solution — whether (import) quotas would do it or not. But we certainly need something to spruce up the footwear business in general."

Is there a possibility that Elaine might eventually be forced out of business?

"No," says Mr. McCann. "I wouldn't definitely say that."

However, in the present situation, the union laid been fair to go along with company requests, he agreed. Some concessions were granted but the union agreed to delay wage increases.

Yet, he agreed, it was an economic blow to the men and women who must work short time.

It was a setback that extended into the community.

"I would imagine the merchants in Stirling tend to feel this too. There isn't that much money to go around."

While not all workers may live in the village, those residing on the area tend to go shopping in Stirling on payday.

Are there any possibilities of layoffs if the market continues to idle?

Mr. McCann explains Elaine's outlook this way: "The way we're set up in the shoe business, it takes so many operations on one machine and it makes more sense, rather than have people doing two operations to have a shorter work week. But we may have to consider something different, if it runs into an extended period. We are hoping it won't."

Labor organizer Ian Reilly says imports not only are "taking up most of the new markets but a lot of the old markets."

With Canadian companies closing out, the union finds itself in a position where it is continuously organizing "just to stand steady".

"In the past five years we have organized 1,000 workers or so and we still have the same membership we had five years ago . . . you organize people and other plants close down."

The decline is nothing new. Mr. Reilly says labor has been petitioning successive Liberal and Conservative governments for action since 1956.

"The answer is for governments either to establish a quota system or licensing of imports so that they can control imports coming into the country."

Other industries are facing a similar problem, says Mr. Reilly.

"Pretty soon the way it's going to be, you're going to have to move to some other country to get a job — because it's getting worse and worse."

But the situation is aggravated for shoe producers since it's a relatively small industry, he said.

Mr. Reilly claimed that retail operations were adding to the situation, by purchasing cheaper imports for sale.

A "big problem" was that "retail stores would probably rather sell imports because they make more money out of them."

Mr. Mara said tariffs would not help. The answer was restrictions on types of shoes imported.

A current proposal up for U.S. Congress consideration sets out an "orderly marketing procedure". Quotas tied to the percentage of consumption increase.

While organized labor does not want to freeze imports, it doesn't want foreign goods to wipe out domestic industry.

The international union president admitted the action was "drastic" because "this big thing in the world order is the matter of free trade."

"Anybody who is against free trade is against motherhood and the flag," he added.

Labor is not opposed to free trade, "as such". But he thought the better term should be "fair trade".

"I believe the Canadian shoe worker and the American shoe worker is competing against wages he would starve on — even more than he is now."

The study was tabled in the Commons by Industry Minister Jean-Luc Pepin without comment. It is being studied in his department.

Snow Removal Signs Not Needed

Belleville has no need for emergency snow routes calling for a general ban on parking to allow snow removal operations.

This is the opinion of members of the city traffic and light committee who this week took no action on a request from Alderman Enos David for consideration of emergency no parking signs during severe snow conditions.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said in his experience in Belleville there had been no emergency snow conditions.

Policy of the works department, he said was to concentrate snow plowing operations first on primary routes throughout the city.

He said special no parking signs were already used when actual snow removal operations in the downtown area were under way and police were very co-operative.

NSA Hears Talk on Travel Today

"Romance of Transportation" was the topic of the guest speaker address by Warren of Davison and Davison Travel agency as he addressed members of the Quinte Chapter of the National Secretaries' Association at a meeting held recently at Hotel Quinte.

Mr. Warren spoke on travel today and in particular, travel tours, illustrating some of the points that one should look for in planning a trip and selecting a tour. He discussed some of the changes in leisure travel today.

After an informative talk, Mr. Warren showed an award winning film on Europe which held many points of interest particularly for those who had not been to Europe.

Following the film, Mr. Warren was thanked and a draw was made on a flight bag, donated by the Travel Agency which was won by Mrs. Evelyn McHoghton.

After a brief recess, a business meeting followed conducted by president, Mrs. Gabrielle Watkins. Advance notice of a workshop on April 29 to be held in Watertown, N.Y. was given. It will be entitled "Make your Footsteps Professional".

It was decided that a number of the members would attend the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club Fashion Show to be held on March 15 at Centennial Secondary School. Membership chairman, Mrs. Joan Newman, announced three new or provisional members, Mrs. Ann Kay of Pyrotenax of Canada Limited, Miss Dida Ellis of Mead Johnson Canada Ltd. and Mrs. Carol Quinn of the Quinte Mall.

Mrs. Newman reminded members that Mrs. Robin Jefferies was to be the guest speaker for March and her topic is "Born Female".

Secretaries' week chairman, Mrs. Helen Worrell, outlined plans to date for the Secretaries Week this year. Of prime interest was the fact that Boss of the Year, Mr. Eric Runnacres, Director of the Hastings County Board of Education, would be interviewed during that week on radio station CJ.R.Q. on Wednesday, April 28 at 1.30 p.m.

Seminar chairman, Mrs. Barbara Miller announced that arrangements have been made to hold this year's Seminar at the Four Seasons Hotel due to the fact that a large turnout is anticipated with such interesting speakers as Eric Runnacres, Jack Adamson, personnel director, Bata Industries Ltd., Miss Marie Switcher, CPS, Canadian Division President of the National Secretaries' Association, headquarters in Toronto and Hon. Ellen Fairclough, PC, FCA.

Mrs. Miller also announced that Margaret Baky of Bell Canada will be speaking on "Your Voice and You".

Eight members of the Bay of Quinte Chapter, attended the seminar held at the Westbury Hotel on Saturday, Feb. 12. They included three from Trenton, Mrs. Barbara Miller, Mrs. Kay Kost and Mrs. Moira Williams of Pyrotenax of Canada Ltd., also Miss Mary Cross, president of Trenton secretary at Loyalist College. There were two Picton members, Mrs. Jeanette Hart and Mrs. Margaret Kleinsteuber, both of Lake Ontario Cement Co. and two Belleville members, Mrs. Belle Millsip of Queen's Self-Care Unit and Mrs. Marian Hunter of Arthur A. Sills and Son.

The theme of the seminar was "Flexibility-Forecast for the Future" and all the members in attendance were much impressed and enthusiastic about the whole day, but particularly the talk by Dr. F. D. Barrett, president of Management Concepts Limited.

Dr. Barrett is a well-known author and lecturer in creativity and innovation. He has addressed many business and government groups in both Canada and the United States. He is formerly professor of management of York University in Toronto and Queen's University in Kingston.

The speaker in the afternoon, Dr. Lita-Rose Betcherman, speaking on "The Philosophy of Women in Today's World," also was most interesting. The seminar closed with a fashion show which everyone agreed was exceptional in that the models in the NSA Chapter were models with the assistance of a professional commentator. The consensus seemed to be that the softer, feminine look was coming back and the new fashions were not as extreme as they have been in recent years.

President, Mrs. Watkins, presented an invitation to participate in a survey with the United Community Services and the YMCA in a study of leisure time requirements in Belleville and surrounding area. It was decided by vote to actively participate in this study.

Women Enjoy Tour of Holy Land

TWEED — Earlier this year (1972) two Denbigh women, Mrs. Ellen Hartman and Mrs. Margaret Petsold left on a Christian exodus tour to The Holy Land. Mrs. Eva Ball, sister of Mrs. Hartman, was a among the 32 pilgrims in the group and the tour host was Rev. (and Mrs.) Leroy C. Ball, of Belleville. In Ottawa, they joined Rev. Paul Johnston's Mid-Eastern group and in Montreal, the Kingston and area fold under the guidance of Rev. V. Shakehone. For many, perhaps the first thrill was boarding an Air France 707 jet for Paris, connecting with El-Al Airlines for Tel Aviv, where they spent three days. From New York another 35 joined the pilgrimage to Tel Aviv and the passenger list had swollen to 126, mentioned as a record. Two days at Safed, Galilee, two days at Jerusalem, two days at Ashkelon and all too soon it was time to retrace their footsteps back to Paris, then Montreal.

At each destination, a chartered bus with an expert driver and competent guide conducted tours to places of interest averaging eight in 18 hours per day.

The hotels were first-class as was the bill of fare. To touch the waters of the Dead Sea, the Sea of Galilee, witness Baptism in the Jordan River, partaking of Communion in the Garden of Gethsemane, to tread on Holy Ground are among the never - to - be - forgotten experiences for those who made up the exacting Christian tour of early 1972.

Eastern Star Chapter Marks 53rd Anniversary

Belleville Chapter No. 55, Order of the Eastern Star celebrated their 53rd anniversary on Friday evening February 18, in the Masonic Temple.

Despite the bad storm, a large number of visiting officers and members from Constant Chapters of the Order, as well as from Belleville, attended the event. Among the distinguished guests were Mrs. Edna Dobbs, Grand Conductress of the Grand Chapter of Ontario; Mrs. Pauline Clare, District Deputy Grand Matron of District No. 12; 3 Past District Deputy Grand Matrons, Mrs. Marion Easterbrook of Napanee; Mrs. Luella Brickman and Mrs. Dorothy McGlashon of Belleville; Mrs. Ruth Clark, Worthy Matron of Quinte Chapter, Amelisburg; Mrs. Mary Bowen, Worthy Matron of Napanee; a large number of Past Matrons and Past Patrons from visiting chapters and 32 Past Matrons and 29 Past Patrons of Belleville Chapter. All were warmly welcomed by Miss Jeane Stephenson, Worthy Matron and Keith Elliott, Worthy Patron.

The 32 Past Matrons and Patrons of Belleville Chapter No. 55 were honored with a "Foot-Print" ceremony. After readings from the Worthy Matron, the Worthy Patron, the Star Point and Associate Matron and the conductress, a small gift in a "Foot-print" was presented to each one as a token of appreciation for their past service to the Chapter.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a 50-year pin to Mrs. Phylis Barlow, a Past Matron of the chapter. She was escorted to the East by the conductress, where a corsage from the chapter was pinned on. Monte Barlow, a Past Patron, presented and pinned on her 50-year pin. In his presentation address, he said that 50 years ago Phylis became his "Sister" in the chapter and a few years later she became his wife.

After the business was concluded, everyone assembled in the banquet hall where a huge birthday cake was presented. It was beautifully decorated with a large star in the centre, done in white and yellow, white, green and red, surrounding the star was the inscription "Belleville Birthday Belleville Chapter No. 55 OES."

The cake was cut by the Worthy Matron and the 50-year member while pictures were taken.

Successful Living

The Reality of Death and Children

By DORIS CLARK

Adults often have great difficulty in accepting the death of someone they love in them.

When young children are among the mourners, adults may communicate their lack of acceptance when children readily need straightforward, "Daddy is dead. You will never see him again," for them. Instead of a great deal of love.

Instead of simple honesty, however, adults will say something like:

1. "Mother has gone on a long journey". If she is only on a trip. Why is everybody crying?

2. "God took Daddy away because he wants to have the good people in Heaven"; This tells the child that if he's good he'll die young like Daddy! And why should a child love a God who robs him of his father?

3. "Daddy is now in Heaven". A child will wonder how Daddy could get there when he was buried in the ground.

4. "Grandma died because she was sick". Some children will become very anxious whenever they or anyone they know gets sick. Children can't distinguish between different degrees of sickness.

5. "To die is to sleep". Children may stay awake nights in fear of going to sleep, and therefore being dead. While sleep and death are similar in time security and belonging will replace loss, and honesty will have enabled the child to face reality.

— Explaining Death to Children, by Earl Grollman. (Supplied by Funeral Planning and Memorial Society of Manitoba.)

Dear Doris: There was a big family of us. They were the best of parents. couldn't do enough for us till the day they died. We then left us well provided for.

We all knew they loved us, but we were not a kissing family and I don't know why. When I grew older and went away I kissed my mother goodbye but only at times like that; however my father I can never my sisters or brothers. Now with my own children, when the children were little, I kissed their hands, feet, etc., but now they're grown up I didn't seem right to me. Why? I only kissed my husband.

Some of my family think it is funny that I don't kiss them. Their mother likes it all do, but I just can't show my feelings. — Reserved.

Dear Reserved: Affection (hugs, pats, hand-holds, kisses) is important in a family. Kisses are often not on the mouths at all except between husband and wife.

A human being lives in a kind of "solitary" cell, a solitude which is broken by the touch of another human hand.

Dear Doris: There was a big times of greeting and parting. Men have been known to kiss each other, and with a great deal of emotion. This expression is important.

Diplomats' Wives Abroad

Now to Do Entertaining

OTTAWA (CP) — Wives of Canadian diplomats abroad may be expected to help with entertaining, but they have long been relatively free of obligation evidently faced by some of their foreign counterparts.

For example, a directive circulated recently among the American diplomatic wives of junior officers of having to perform any specific duties while living at a post.

The U.S. wives will no longer be subject to orders from wives of ambassadors demanding help with a range of duties, from making sandwiches for parties. And what they don't do will no longer figure in performance evaluation reports carried out on their husbands.

Canadian wives of diplomats officially are not expected to take part in training programs for foreigners.

Canada's foreign service, nevertheless, there still exist some obligations—chiefly social ones whose frequency usually depends on the ambassador's wife. Younger members today accept it less readily in many cases than did their older colleagues.

Activities of Canadian wives today however, short of breaking or disgracing Canada's image, can be wide-ranging and left largely without inspect on their husband's chances for promotion, says a department spokesman.

Mrs. J. H. Taylor, president of the Foreign Service Officers' Wives Association, says advice is passed informally among wives "but all those 60 or over I find very wary of giving advice

Woman Appointed

To County Bench

TORONTO (CP) — York County's first woman judge is a specialist in real—estate law, who leads a social life as active as her professional one, and says law is her "real passion."

Janet Boland, was recently appointed to the county bench by former justice minister John Turner, and she takes over the position alongside the county's other judges.

Miss Boland, a native of Kitchener, Ont., says the recent appointment came as a surprise, adding she has no idea why she was chosen.

However, her legal colleagues have more definite opinions.

"One of her greatest qualities is an ability to understand people and to communicate with them; she has empathy," says one.

"This manifests itself in great personal charm. She also has much intellect and ability."

Mrs. Boland went to Waterloo College before she took law at Osgoode Hall, graduating in 1959.

She was the eldest of three daughters and was, she says, encouraged by her father to enter law—a decision she's never regretted.

"Law is my real passion, and because of it I have grown up a lot."

But not too much. She married John Boland, real estate manager of Crown Trust, in her graduating year and their son now are aged 10, 17 and 18.

However, her home and professional life, she also manages to belong to her local Liberal riding book-discussion club, to ski with her family and travel.

When her two eldest sons were young, she carried on her own law practice from her home, working part-time.

By the time they were in high school, she joined the firm of White, Bristol and Beck, and began her specialty in real—estate law. After 10 years she became a partner in the firm of Lang, Michener, Cranston, Farquhar, son and Wright, as a full partner.

Mrs. Boland says she is excited at the prospect of a new challenge and has much to learn as her job will cover a number of fields of law, including divorce, family law and criminal law.

But Mrs. Boland—who thought about the judgeship offer from Mr. Turner overnight, then accepted—says she has never been held back simply because she is a woman in a predominantly male field.

"There's a great advantage in being a woman in law. The men take extra care of me."

Ann Landers

Reader Takes Issue With 'Family Man'

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed Family Man Who Made The Switch got to me. He described himself as a bisexual—a one-time closet queen who opted to abandon the gay world, get married and raise a family. Horsefeathers dear. As a reasonably balanced, fairly content queen who doesn't care for closets, I take issue with Family Man. He's kidding himself. That wife of his is a mama figure, an apron to hide behind. As for his adorable children, you know I've got how they'll turn out.

A guy who cruised gay bars in college, likes fellas better than ladies and you'd better be sure he'll. Marrying that nice girl was a dirty trick, unless, of course, she's a little kinky. And it's a safe bet that she is.

All the literature on this subject, starting with the Kinsey Report, makes it clear that about one-third of the male population of this country has had at least one homosexual experience. This doesn't mean a guy is gay, but a male whose four years at college were filled with "bizarre homosexual escapades" is not about to throw a switch and be converted into a happy family man.—Pis-Curl Charlie

Dear Pis-Curl: Thanks for a direct line to the third world. Readers like you can do a great deal to educate the unaware—me included, and I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: I play cards with a group of women once a week. The stakes are low —nickel and dime poker. One of the girls cheats. She says she's in the pot and puts in more ante up, but she really bangs on to the money. Or she'll argue, "I'm making change," and throw a quarter in and takes back 40 cents.

We're all on to her tricks but nobody wants to say anything. She's a nice person except for this one fault. Can you suggest a way to get her to stop cheating without disgracing her?—Not Blind

Dear N.B.: The next time this "nice person" pulls one of her little tricks, call her on it—but save her face by saying you're not sure. Accidents can and won't have to do this more than one or three times before the problem is solved.

Dear Ann Landers: What can be done about a former brother-in-law who sends me hate cards for every occasion. This person is no kid, he's 70 years old. His recent contribution to my mental health was a birthday card. The contents pictured an angry gorilla in the act of destroying the world. The message: "Today is your birthday, but why worry about a mistake that happened so long ago!"

His valentine greeting was another tasteless horror. On the cover was the statement: "When I think of you, I lose control." On the inside was a picture of a little dog with a chagrined look. The caption under the dog's picture was: "If you don't believe me, you should see the rug."

This morning I received another card—no special occasion, just a dig: "Cheer up, no man is a total failure. You can always serve as a bad example."

Is there a law against this sort of harrassment? When I see those large envelopes I get very annoyed. Does a person have the right to upset another person this way?—Naples, Florida

Dear Nape: The man is obviously a dingbat, and a mean one at that. But he's not breaking the law. The solution is simple. Write across the envelope: "No Such Person At This Address," and return it unopened.

ADVOCATES VITAMINS

MONTREAL (CP) — Patrician Benson, director of the Tweedsmuir Centre in Ottawa, says vitamins and special diets are not a magic cure for many types of mental illness and learning problems. She recommends the megavitamin treatment based on the theory that schizophrenia is biochemical in nature and can be controlled by large doses of vitamins and a low-sugar diet.

"Since the treatment does no harm, we feel more doctors should examine the theory and at least give it a chance."

Family Cooking

Macaroni Is Good Substitute

By ALICE DENHOFF

When the usual division of your food budget starts to get out of line, do a little stretching. Turn to macaroni products to give it a helping hand and delight by your menus. Macaroni, spaghetti and noodle casseroles can stretch out meat leftovers into a nutritionally satisfying main course. Or combine pasta with fish, cheese or eggs for good meatless meals.

Macaroni products are an excellent source of the vital B vitamins and add some protein of their own to supplement that of the meat, fish, eggs or cheese.

Now for the first suggestion, a pleasing recipe:

TUNA-SAUCED SPAGHETTI

8 ounces spaghetti
1 cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 package (2¼ ounces) spaghetti sauce mix with mushrooms
2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna, drained

Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Meanwhile, saute celery in butter five minutes. Prepare sauce mix according to package directions. Add to celery; stir in tuna and heat. Serve tuna sauce over spaghetti. Serves four.

MUSHROOM SPAGHETTI

1 can (3 ounces) chopped broiled mushrooms, undrained, at room temperature
¼ pound Parmesan cheese, freshly grated (about 1¼ cups)

Cook spaghetti according to package directions.

Working quickly, return cooked and drained spaghetti to cooking pot together with undrained mushrooms, butter and cheese. Stir vigorously with a long wooden spoon until mixture is creamy in appearance. Serves four. Pass the pepper mill at the table. Immediately.

EAST COAST MACARONI AND CHEESE

2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
2¼ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups grated Cheddar
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Cook macaroni according to package directions.

Meanwhile melt butter in saucepan; quickly stir in flour. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly, until sauce boils one minute. Stir in seasonings and one cup of the cheese. Mix sauce with cooked macaroni; turn into 1½-quart casserole. Sprinkle with remaining cheese, bread crumbs and additional paprika, if desired. Bake in 375 degree-F. oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until bubbly hot. Good Lenten fare, incidentally!

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Are kids the best teachers for kids?

NO; the best teachers, of course, are those who are dedicated to teaching and who have been trained to teach. Sometimes a child can teach another child some of the important lessons of human behavior in a way that would be closed to an adult with the finest child training in the world. For instance, a child can teach another child to share his things and get that message across with an "inspect" a grownup would hesitate to use.

Should a married couple read aloud?

YES, a husband and wife might find new avenues of communication and understanding if they were to read aloud to each other regularly for enjoyment and entertainment. A husband, say, who might be somewhat self-conscious about talking over certain subjects with his wife, would perhaps be encouraged to put in words what is on his mind if the same sort of topic came up in a passage from a novel or play they were reading aloud.

Is it selfish to strive for security?

'NO; a person would be denying himself the opportunity to fulfill his basic needs if he failed to respond to his yearning for material as well as physical security. On the other hand, he is selfish—or perhaps neurotic, or worse—if, instead of doing whatever he is able to do to achieve his own sense of security, he demands that others directly or indirectly so that they would feel responsible to see to it that he is secure.

Quinte Church

Board Holds Annual Meet

The annual meeting of the church board of the Quinte Pastoral Charge was held at Trinity United Church with 18 members in attendance. Rev. Hendry was chairman for the meeting.

Following the reading of the minutes, and their approval, the secretary was asked to continue in office for another year. Mrs. Mac-Laren consented and proceeded to report on the business that followed.

Mr. Lyons will represent the pastoral charge at the meeting of the presbytery.

Mr. Lott, treasurer, presented the 1972 budget and the 1971 financial statement, both of which were approved by the board.

Mrs. Piercy presented the missionary and services report. A total of $2086.34 had been donated, a decrease from the previous year.

An offer to purchase the Lonsdale Church property had been received. This however, can not be considered, as by previous arrangements, the church cannot be sold.

The board approved of payment of the ladies fee for Rev. Hendry to attend the three-week course offered to ministers. The treasurer had the funds on hand to take care of the fee and will look forward it to Queen's University.

Nature Trail Pushes Northward Against Elements and Deadline

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

GILMOUR (Staff) — Trail blazing for Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail got off to a slow start last year, and organizers now are apprehensive about just how far they can go before the May 31 deadline rolls around.

Although workers are now proceeding at a fast pace, clearing brush, blazing trails and completing future research data time is running out. Work was to have commenced last November, but late winter weather conditions curtailed operations until the first days of January.

On this basis, field supervisors under project administrator Grant Harvey, staggered the number of bushmen to be hired. At present, there is a total of 56 formerly unemployed men working on the trail, as against the 79 originally slated for the job in this period.

"We're getting as many people working as possible," Mr. Harvey said during a tour of portions of the trail near here.

The original plan called for a 150-200 mile path stretching from Prince Edward County in the south to Algonquin Park in the north. However, because of anticipated conflict with plans of the Department of Lands and Forests, the trail steering committee Jan. 26 "deemed it critical enough to warrant cessation of any work in the area" near Lake St. Peter, a 60-mile strip which will leave an unplugged hole in the trail.

Work on this section has been discontinued "until further notice". A meeting between lands and forests representatives and the trail people is to be arranged by the end of February.

Another problem facing developers has been objections by private property owners to having the trailblazers use portions of their land. This situation has proved time-consuming for the organizers.

Most of the owners or renters of these properties have refused to allow crossing of their property because of their desire to avoid losses to cash crops, fear of vandalism or fire. In a few instances, they have indicated a desire for privacy or seclusion.

If permission to cross land in the nearby Coe Hill area isn't received soon, Mr. Harvey says that local hikers community of 200-300 residents will be bypassed. Thus they would lose a good portion of the tourist dollars they could expect from the influx of visitors to the region with completion of the recreation route.

The $125,000 grant awarded to the Belleville and District Employment Committee under the federal government's Local Initiatives Program provides salaries of $100 per week for workers, surveyors and supervisors employed in the project, plus 17 per cent of the total grant for working materials.

Transportation costs for workers have proved one of the most expensive problems . . . in fact, Mr. Harvey says that have gone slightly over their 17 per cent budget because of this. A full report has been forwarded to the organizing committee, and revised budgets for this month have been sent to supervisors.

It's a mammoth task preparing these trails. Much of the route lies in dense, virtually undeveloped bush country. At this time, 65 miles have been researched and found suitable, and almost 20 miles have been cleared.

Part of the trail will incorporate existing paths on abandoned roadways, while old railroad beds and private snowmobile clubs' pathways will also be used, when possible.

Side areas of the main stem of the trail will be made available for snowmobilers, horsemen and skiers, with guiding maps designed to lead hikers to historic sites and parks.

James Staveley, of the Canada Manpower office in Belleville and secretary-treasurer of the project, is predicting European-type hostels on the routes with night stopover points. This speculation can become a reality, he says, if more northern area dwellers start realizing the potential of such an attraction as the trail.

"This part of the country will really open up when the trail is completed," he says.

Organizers intend to produce a handbook for the area and additional staff will be required to research the historical and geological data.

Plans for this ambitious project were first announced early in November of 1971, but federal approval was necessary before work could actually begin.

This approval, plus a grant of $125,000, was given Dec. 10 by the then Minister of Manpower and Immigration, Otto Lang.

Branch offices were established in Picton and Gilmour, with supervisors and clerical staff put on salary. Project headquarters were established in Belleville, on West Bridge Street.

Future development and control of the trail could end up in the hands of either a federal agency or under control of a private association, the project administrator believes.

Right now, "we don't have a commitment. We can only produce what we can with what is available," Mr. Harvey says.

One solution forwarded to the project organizers is that one of the three local tourist associations may be considering sponsorship of at least part of the system.

If the three associations could work hand in glove, so to speak, the supervisors believe a main trail association could be formed with a number of local affiliated clubs.

Suggestions have been flowing into the Belleville offices offering advice as to what facilities would be appreciated by the public.

One person who signed his letter Nature Lover seems to think a spicy attraction would be beneficial.

A private area for nude swimmers should be established in a quiet pond somewhere he writes. According to the letter, this type of recreational facility has "been used in nature trails in a couple of the states and in some parts of Europe."

I know that many of the transient travellers, plus the outdoors type will certainly utilize the pond."

Mr. Harvey's report indicates even this suggestion will be given consideration as one of the "many possible variations" to meet interests of a wide range of visitors.

Report Condemns PE Home for Aged

PICTON (Staff) — Construction of a new Prince Edward County home for the aged was termed "an urgent necessity" yesterday in a grand jury's report to the Honorable Mr. Justice Henderson, presiding judge at supreme court hearings here this month.

The report, signed by Arlie Nelson, foreman of the jury, stated that residents of the present county home could not be evacuated safely in an emergency.

It was noted that the age and structural design of the building makes uniform heating throughout "virtually impossible" and the electrical system was described as "taxed to the limit."

Jurors agreed that washroom facilities at the home for the aged are inconvenient and inadequate causing "much concern to the staff."

Repairs to a washer in the laundry at the county home are not feasible because of the age of the machine.

The report revealed that a quality room provided for county home residents is inadequate and is accessible to only a small percentage of persons.

Comments concerning the county home closed with the observation that superintendent George Ross and his wife should be commended for their excellent work being done under present circumstances."

Board Decisions May Be Discussed

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Reporters and newcasters attending the bi-monthly meetings of the Prince Edward County Board of Education will be invited to meet with trustees to discuss what is considered public information.

The meeting was suggested when trustee John Hutchinson stated that Paul Burd, principal of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, had requested copies of board minutes.

Trustees then discussed how many elementary and secondary teachers should receive copies of the minutes.

Board member Edward Rutter commented that if the minutes were released to teachers it would be necessary to edit them first and added that the problem was one which had already discussed at length earlier.

He did, however, move that a committee should be named to meet with reporters in the event that there had been "new thinking" in this direction.

George Flower, immediate past chairman of the board, remarked that trustees have "nothing to hide" but are responsible for protecting persons' names contained in reports of minutes.

Director of education John McNeil said that staff members have been invited to attend board of education meetings and observed that if the 80 teachers came regularly to the meetings, one or two at a time, each staff member would be present about once every two years.

Teachers attending the meetings could berry first hand reports back to their colleagues.

Mr. McNeil said teachers have not yet acted upon this invitation to visit board meetings regularly.

The report criticized the county registry office for lack of facilities and suggested "immediate improvement" in several outlined areas.

It was stated that the building does not offer the necessary facilities to accommodate the staff and the continual growing demand for preservation of records and historical documents.

The building was considered deficient in washroom areas and in the lack of a vestibule.

Jurors commented that new storage areas are needed immediately and that "due to the cramped conditions it is impossible to maintain good housekeeping."

Equipment at the registry office was described as "outdated" and it was added that in date in 1972 there has been a 25 per cent increase in documents handled over the same period in 1971.

Roof leaks were observed as well as separation of end walls of the building.

The report praised conditions at the county office building and Shire Hall located by jurors this week.

The provincial court house also was reported in satisfactory condition and it was stated that the staff is "well satisfied with existing facilities

Camel 6-5 Favorite in Noah's Ark International Purse

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Walk A Mile has been installed as the favorite in today's inaugural $250 Noah's Ark International Camel Purse Race Contest.

Two hundred and fifty dollars?

Yes. You see, there's a catch between a yak bull and Asiatic camel.

Walk A Mile, to be ridden by Jockey Cheri Cooke, is quoted at 6-5 in the strictly unofficial odds as the result of drawing two heads. Weaponry, as the animals were schooled out of the starting gate.

Another camel, One Long Drink, died from heart fright of undetermined ailment. Owner Johnny Rivers, an animal trainer who brought the menagerie from Cazenovia, Mo., said the camel was valued at $2,000.

Rated as the 2-1 second choice in the early "Zoo Line" was Some On The Range, a buffalo who will be ridden by Luigi Gino.

Zon Zee Zee, a zebra filly in for the capitol camel, will be ridden by Anthony Agnello and was quoted at 7-2.

Rumbles' out the field are Llama Fleece, a llama and the only filly in the race, at 9-1, and One Large Hump, a zebu, at 8-1.

Llama Fleece, who was described by a Bowie spokesman as "a lover, not a runner," after finishing ninth on Wednesday's workouts, will be ridden by David Halverson. Nick Sisk will be aboard One Large Hump.

Eddie Elliot, the veteran starter of thoroughbreds, will open the gate and hope for the best at noon.

The three purse will go to the jockeys. The owner will receive $150, another $50 goes to the runner-up, and each of the other riders will get $20.

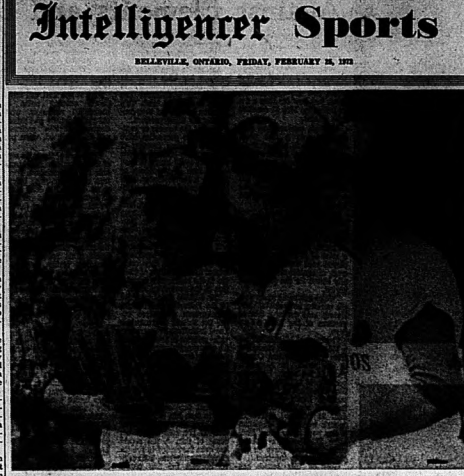
Boxing May Lose

WINNIPEG (CP) — A ban on professional boxing in Manitoba could be the result of a government-ordered investigation of a four-fight card that resulted in the death of one boxer and a claim by another that he took a dive after his life was threatened.

Larry Desjardins, Manitoba recreation minister, said Thursday the inquiry will also examine the actions of the Manitoba boxing and wrestling commission.

Mr. Desjardins said a ban on boxing in the province could result from the inquiry, under Judge Benjamin Hewak of the county court.



The report of the commission "might serve to guide us in any new legislation we might want . . . or it might result in us asking the attorney-general to lay certain charges," the minister said.

The inquiry will relieve the Manitoba boxing and wrestling commission of its responsibility to investigate the fights and commission chairman Norm Caston said he was glad to see the investigation.

Desjardins announced the inquiry following a cabinet meeting a few hours after the minister disclosed he had received a signed statement from heavyweight Jim Christopher of Detroit.

Christopher, knocked out in the second round of his bout with Canadian champion George Chuvalo, said he was visited at his hotel room by a unidentified man who told him the fight must end in two rounds if he wanted to get back to Detroit alive.

Christopher Feels He's Too Honest

DETROIT (AP) — "It's really going to be hard to get fights now," said boxer Jim Christopher, shaking his head. "Promoters won't want to have anything to do with me."

The retired unknown Detroit heavyweight, who claims he hasn't gotten far in the sport because he's too honest, suddenly has become quite prominent, by losing.

But Christopher, 32, says he took a dive because of a threat on his life.

"Someone came to my hotel and told me either I take a dive in the second round or else I would wind up in a box, meaning I'd wind up dead," he said Thursday at his Detroit apartment.

"What could I do?

". . . Chuvalo hit me with a hook to the body; and, when I pulled away, he hit me again. I didn't go down. I was on one knee.

"If it wasn't for that threat I'd have gotten up and beaten him."

The 5-foot-11, 202-pound Christopher, who works in an auto plant, said his manager, Eddy Metric of Milwaukee, had not arranged the bout but "if he was there, it (the threat) never would have happened."

On the same card, Al Sparks of Winnipeg defended his Canadian light-heavyweight championship with a knockout over Stewart Gray. Gray died Tuesday of head injuries.

Larry Desjardins, Manitoba recreation director, said there would be an investigation into the entire card.

"If I do something, I want to do it honest," said Christopher, who has won eight of 10 bouts since turning pro in 1963.

"If I can't box in my own way and honestly, then I don't want to do it. . . .

"He said he never before had been asked to take a knockout.

"I'm a Christopher, originally from Milwaukee, did say, 'You have a hell of a time trying to operate like they want you to.'

Asked who "they" were, he replied: "The big men with the money."

The muscular boxer said he arranged the bout with Chuvalo on his own and that he trained two months for it.

He said after the fight he got a phone call and was told to "get the hell out of here."

"I had a round-trip plane ticket, but I wasn't running from nobody. When I left I wasn't running."

Firth Twins Continue Ski Success

TORONTO (CP) — The Firths of Inuvik, N.W.T. continued to dominate in the women's competition of the Trans-Am cross country ski race series Thursday night.

Shirley Firth, 16, defeated Martha Rockwell, 25, of Putney, Vt., by more than six seconds.

Shirley's twin sister, Sharon, who was Wednesday's Trans-Am race at Cleveland, finished third in 16.36.4.

The twins have placed consistently in tilt top three in the Trans-Am races and last week's North American championships.

In the men's 10-kilometre, members of the Norwegian team took the two top spots. O'ymnic river medallist Magne Myrmo, 26, won in 36.23.6. Team-mate Audun Herland, 26, followed in 36.37.4.

Quebec Seniors Look Good

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Two rinks have a chance to catch up to Quebec and force a playoff after today's final round of the Canadian curlers curling championship, but few would give them odds.

Both challengers, British Columbia and Alberta, stood good chances of winning their final 11th round matches. However, Quebec was considered highly unlikely that Quebec would lose its game.

Quebec, skipped by Ken Welsh of Montreal, was on top with an 8-1 won-lost record after an 8-4 victory Thursday over New Brunswick.

Today Quebec plays Ontario, led by Stewart Brown of Guelph. Ontario is second to last with one victory and one loss at the expense of the last-place rink, Newfoundland, winless in nine starts.

Alberta, on the other hand, was expected to face stiffer competition in its match against Manitoba, tied for fourth with Nova Scotia, each with 6-3 records. British Columbia plays Saskatchewan, tied for seventh with Northern Ontario, each with 4-6 records.

For either B.C. or Alberta to gain a tie and force a playoff on Saturday, one of them would have to win its game and Quebec would have to lose to Ontario.

In other games for today's draw, P.E.I. plays Newfoundland, Nova Scotia plays Northern Ontario and New Brunswick has the bye.

When the 10th round ended, B.C. and Alberta were tied for second behind Quebec with 7-2 records with Manitoba and Nova Scotia tied for fourth at 6-3. New Brunswick was sixth with an even 5-5 and Saskatchewan and Northern Ontario tied for seventh at 4-5. P.E.I. was ninth at 2-7, Ontario 10th at 1-8 and Newfoundland last at 0-9.

A's Blue Prefers Yen To Finley's $50,000

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

While Harmon Killebrew is honeymooning with his fiddlers, Vida Blue says he might starting collecting his pay cheque in yen.

Blue, Minnesota Twins' 25-year-old slugger who has hit 215 home runs and driven in 1,368 runs in his major league career, signed his 1971 contract Thursday for an estimated $125,000. This would be $15,000 more than he made in the 1971 American League season ,when he clubbed 28 homers and knocked in 119 runs.

Blue, meanwhile, was born in Mansfield, La., and said to be seeking $92,000, while Oakland Athletics' owner Charlie Finley has offered $50,000.

And according to a report in the San Francisco Chronicle, if he can't come to terms with Finley, Blue might seek employment in Japan.

"Yes, I've been talking to teams in Japan," the Chronicle quoted Blue's lawyer, Robert Gerst, as saying. "They are interested, if we can't reach an agreement with Finley.

Blue earned $14,750 last season, when he had a 24-8 record, 1.82 earned-run average and 301 strikeouts. He won both the Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards in the American League.

Other than Killebrew, most of the major signings Thursday involved pitchers.

Chicago White Sox signed Tom Bradley, a 15-game winner last season; Detroit Tigers came to terms with Mike Kilkenny of Bradford, Ont., expected to be a candidate for the Tigers' starting rotation, and Kansas City Royals signed Dick Drago, who won 17 games in 1971.

Veteran reliever Eddie Watt, 3-1 with 11 saves, signed with Baltimore Orioles, while Gregory Calvert signed with Houston Astros and Ross Grimsley with Cincinnati Reds.

Morton, the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1970, has yet to sign and met with general manager Jim Fanning to what Fanning reported was a "good session."

VIDA BLUE

St. Louis added seven players to the fold, but that leaves nine unsigned, including regulars Matty Alou, Ted Simmons, Joe Torre and Ted Simmons as well as pitchers Steve Carlton, Jerry Reuss and Don Shaw.

And Montreal Expos opened their training camp with four pitchers missing, including ace starter Ceri Morton, who is still unsigned.

Outfielder Keith Lampard, meanwhile, signed his contract, reducing the number of unsigned Expos to four. Others who remain are Mike Marshall, outfielder Rusty Staub and infielder Ron Hunt.

The three pitchers yet to report either were en route or had permission to check in late.

Unsigned Orioles include 20-game winners Jim Palmer, Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar, along with Brooks Robinson, Boog Powell, Dave Johnson, Don Buford, Paul Blair and Merv Rettenmund.

Unsigned Dodgers are pitchers Al Downing, Don Sutton, Jim Brewer and Mike Strahler and infielders Bobby Valentine and Jim Lefebvre.

Old Man Green Rolls for Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Green, like that ol' man river, just keeps rollin' along.

Green, who has the distinction of having played professional basketball in three decades, became off the bench with six minutes left Thursday night and sparked Cincinnati Royals to a 108-97 National Basketball Association victory over Buffalo Braves.

In the only other NBA game, Golden State Warriors defeated Detroit Pistons 118-108. In the lone American Basketball Association contest, the Floridians defeated Denver 136-114.

Green, 38, entered the game with the Royals ahead by only 85-83. He scored six points and added three assists down the stretch, teaming with Nate Archibald on four fast-break baskets.

Now in his 13th pro season, the 6-foot-4, 218-pound Green who broke into the NBA with the New York Knicks in the 1959-60 season.

Archibald led all scorers with 28 points. Jim McMillian and Sam Lacey contributed 26 points and 15 rebounds. Cincinnati now has won four straight.

Golden State trailed 55-43 at the half, but came back strongly in the second half to defeat Detroit, outscoring the Pistons 34-22 in the final period.

Wings One Win Closer To Beating Out Leafs

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings were so far out of the National Hockey League playoff picture in late November not even Jimmy The Greek would have laid a $5 bill on their remote chances of making the post-season playoffs.

But if the Las Vegas odds-makers and anyone else with hope and charitable connections produced the non-existent bill or even corresponding coinage, he'd be in line for a fantasy payoff when the season ends April 2.

That's if games away for the Wings and only 15 for Toronto Maple Leafs, with whom they are battling for the fourth and final playoff berth in the NHL's East.

The Wings took a big step in the right direction Thursday night, blanking Vancouver Canucks 2-0 to move two points ahead of Toronto. They now have 63 points in 61 games to the Leafs 61 points in 63 games.

Elsewhere, Buffalo Sabres continued their cut-up with Chicago, scoring four late goals in a 5-3 win over the West Division Black Hawks, and Montreal Canadiens took an early 3-0 lead en route to a 4-2 victory against Minnesota North Stars.

The Wings had little indication of who was boss at the season's start. Then coach John Wilson took over from Doug Barkley and immediately let it be known who was calling the shots.

He minimized the days players got to relax, peskogged the practice sessions and turned the Wings into playoff contenders.

With Wings riding high, in fourth, and the Toronto position getting worse, Detroit appears headed for a playoff spot for the second time in the last six seasons.

Thursday night it was veteran Red Berenson and rookie Marcel Dionne supplying the offence in front of Al Smith's fourth shutout. The Wings have lost only one of their last 18 games in the Olympia where they play nine of their remaining games.

Rookie Martin fired the winner, his 40th of the season, while veteran goaltender Roger Crozier survived a shaky start to turn back 37 Chicago shots.

Chicago coach Billy Reay said the unsafe, defensive-minded Hawks had contributed to their own downfall in successive losses to Buffalo, steering the goals past their own goaltender in a 3-1 loss at Chicago Wednesday night and one Thursday night.

"But even so, we had enough good chances to score," he added. "Roger Crozier played a real good game . . . for Buffalo."

Judge Drouin and Bill Goldsworthy rallied the homestown North Stars, but it fell short when Claude Larose scored the fourth Montreal goal into an open net midway into the third period with Minnesota goalie Gerry Desjardins out of the play.

Although the Canadiens hold a 46-28 edge in shots for the game, it was goaltender Ken Dryden who pulled them through with several acrobatic saves late in the game.

Cincinnati Supports NHL Rink

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati city council resolved Thursday night to support a group seeking a National Hockey League franchise for the city and consider construction of a 17,000-seat arena to be built on the Ohio riverfront.

The resolution called for the city to give its support to a group proposing a $15-million structure adjacent to Riverfront Stadium under the city's urban renewal program.

Brian Heekin, representing the investment group, said the city would be asked to arrange bonds for the construction but that all costs would be born by the investment group.

Heekin, his brother Albert Heekin III and William O. De-Witt Jr., son of the former owner of Cincinnati Reds National League baseball team, were identified as heading the group. Heekin declined to name the other investors.

Cincinnati Gardens, which now houses Cincinnati Swords of the American Hockey League and Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association, seats 10,000 persons. NHL requirements call for a minimum of 15,000 seats, Heekin said.

Soviets Fire Coach

MOSCOW (AP) — Anatoly Tarasov, the world's most successful hockey coach, has been dismissed as mentor of the Soviet national squad.

The surprise decision by the presidium of the Soviet Hockey Federation came on the heels of hockey at Sapporo, Japan, two straight Olympic gold medal in weeks ago.

A brief announcement by Tass said the replacements of Tarasov and Arkady Chernyshov, as senior coach, had been made "in preparation for the 1972 world championships."

Tass said Tarasov had been replaced by former goalie Nikolai Puchkov, 41, now coach of the Leningrad Army Club. Chernyshov was succeeded by Vsevolod Bobrov, a former crack forward on the Soviet teams of the 1950s.

Tarasov won nine straight world titles for Russia and three consecutive Olympic gold medals, including the most recent in Sapporo, Japan.

He was dropped once before in June, 1969, following two Soviet losses to the Czechs at the world championships and after discussing action for delaying a nationally televised match over a disputed penalty call.

McLeod, who coached Canada's national team for five years before it was derailed in 1970, said both the Russians were getting old. "But they still are avid hockey men."

Murray Williamson, coach of the United States Olympic hockey team, said in Minneapolis dismissal of Tarasov, "is like replacing Vince Lombardi with a rookie football coach."

"Without Tarasov, Russia will be like Green Bay was without Lombardi. For the hockey teams of Canada, the United States, Czechoslovakia and Sweden, it's great. A brand new ball game."

Trenton Track Top Drawer

TRENTON — There will be no shortage of drawing cards from the ground on up in a Saturday invitational track meet held at CFB Trenton's fourth side recreation centre.

Some of Ontario's top male high school athletes will be on hand for the competition, which gets under way at noon with entries from Toronto's Sir John A. Macdonald, Oshawa O'Neill, Peterborough's Thomas A. Stewart, Orillia, Trenton Secondary School and selected Bay of Quinte district athletes.

The program consists of 6-yard hurdles, 40, 600, 880, and mile runs, high jump, shot put, and sprint and mile relays in midget, junior and senior classes.

The major team rivalry should be provided by Sir John A. Macdonald — Toronto District track champions — and Trenton, whom the Toronto school beat 91-77 in a January meet.

Individuals bearing watching will be Toronto sprinters Randy Buckley — an all-Ontario winner at 400 metres in 1971 — and Doug Drake, OFSSAA champion in 100 and 200 metres last year.

There could also be some airborne excitement, with Caledon hyrsville Bobcat record-holding high jumper Frank Curtis from Orillia out to break his six-foot, five - inch best.

Chargers Snap Quinte Streak

After a tepid, two - loss start, Centennial's senior basketball Chargers are making a torrid bid for top honors in the Bay of Quinte conference's western division.

Thursday the senior Chargers won their ninth straight game by handing Quinte Saints their first loss in 10 games, a 75-61 setback.

David Best paced the winners with 22 points, with Vahe Parmakseian hooping 19 and Randy Stark 18.

Meanwhile, eastern division leaders Moira Trojans maintained their froth with a 67-61 overtime win over BCI seniors. Moira's Al Bender was the game's top scorer with 15 points.

BCI junior Rick Bell pumped in 20 points to pace the Collegians to an 86-57 win over Moira, while Gary Adams' 16-point effort led BCI midgets to a 44-37 decision.

ville Bobcats' manager Jim Matthews to have mixed feeling about his club wrapping up their semi-final series on the road tonight.

"We, the gate's all right — but I'd rather have it over tonight in Oshawa," Matthews stressed. "Sure, it'd be tourh for Oshawa to win there in a row, but two of those are in their own rink."

The Belleville Juniors, who have drawn some 3,000 paid customers to their two home playoff appearances, take a commanding 3-1 series edge into Oshawa tonight against the Grushmen, second-place finishers in the six-team Eastern Ontario Junior-B league.

If they don't win tonight, the Bobcats will be host to Oshawa in an 8 p.m. Sunday Memorial Arena game. If Belleville does wind up their series tonight, their league playoff foe against Peterborough winning Peterborough would depend on the Lions, Matthews explained.

"Our league has to have a winner decided by March 12, but I understand Peterborough is having trouble booking ice."

The Lions swept their semi-final series with Kingston Frontenacs in four straight games.

Littler Leads

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Golf's glamor gang — Nicklaus, Trevino, Palmer, Player — couldn't dent par at the beginning of Jackie Gleason's $250,000 Inverrary Classic but Gene Littler shot a record 65 for the first-round lead and Australian Bruce Crampton was close behind at 67.

Telephone calls had to be made to muster the 15 persons required by the BMSA constitution as a quorum before the meeting could get under way and re-elect Bob Ryckman as Association president.

Hugh Sutherland will be vice - president representing East Hill teams, and Bert Trice West Hill vice-president. Ted Sprackett was chosen secretary, Al Trent equipment manager, and Ken Trice statistician.

A major constitution change stipulated that OASA players will only be permitted to play in the house league as a team in the division above their age group.

Kilkenny Signs

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Left-handed pitcher Mike Kilkenny, who has a good shot at becoming Detroit's fourth starter, signed his 1972 contract Thursday. Kilkenny, 27, a native of Bradford, Ont., was Tiger's rookie of the year in 1969.

Ron Hayes, the club's 17-year-old Canada Games silver medallist, is a shoo-in to retain his Ontario bantamweight (123-pound title, but is aiming to improve his personal best three-lift total of 565 pounds to 575, the qualifying standard for May's Canadian senior championships in St. John's, Newfoundland.

"Dean Fitzgerald has a good chance to finish in the top three in the paperweight and Gary Ferguson should be up there in the 165-pound class," predicted coach Carr-Braint.

Competition begins at 10 a.m. Saturday in Moira's main gymnasium, and will run continuously with the school cafeteria open for the convenience of spectators.

meet will draw 65 competitors, including 14 from the host Belleville club.

Reid's Pull Playoff Upset

Reid's Dairy sat heavier on the see-saw in recording a Quinte Hockey League playoff upset Thursday night.

The Dairymen, last - place finishers with only three wins in 14 regular - schedule games, downed second - place Central Tool while runaway league-winning Belvedere Hotelmen were trimming Stinson's Connection 9-2 in the first games of best-of-seven playoff semi-finals.

Reid's took the lead twice on goals by Paul Goodfellow and Ron Post, only to have the Cabbies tie the score each time on goals by Kevin Allen and Ted Schwager, then take the lead on Andy Prudden's goal.

Goals by Goodfellow, MacKay, and Post in the last nine minutes of play gave the Dairymen the win.

Jack Francis, John Baker, and Doug Hallam placed the Belvedere win with a pair of goals each, with singles coming from Bill Goodfellow and Larry Marshall.

Ted Waite's goal after only 27 seconds of play had given Stinson's an early lead, 9mons got the other goal for the losers.

Flyers' Acomb Ekes Out Title

Acomb's league-leading 37 goals and 41 assists gave him a one-point edge over Orillia's Gary Milroy, who had 36 goals and 31 assists for 77 points. Close behind was Barrie's Ron Robinson with 76 points.

Belleville Quintet point-getter was Al Ferguson whose 30 goals and 19 assists ranked him 15th in the league.

Belleville goalie Steve Rezo's 4.73 goals-against average was seventh - best among 11 league goalies, none of whom played as many as Rezo's 38 games. Gali's Sonny Pennington celebrated his first full year with the Hornets by winning goaltending honors with a 3.31 average, edging out Barrie's Lloyd Vaughan who was 3.35.

Belleville's Ralph Plane was the official league "bad boy", compiling 117 minutes in penalties, two more than Owen Sound's Mickey Kay.

Legal 'Speed' Use Pared

OTTAWA (CP) — In an unprecedented crackdown on legal drugs, the federal health department Thursday virtually banned amphetamines, which are being gobbled up by millions of Canadians as a stimulant, as a wake - up aid and as a diet crutch.

Last year in Canada, there were 19,300,000 prescriptions filled for the drugs—which are also manufactured illegally and sold as "speed."

But after Sept. 1—when physicians will have had time to warn patients off the drugs, or to new ones—the drug can be legally prescribed only for the treatment of two relatively rare childhood illnesses.

At the same time, Health Minister John Munro announced similar clamps on the use of methadone, a synthetic drug used in the treatment of heroin addiction.

Aiming at a June 1 deadline, Mr. Munro will insist that only authorized physicians, operating through specialized clinics, be able to prescribe the drug after getting permission from Ottawa.

What The Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, Feb. 26

Aries (March 21-April 19): Broaden life with new cultural interests. Be wary of extraordinarily well-behaved young people—like as not they've been into mischief.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Inspiration comes for creative efforts; music, the arts, anything that strikes you as beautiful. Accept quiet moods.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Listen to advice from experienced people. You needn't duplicate their choices or behavior. It's a great day for speculative buying of rare objects, if you're a collector.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Wear your brightest attire, show good humor, despite some reserve. You find added resources, more energy, but stay on the surface—light and fanciful.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Consult the institutions which offer stability, your habits, personal and business connections, and of what you can do to protect your best interests.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Expert advice has no equal. Be sure of your adviser's credentials: get a second opinion if you want. Family matters need thought and planning.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Take on the worst first; let your mate attend the lighter side of the chores. Things brighten by midday. Celebrate in the evening.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Wish your wishing and guessing, you'll never quite find out the whole story. Impulses improve leisure time if you don't plan a tight schedule.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Sports, hobbies bring a chance to work off tensions. Watching associates' achievements shows a way to improve your own lot.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Being adventurous becomes you—get out of your shell and risk the spotlight. Older people are helpful—while some young ones need your help.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Try out & pet theory; make decisions and execute promptly. Don't be tempted to make last-minute revisions which don't go well. Be persistent.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Family life brings closer co-operation, end of long-standing flaws in household arrangements, better understanding. Social activity is the best kind of celebration.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Spades. North leads the king of hearts and shifts to the A-2 of clubs. South playing the five and then the nine. You win with the king and cash the A-K of spades. South discarding the ten of diamonds on the second trump lead. How would you play the hand?

	♠ J10985 2 ♥ 6 ♦ 8 ♣ KQ763
	♠ Q7432 ♥ A1083 ♦ 7 ♣ AJ

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Five Clubs and North leads a club. South wins and returns a club, North following suit. How would you play the hand?

	♠ K4 ♥ AJ10 ♦ AJ ♣ KJ10876

1. Obviously, North is angling for a club ruff, and the goodness in stop it if you can. Considering North's first three plays, his hand probably looks something like this: Spade QXKJ Heart AKQ Diamond 654 Club A3

If you now ruffed a heart and returned the jack of spades, North would win and put South on lead with a die and to get the club return that would sink the contract.

To prevent this, you must lead the queen of hearts from dummy and, instead of ruffing it, discard a diamond. The effect of this play is that you end up losing two heart tricks — instead of a heart and a diamond — but, far more important than that, you make the contract.

Whatever North returns, you have a smooth ride home. Suppose he returns a diamond. You ruff, force out the queen of spades, ruff any re-entry, draw North's last trump and easily make the rest. The queen of hearts play, called a scissors coup, severs communication between North and South and makes the contract indefensible.

2. Cash the A-K of diamonds and continue with the K-A of spades. Then lead a heart and finesse the ten. When North wins, he is bound to hand you the connection with a heart or diamond return, while if he leads a spade instead, he cannot do so without establishing at least one spade trick in dummy to take care of your other heart loser.

Tomorrow: Faith.

Unionists Not Afraid Of Courts

OTTAWA (CP) — Union officials seem unperturbed that the treasury board wants to prosecution them in connection with walkouts by essential workers in the current strike of airport controllers.

"They'll have to prove their case first and that may not be easy," was the comment Thursday of Gary Myers, an official of Local 2228, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Mr. Myers is among eight union officials and 144 union members who have been named in an application by the treasury board to take legal action under the Public Service Staff Relations Act.

The independent public service staff relations board will decide if the case has merit to court following hearings that have yet to be scheduled.

If convicted, the union officials would face fines of up to $500. The rank-and-file workers could be fined up to $100. The treasury board also wants to prosecute the local, and conviction could mean a fine of $150 for each day illegal action continued.

Lost Pilot From U.S. Likes Visit

PORT DOVER, Ont. (CP) — When the weather's right, William Edward Bowman plans to land his small airplane down the road about two miles in a farmer's field and take off for home in Latrobe, Pa.

"Heck, I don't mind spending a few days here," said the 52-year-old metallurgist. "The people are just great."

"They even brought me some birthday cake. I didn't have too much time to celebrate my birthday Wednesday."

He left Latrobe airport in his Nooney Mark 21 at 3:25 p.m., hit a storm, was refused landing permission at five United States airports and then finally made an emergency landing two hours later on a lonely side road near here.

When he first hit the storm, airports monitoring him on radar told him to head north.

All refused to give him permission to land because his flying licence does not permit him to use instruments.

To Your Good Health

Any Person May Get Lice

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please reply as soon as possible. A case of crabs has developed among some of my friends. We share our clothes, and the like.

The five of us are best friends, all under age, and can't possibly be a doctor without our parents finding out. We'd be murdered.

Two of my friends already have the crabs and know it. Last night I was checking things out and an almost positive I have them, too.

What can be done to get rid of them? What about clothes and bed things? Is there any medicine we can purchase to kill them?—Five Frightened Teenagers

Whakhya mecka—"we'll be murdered"—Acquiring a crop of crab lice may not make you one of the smartest people in the world, but it doesn't mean that you have committed any sins, either.

If one of my offspring happened to get crabs, I'd see that he got proper treatment and tell him to use his own good sense to avoid any more. But it wouldn't be any big deal, and I don't see why you should be in such a tizzy about it.

It was only a few weeks ago that I wrote on this same topic, and warned how crab lice spread. But as usual, some folks won't pay attention to any advice until they get in trouble themselves.

Crab lice used to be found primarily among people who weren't too clean, but the fact is that anybody can get crab lice, and once you have them, soap and water won't get rid of them.

The reason: the lice lay their eggs by attaching them with a very strong glueline substance to hair shafts (mainly in the genital region, for one). Lice, other vagines for other kinds of lice). You can't wash off these eggs. You may get rid of the original bugs, but in a few days the eggs hatch and you have the whole thing over again.

Physician commonly use a product called Kwell, which is obtainable only on prescription, and is highly dependable in killing both lice and the eggs. That's what I recommend.

There are drugstore preparations which you can try if you want to, but follow instructions carefully, and, if you don't succeed, go to your doctor.

This epidemic of crab lice (and it seems to be a real epidemic) is attributed in large part to sweeping clothes, and the "hippie culture" in which they are readily switched from person to person in so-called "communes." The bugs can (and do!) hide in seams of garments or in beds. Laundering will get rid of the lice but it only takes one wearing to deposit the bugs in a pair of pants, and presto, (maybe) by the next wearer to get crabs.

So stop living pants! sticken. But also stop sweeping clothes "and the like," whatever you mean by that. Direct body contact, obviously, can pass crabs along, but so can clothes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there anything besides heart disease that can cause chest pain? I am 14.—R. T.

Certainly—digestive troubles, strains, muscle spasms, and a lot of things you are doubtless too young to experience, it indeed you ever do. Fear and worry—particularly about having heart trouble—can cause a lot more pains than you might think.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for adults to develop thrush the same as babies have?—Mrs. M. T.

It's not common but I have known of cases.

One Third Are Idle

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto union leaders say 8,500 of the 25,000 union members involved in the city's construction business are unemployed, the highest number in more than 10 years.

Alex Main, business manager of the Toronto Building and Construction Trades Council, said in an interview Thursday the situation is "revolting."

Statistics released by some unions showed: 912 of 4,000 carpenters off work; 1,300 of 4,500 plumbers and steamfitters, and 2,000 of 5,000 laborers.

Eric Bartley, president of the Canadian Construction Association and chairman of the board of Frankel Structural Steel Ltd., in Toronto, said there has been a decline in tender calls for construction in the manufacturing and industrial field.

U.S. Court Protects Vagrants

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man's right to stroll the streets or to be a "vagrant" free of being off his wife, was upheld Thursday by the Supreme Court in a blow at vagrancy laws across the United States.

Borrowing from the thoughts of Whitman and Thoreau, Justice Williams O. Douglas led the court in a 7-to-0 vote invalidating a Jacksonville, Fla., ordinance and in extolling the "unwritten amenities" of life.

The Florida city, like cities and states throughout the U.S., made it a crime for "rogues and vagabonds," for "common drunkards" and "common night-walkers" and for "common railers and brawlers" to show themselves in public.

The proscribed list, a remnant of 14th-century England, included all sorts of other undesirables as well. Right up there with them under the heading of "vagrants" punishable by up to 75 days in jail and $65 fine were "persons able to work but habitually living upon the earnings of their wives or minor children."

Such laws offend the U.S. constitution, Douglas said, because they give the police arbitrary powers to make arrests and because the ordinary citizen doesn't know if what he is doing is legal or not.

B.C. Fugitive Caught in Australia

VANCOUVER (CP) — Raymond Joseph Palmer, on the RCMP list of Canada's most-wanted men, was charged in Sydney, Australia, Thursday with illegal possession of firearms and was remanded in custody to March 2, Australian officials reported in a telephone interview.

Palmer escaped from the British Columbia penitentiary in January, 1970, while serving a six-year sentence for possession of stolen bonds.

Lengthy Ending

Fourscores that manage to survive in final competition in the 67-car Roy and Gabriel Men's Curling Bonspiel this weekend had better be saving a little extra stamina in reserve.

Finals of the three-day event at Belleville's Quinte Curling Club Sunday night will be 12-end affairs for the first-event Corby Distillery, second-event Quinte Transport, third event Bell Canada and fourth event Belle Cleaners Trophies.

Competition, which began Friday afternoon at Trenton's CFB and ends clubs as well as the Belleville club, has attracted entries from Cornwall, Tavara, Uniondale, Downsview, Kingston, as well as area clubs.

Rinks are guaranteed three games in the knockout event, with tonight's games being 10-enders, followed by eight-end games Saturday.

MORTGAGES

Special deals
at Associates

If you're buying your home you're eligible for a special Home Improvement Loan. Or, if you want more you need cash.

Associates may be in a position to offer you a better deal. Lower rates, longer terms. Come in and see how.

Instalment you can borrow is limited only by the equity you have in your home. For example, if $15,000, maybe $20,000 or more, depending on the value of your home and the size of your mortgage. Or, if you need a second car, a boat, or any other big purchase, we'll be glad to help you finance it.

Judge Reverses Acquittal of Edmonton Resident, Saying Police May Order People Off Public Land

EDMONTON (CP) — The protection of visiting dignitaries may require police officers to order persons off public property, an Alberta Supreme Court justice said Thursday.

Mr. Justice H. G. Johnson said failure of proper protection "might be harmful" not only to the dignitary, but to the "country at large."

His ruling was handed down as the Court of Appeal reversed the acquittal of Edgar Knowlton of Edmonton on a charge of wilfully obstructing a police officer. Sentencing, on a date not announced, will be made in provincial Judge's court.

Provincial Judge C. R. Rennie found Knowlton not guilty Dec. 17 of assaulting a police-man during the visit to Edmonton last fall of Soviet Premier A. Kosygin.

Knowlton, told by a police officer he could not walk down a hill near the hotel where Mr. Kosygin was a guest, demanded to see a written law prohibiting him from walking there and then pushed his way between two officers, part of a 25-man security squad on duty at the time.

Judge Rennie ruled that the policeman was not enforcing any law and was not executing his duty by keeping Knowlton off the sidewalk.

Mr. Justice Johnson said it was a situation where a "controversial person" - was a controversial person" - was a problem.

"Must we wait until this man is assaulted or some other hostile act is visited upon him before the police can interfere?"

The justice said it was significant to the case that Mr. Kosygin had been assaulted in Ottawa before arriving in Edmonton.

Flu Did Not Kill Victims

SANDY LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Coroner W. G. Redmond said an inquest Thursday that three persons who died during an influenza epidemic did not actually die of influenza.

Dr. Robinson of Dryden, Ont., was consulted during the opening of an inquest into the death of Mrs. Miki Lisiakiew, 30, of nearby North Spirit Lake.

Mrs. Lisiakiew, he said, apparently died after a long history of tuberculosis and consumption. She was one of three persons reported to have lost their lives in an epidemic that swept the Deer Lake Cree reserve, about 600 miles northwest of Thunder Bay, last December and January.

Dr. Robinson also mentioned very sudden deaths of the other two persons who died — James Lisiakiew, 30, in relation to Mrs. Lisiakiew, died in hospital on Jan. 10. He said the evidence at the inquest would indicate that Mr. Lisiakiew died of a heart attack.

Mary Real, 72, had been treated by nurses at Deer Lake for flu, he said, on Dec. 21. She was found dead Jan. 7, but was buried by relatives without any coroner being informed.

"My feeling would be we can only presume his lady died of a heart attack, cardio-vascular disease or she may have had pneumonia," said Dr. Robinson.

"We have no knowledge of her calling for help. If she did have a heart attack, it would have been sudden."

Dr. Robinson said evidence would also be presented indicating that there were plans to fly Mrs. Lisiakiew out of North Spirit Lake to hospital at Red Lake, 140 miles south of Sandy Lake, on Dec. 23, but the flight was delayed until the next day because of bad weather.

Central issue in the inquest is the adequacy of health services to meet health services to the 1,200 Indians living on the reserve. The Union of Ontario Indians has claimed it took the health services of Ontario more than two weeks to get a doctor into the area, despite repeated requests.

Quebec Peace Officers To Vote on Agreement

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking Quebec peace officers will meet today to accept or reject a tentative agreement reached Thursday between their union representatives and the Quebec public service department.

Jean - Paul L'Allier, public service minister, said Thursday in Quebec City the agreement was reached after a 12-hour bargaining session in the provincial capital Wednesday and Thursday.

Jobless Raid UIC Building

BATHURST, N.B. (CP) — The mayor of this North Shore city of 17,000 asked the New Brunswick justice department for additional police protection Thursday in the wake of a demonstration against alleged delays in the payment of unemployment insurance benefits.

Two police officers were taken up and a third received hospital treatment for a leg injury as protesters broke down locked doors and smashed windows after congregating at the Unemployment Insurance Commission office.

Mayor Dr. W. S. Orser told the justice department he felt "additional reinforcements were needed to maintain order in the city but there was no word whether anything would be done to bolster police strength.

A crowd estimated by organizers at about 1,000 held a preliminary meeting at Bathurst College, some travelling up to 125 miles to participate. Acting city police chief J. J. O'Dell said about 800 continued on to the UIC office.

The staff was evacuated and the building was locked after the group arrived. Police were standing guard inside.

"We were completely unprepared for what happened," said Chief O'Dell. . . . They just went berserk."

He said police had gone out of their way to direct traffic as the demonstrators marched through the town and had expected a peaceful demonstration.

No arrests were made as the protesters scuffled with police and smashed glass doors at both the front rear of the building but the chief said he was "quite certain" charges would be laid. "We recognized some of them."

He said one RCMP officer had been taken within the stolen and another officer had "had his head put in the door" after he was pulled outside the office.

The commission said the office will be closed today and Friday while employees work on claims that will be given priority for work. Files will be guarded around the clock by RCMP, it said.

The building was occupied for more than two hours after midnight last week. Police broke down the doors to clear the building and 13 persons were arrested. They are to appear in court here March 7 on charges of unlawful assembly and mischief.

Following the first demonstration, Mr. Orser said a number of measures to improve communications between the staff and the claimants at the commission's offices in Bathurst, Campbellton and Moncton, N.B. The commission also said it would open additional branch offices in areas of high unemployment.

PM Opposes Abortion On Demand

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau Thursday took a strong stand against abortion on demand after hearing an appeal for repeal of Canada's abortion laws.

Answering a woman who represented a local women's liberation group, Mr. Trudeau said that "at some point, an abortion is a killing."

The quietly emotional exchange capped a question-and-answer session at a crowded town meeting organized by the Liberal party here.

Mr. Trudeau received a brief at the start of the meeting from a women's liberation group led by Rosalie Gardesi of Sault Ste. Marie.

Mrs. Gardesi later pressed the prime minister to take further action to repeal the abortion laws.

Mr. Trudeau replied that the government has liberalized abortion legislation by allowing committees of three doctors in hospitals to rule on requests for abortion for health reasons.

"I don't know if your slogan is free abortion on demand . . . but quite frankly it is not mine," Mr. Trudeau said.

He said that there is sometimes justified. People were killed in war or in self-defence. But a man who kills in self-defence must justify his action before the courts. A woman seeking an abortion also should have to answer for her actions.

Some women claim that they have rights over their own bodies.

"But the fetus is not your body—it's somebody else's body," he said.

Traffic Moves In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A week of transportation turmoil and business slowdown ended with optimism today as traffic flows improved and hundreds of workers slowly cleared snow from city streets under court order.

Meanwhile, Jean Cournoyer, Quebec labor minister, told the Devoir Thursday that the labor dispute between the city and the civic workers union may be resolved before the weekend.

Jobs for All Turner's Aim

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Turner and Employment Minister Donald Macdonald will meet provincial counterparts for the first time Thursday on how they can co-operate their new cabinet jobs.

Mr. Turner, formerly in justice, and Mr. Macdonald, in defence, moved into their present jobs last month's cabinet shuffle.

MPs from both sides of the House followed the ministers' statements on a give-and-take basis on a variety of topics as the Commons continued debate on the budget Thursday's throne speech.

The debate on the policy-setting speech opened Wednesday.

Mr. Turner defined his new task briefly: To create a job for every Canadian who wants one.

The economic indicators are encouraging, he said, but he added:

Statistics are no substitute for jobs. No economy works as well as it should if there are people who want to work and want it and can't find it."

Mr. Macdonald said he has one need to speed his department's review of energy matters, and hopes to bring statements to reviews to the House this year.

Resource policy had to be fitted into a larger industrial picture, including economic performance, social concerns and social sensitivity in northern development.

On the issue of foreign ownership, Mr. Macdonald said he regrets government action on the issue until government proposals rather than over-all limits on investment in resource industries.

But plans would be judged on whether they were helping the cause of demonstrating its contribution to our Canadian identity, to the well-being of Canadians.

That primary policy indicator, a shift from the view of former energy minister Joe Greene, was last year cited the need for a comprehensive government policy on foreign investment in resources.

That was after the government's decision to sell 25 per cent of Polysar and 50 per cent of Petrofina to Power Corp. Interests.

Mr. Macdonald said the government would continue to sell gas and oil produced in Canada which is clearly surplus to domestic security and commercial requirements.

The government has been negotiating with Washington for easier access to U.S. markets for Canadian energy barred completely—and for oil and gas.

Bruce Hopes

All Peninsula May Be Park

LION'S HEAD, Ont. (CP) — Almost a third of scenic Bruce Peninsula, jutting 50 miles into Lake Huron, may come under provincial government ownership.

A Bruce Peninsula planning board meeting was told this Thursday night.

And it could be only the first step toward total government ownership of the peninsula, which varies from five to 15 miles wide, as some councillors of the four townships involved fear.

"Deep in our hearts we feel it will become a national park—we don't fear but we feel it seems that it's here," said Lynn Watson, St. Edmund Township councillor.

The board was told a third of Bruce Peninsula may be owned by federal or provincial governments if recommendations made by department of lands and forests officials are adopted by the minister, Leo Bernier, who is also natural resources minister.

The main new question arises to just how much land is owned by each of the provincial government and how much is contained in the lands and forests' proposals, but Board members agreed the total would be about 100,000 acres of the approximately 250,000-acre peninsula.

St. Edmund Reeve J. P. Johnstone, chairman of the five-municipality planning board, which also includes this village of 650, disclosed the contents of what he called a "rather vague" letter from a department official that would see large blocks of the area lands and forests we own.

The letter was from J. Halpenny of the department's district office in Shelburne.

St. Edmund, located at the north end of the peninsula, stands to lose the most under the proposals.

About two-thirds of the township, or 44,000 acres could become government property, leaving only the northern tip of the peninsula for the township.

In addition to St. Edmund, the letter specified one-third or 17,000 acres of Lindsay Township; 1-10 or 8,000 acres of Eastnor Township and 1-5 or 15,000 acres of Albemarle Township.

Total population of the peninsula is about 2,700.

Reeve Johnstone suggested that each township study the specific affected areas within each municipality and then, possibly at a meeting March 15, will be able to confront representatives of the lands and forest department.

Reeve Johnstone quoted the letter as saying the maps show "areas we have proposed for acquisition, control to preserve the land for recreational, scenic or wilderness purposes for the general public."

"Anybody can submit a map, but it would be interesting to see what they are going to do with it," said Reeve Johnstone. "I don't know what they are going to do with most of the land."

The councillors expressed concern about the effect of government ownership on the peninsula and how they would affect the residents. The Skydeck Skating board is in the process of drafting an official plan.

The government development would take in sections of land on both sides of Highway 6 which runs up the centre of the peninsula to Tobermory and a ferry to Little Current on Manitoulin Island in Lake Huron.

The Bruce Trail, used by hikers, follows the Niagara escarpment and reaches its highest point, 1,778 feet, near Collingwood in the Blue Mountain area. Plans are being made to link it with the Finger Lakes Trail in New York state, which will connect with the Appalachian Trail running south through the eastern states.

The provincial government has been considering recommendations of a report two years ago, to acquire a huge chain of conservation areas from Niagara Falls to Tobermory.

Davis Says Adding Sex Not Simple

OAKVILLE (CP) — An instructor's dismissal from Sheridan College Fysmler William Davis Thursday why the Ontario Human Rights Code does not prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex.

"I'm completely in favor of both the word and . . . ," Mr. Davis began. Students started to laugh and Mr. Davis changed his approach as instructor Dorothy Curzon snapped.

"Well, we had enough humor on this subject."

The code prohibits discrimination on the basis of race, creed, color, nationality, ancestry and place of birth, but does not mention sex.

Mr. Davis said he favors inclusion of the word but it is not as simple as it appears.

"I don't want to create problems for organizations like the YWCA," he said.

Parking Crisis Answer Is Acquisition of Land: BGH Board

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Parking at Belleville General Hospital was termed a "disgrace" by a spokesman for a meeting of its board of governors.

The relationship between hospitals and cars in North America is a subject of part of the transportation dilemma, it was revealed at the debate which went on at the board meeting.

"Patients can't be left alone for 10 minutes as a shifts change," commented Mayor Donald Scott. Relief staff must park and go in to work before the people on the previous shift can get out to join their cars. So we need twice as many spaces as the shifts change."

Shifts change three times a day, and during the seven-odd hours in between, staff parking spaces are vacant.

That's why planners estimate hospitals need two to 2.5 parking spaces for each hospital bed.

Belleville has about 510 beds and 357 parking spaces on its lot. By the formula mentioned it should have at least 1,000.

"We don't seem to have a policy to work toward in solving parking problems," commented Ald. Donald M. Sootton.

"It's a disgrace the way things are around here," said Reeve J. N. Brown of Ameliasburgh, waving his arm in the direction of the parking lot outside the boardroom window.

A land use report suggested several solutions to the parking problem, admitted to be at the crisis level, not only because of staff requirements.

"It is still cheaper in Belleville to buy land than to build parking garages," said Mayor Scott.

But he opposed metered or paid parking.

"People get sick and come in to the hospital when they don't have money to put in a meter," he told the board.

A steel bridge could be built over the CPR tracks at the south of the hospital to carry cars to a parking lot created from Chapel Hill and in the bay in front of the hospital, he said.

"The harbor board would come into the act then," Mayor Scott replied, sounding doubtful about the potential success of such a project.

"Public transportation is not good, so people don't use it," said executive director Phillip Rowland about the city's bus system.

Finally, the board came to the conclusion that acquisition of more land was the only way out of its parking dilemma.

Assets Sold Before Leave

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservatives pointed Friday to fugitive wife-strangler Steve Geoffroy's illegal passport and rumors that he sold his assets for cash while in prison as evidence that he knew well in advance that he would be getting a "temporary leave" to marry.

Georges Valade (PC—Montreal Ste. Marie) said in an interview Geoffroy may have realized as much as $100,000 on property sales before being released Christmas Eve, on a 39-hour leave, to marry Carmen Parent. 27.

An RCMP investigation already has divulged that a passport bearing Geoffroy's photo and another name was issued Sept. 28, nearly three months before the 38-year-old notary got his leave.

Miss Parent was issued a passport in her own name last June 29, the day after Geoffroy applied for permission to marry her on the grounds that she would become a mother for his children given.

The children are still being cared for by Geoffroy's brothers.

Mr. Valade said Geoffroy apparently owned a home in St. Jerome, a summer cottage at Lac Noir, and some property in Montreal. He said he has learned unofficially that Geoffroy sold the properties before he was missed when he failed to return to prison on time Dec. 26.

"If this was true, Mr. Valade said, "Geoffroy must have known a long time ahead that he would be getting out."

Elden Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) said there is a "substantial rumor" in Montreal that Geoffroy sold his home for $40,000, an amount that would have made it "very comfortable and very easy for h'm to get out of the country."

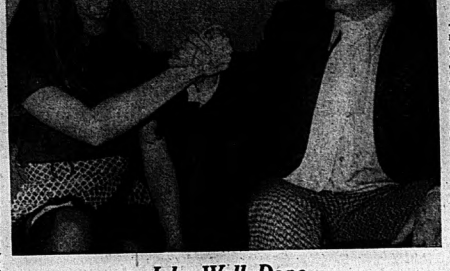
The Montreal MP. said the question of Geoffroy's assets must be investigated.

"What were his assets?" Mr. Valade said. "When were they sold? Who signed them? Who signed the papers?

"When was the cash given? Who was it given to? Geoff wy himself? When?"

Goyer Defends Action

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer said Friday Yves Geoffroy's murder of his wife was a domestic problem "and I don't think, in this perspective, that Geoffroy represents a danger to society."



"I think it is more of a punishment than a safeguard for society to send him to prison," Mr. said in an interview.

Mr. Goyer said in the interview, taped Friday for showing on the CBC television program Front Page Sunday, that he considers wife-killing "a very serious crime," requiring punishment.

"But does this guy represent a threat to society? . . . I myself think that there is no danger of recidivism . . . All the data prove that there is no recidivism.

Mr. Goyer rejected opposition allegations that Geoffroy may have liquidated property assets worth up to $100,000 before making his getaway.

"I think that it's just a false pretension to say that Mr. Geoffroy was so wealthy a man. I myself have no precise indication of how much money he had, but we know that he didn't have this kind of money."

Fire Kills Three Children

STELLA, Ont. (CP) — Three young children died Friday despite a desperate attempt by their mother to rescue them from their burning frame house near this Amherst Island community.

Mrs. Michael Chuvonkie, who was outside hanging clothes and heard the screams of one of the children when the fire broke out, beat in desperation against a locked front door and smashed a front room window with her fists in a vain attempt to rescue the three tots.

Again flames and smoke drove Mrs. Chuvonkie back and she went for help in nearby Stella.

"There was nothing left when we got there," said Fire Chief Harold Pilson.

Killed in the blaze were Michael Jr., Tina and Mary, all under five years of age.

After her futile rescue attempt, Mrs. Chuvonkie ran down the country road toward Stella and was met by Deputy Fire Chief James Neilson, who had seen flames and was investigating.

Mrs. Chuvonkie was treated in hospital for shock and cuts to her hands. Her husband, Michael, was at work in Kingston, 19 miles east of Kingston, at the time.

It has not been determined yet what caused the fire.

Scientists To Measure Hostesses

WASHINGTON (A P)
Three scientists will spend a full week taking the body measurements of 200 airline stewardesses and giving them muscular-strength tests.

The research team hopes the information will be used by airplane designers in tailoring stewardess equipment more closely to the modern woman.

The enviable head of the study team is Dr. Clyde C. Snow, chief of physical anthropology at the Federal Aviation Administration's Civil Aeromedical Institute in Oklahoma City.

"Unfortunately, since no body measurements have been collected on U.S. airline stewardesses, aircraft engineers have been forced to use outdated and inappropriate data," he lamented.

His letter went to the stewardess training division of Braniff International Airways in Dallas, Tex., where the tests will be held.

Ethnic Tones Add Unrest

BATHURST, N.B. (CP) — The streets of this northern New Brunswick community were quiet but tense Friday in the wake of a demonstration by unemployed workers with overtones of ethnic conflict—that led to a clash with police Thursday.

A second and larger demonstration against alleged delays in processing unemployment insurance claims has been promised for next Friday, and a business leader has suggested the city be prepared to ask for troops to maintain order.

Although William Craig of Saint John, N.B., a Canadian Congress of Labor representative, says high unemployment is the main factor behind a recent wave of protests in this area, Acadian students say an equally strong motive is ethnic survival.

"It's a question of the survival of the Acadians in northern New Brunswick," said Rheal Boucher, student president at Bathurst College. Re-

Newspaper Vendetta Charged

OTTAWA (CP) — Jacques DesRoches, chairman of the unemployment insurance commission and paymaster for half-a-million jobless Canadians, was an angry man Friday.

"There's an election on and we've made our mistakes in the past but I wish the people who are criticizing us would lay off us because we've corrected our mistakes and I'm not running for office," he said in a telephone interview from Montreal.

Mr. DesRoches blamed newspaper reporters and an anonymous group of rebels for a riot Thursday at the commission's office in Bathurst, N.B.

In particular, he singled out the French Star and The Globe and Mail. He accused the latter of conducting a vendetta against the commission.

"If they want to take a ride on the back of the unemployed, there's nothing I can do. My job is to get checks to these people, not sell newspapers."

He said newspaper reporters have chosen to take the word of dissidents among organizations of unemployed workers in the area without first questioning commission officials.

The dissidents themselves, he said, have no leaders with whom issues can be discussed.

"... can you tell me why they're unhappy—they've got problems, they've got gripes, but why they're not being helped by the demonstrations."

Combative MPs Flay Government

In the absence because of illness of Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey, Opposition Labor secretary, Ray Perrault, was the target of a battery of questions about his desire to reduce unemployment.

In particular, Mr. Lambert wanted to know if the cabinet had not come as clean with the Commons as he did with provincial finance ministers in a meeting earlier this month.

David Orlikow (NDP-Winnipeg North) drove deeper in his attack on convening studies, including Deputy Finance Minister Simon Reisman a) the true assumptions adopted by Mr. Turner and his predecessor, E. J. Benson.

Mr. Orlikow blamed Mr. Reisman for policies he said led generally to the present high rate of unemployment.

Mr. Lambert said the cabinet had tried to act on the recommendations of the Reisman report, but the new finance minister, Mr. Lambert said the minister had tried to act on the recommendations of the Reisman report, but the new finance minister, Mr. Lambert said the minister had tried to act on the recommendations of the Reisman report, ducking serious questions while uttering platitudes about his desire to reduce unemployment.

Researchers to Probe Mysterious Breakage

The case of the breaking windows at Belleville General Hospital will be put before a group of research scientists.

The board of governors yesterday agreed to call in Warnock Hersey International Ltd. to find the reason for the mysterious breakage.

Reeve J. N. Brown of Ameliasburgh, chairman of the planning and property committee, told the board that 50 to 60 windows such as the breaking they were first installed. Twenty of these had cracked in the past few weeks. All are on the south side of the building.

Cost of hiring the research firm will be $1,000.

No reason has so far been found for the mysterious breakage. Because the windows are in the middle of each side of the building, thermal stress has been suggested.

Two windows that had cracked vertically had drapery alterations to allow better ventilation, but the replacement windows have yet to be installed.

Reeve Brown expressed his annoyance at the National Research Council (Ottawa), which no longer sends teams out to test and investigate incidents such as the breaking windows.

"It should be interested in keeping in this community (the window contractor) in business," he said.

Hill Trial Next Month

Herman Gerald Hill, 32, yesterday was committed for trial on a charge of capital murder in the shooting death of his wife.

Mr. Hill, released without bail earlier this week, was committed for trial at a preliminary hearing before Provincial Judge R. B. Rattee.

He was ordered to stand trial at the next Ontario Supreme Court jury sittings, which open in Belleville, March 30.

Mrs. Hill died on June 1, in charge of the death of his wife, Betty Marie, 30, who died June 1, in Belleville General Hospital where she was taken from the couple's home at RR1, Foxboro.

He was in custody until Wednesday when his defence counsel, Belleville lawyer Benjamin Hurley successfully applied for his release before Justice J. J. Henderson at Picton.

The Ontario Supreme Court judge granted Mr. Hill a judicial interim release, or bail — under provision of recent federal legislation.

Mr. Hurley told the judge that Mrs. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hicks of Plainfield, wanted the accused man released and would like him to stay at their home.

Witnesses appearing at the application hearing included Harold Reid, Belleville's deputy police chief, who told Mr. Justice Henderson that he had known Mr. Hill 13 years. He said he was active in sports in the Belleville area, particularly hockey and baseball, and had always found him to be even-tempered.

Richard LaBelle, Belleville electrical contractor, said Mr. Hill had worked for him for four months as an electrician and he could return to his job if he was released.

The judge spoke to Mr. and Mrs. Dickens but did not ask them to testify. He did not include a requirement that Mr. Hill live in their home as a condition of his release.

Mr. Hill was required to give an undertaking that he show up for any schedule court hearings, avoid alcohol, surrender all firearms, report to provincial police once a week, avoid discussing the case with any persons listed as witnesses, and continue to reside in the area.

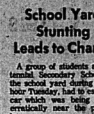
Frozen Grates City Problem



With temperatures dipping below zero these days, city work crews have been faced with the problem of freezing street grates and cracking water pipes.

Public Utility workmen have been digging up city streets at a great rate, repairing water mains which have cracked.

At the same time, flooding water, backed up from grates which have been frozen over, are presenting similar problems to Public Works Department employees. Their office reports several calls, including one for North Pinnacle Street at the Federal Building.

Playing It Cool

Belleville firemen played water on tank truck to keep 1,800 gallons of propane cool after fire broke out in vehicle's rear pumping mechanism yesterday. Driver Glen Reynolds, 32, Frankford, escaped with superficial hand burns from blaze, which broke out as he halted to make delivery on Bridge Street West, near Palmer Road.

Police Escort Truck From Trenton Plant

TRENTON (Staff) — All was quiet and picketing normal again this morning at the Canadian General Electric's Trenton plant, strikebound since Monday.

But for a few minutes yesterday afternoon, the peaceful atmosphere threatened to flare up with workers ejected by law officers from the Trenton Police Department.

However, nothing of a violent nature transpired and picketing was resumed afterward in an orderly fashion, reported Gord Young, president of Local 509, United Electric, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

According to the local president, it was shortly after 4 p.m. when Trenton police arrived on the scene in two patrol cars and lined up on both sides of the entrance to the company's shipping facility off West Street. Then a rented transport, loaded with small motors manufactured in the plant, was able to move away from the premises. Until then picketers had been successful in preventing it with its shipment from leaving the premises.

In a press release issued by Mr. Young last night, he repeated that it was the union's desire to continue picketing the plant without provoking violence. Of the 200 plant workers off the job due to the strike, 175 are taking an active interest in picket duty, he claimed.

Mr. Young said the main issue is that the company did not meet the needs of the Trenton workers and was not realistic when comparing rates paid to workers in the Peterborough plant for performing similar tasks. The wages differ from 41 cents to 67 cents an hour less for producing the same type of work in the Trenton plant, he pointed out.

Trenton union members voted 85 per cent for strike action to back up their demands for wage parity with the workers in Peterborough.

Hospital Land Purchase Questioned at Meeting

With the decision yesterday to buy a $12,000 house and lot on Bay Drive, Belleville General Hospital's board committee of the whole has completed land buying.

The hospital now holds an option to purchase the 15 Bay Drive property, obtained with a $100 deposit.

The hospital's acute shortage of parking space prompted the purchase. Executive director Philip Rickard recommended that the governors adopt a long-term policy of eastern expansion by buying property along Bay Drive and First Street as they came on the market.

"The time to buy is now," agreed Mayor J. Russell Scott. "If we waited until we had to expropriate them, we would have to pay $36,000 for each of those lots."

But Ald. Donald M. Sostter registered disapproval of buying the 60-by-173-foot lot, separated from the present hospital parking lot by one house.

"This smacks of block busting to me," he said. "If we tear down that house to provide parking, it will reflect on the quality of life in the remaining houses. I don't approve of putting a parking lot between two private houses."

Ald. Sostter said the house a 15 Bay Drive should be rented until the entire land assembly plan for Bay Drive and First Street was completed.

Mr. Rickard vetoed the suggestion on the grounds that going into the landlord business would create too many problems for the hospital's administration. He said the house should be torn down as soon as the hospital acquired it.

The property could not immediately be turned into a parking lot, Mayor Scott said.

"A parking lot on that property would be a non-conforming use," he told the board.

So, there would have to be a rezoning and a hearing and the public could raise objections and block it."

As the question of policy on future land acquisition was referred to a committee, Ald. Gerald Joyce suggested that a member of the hospital's administration be given the power to acquire property on the eastern boundary as lots became available.

School Yard Stunting Leads to Charge

A group of students at Centennial Secondary School, in the school yard during lunch hour Tuesday, had to escape a car which was being driven erratically near the parking lot.

The vehicle was westbound on the sidewalk when it struck Charles Loucks, of Stirling, flinging him to the ground. He was treated for minor injuries.

Subsequent investigation led to the service of an appearance notice against Wayne Clifford Perry, 18, of RR 3, Trenton.

He has been charged with dangerous driving.

Two Injured

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Two young people were injured and needed emergency treatment in Trenton Memorial Hospital last night when the pickup truck in which they were riding slipped off the Barcovan Beach road and out of a hydro pole. Treated at the hospital and released were Herman, 17 (driver) and his sister Audrey, 14, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Postma of RR4, Trenton. The accident was investigated by the Ontario Provincial Police Brighton detachment.

Burned Out Family Lost Everything

Donations of clothing and furniture are being asked for a Shannonville family with eight children who were burned out Friday morning with the loss of all their possessions.

In the family besides the parents, are six girls ranging in age from six to 15 years, and two boys, seven and nine.

Vincent Maher, chief of the Shannonville fire department, said the fire, which destroyed the Kellar home near the fairgrounds, apparently started from overheated pipes in the attic. Mr. Kellar discovered the fire and he and but by the time the reels arrived the blaze was already out of control.

Mrs. Kellar, who is expecting another baby in March, has been put under observation in the Belleville General Hospital for the last few days.

Inquest Postponed

BRIGHTON — An inquest into the suicide death Feb. 4 of a 16-year-old Brighton youth, one of three suicides in the community in recent months — has been postponed to allow more time for investigation.

The inquest ordered by Coroner Dr. W. O. Elliott, was originally set for March 3. No new date has been set.

The inquest was ordered into the death of Robert Young, 16, who died of a 12-calibre bullet wound. Young's death followed two suicides Dec. 30 and Jan. 1. Elliott to say there was a "strong possibility that drugs were involved."

The coroner said Harold Rath, 17, killed himself with a shotgun at his home in nearby Colborne and Kevin Haig, 15, also used a shotgun to kill himself at his Brighton home on the same date.

OPP Insp. Ray Williams said Friday he and another OPP officer are assisting police with their investigation.

Police are also investigating the recent burning of a coffin that contained the body of an elderly woman entombed in a vault at the Brighton cemetery.

Winter Carnival Tops Last Year

MADOC (Special)— Despite very poor co - operation from the weatherman, the second annual Madoc Winter Carnival was such a success that it even surpassed last year's popular event both financially and socially.

Friday night's parade was much larger than last year's and included numerous floats, two bands, the ever-popular fire truck and torch-carriers. Float prize winners are follows: band class, Centre Hastings Secondary School; commercial class Eldorado Cheese and Butter Co-Operative and organization class, Point and Winter Carnival Committee.

The Goldthwaite and Rebekahs, who sponsored the Carnival queen contest did a marvellous job again this year. Anne O'Riordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Riordan of Madoc Village, was crowned queen at the public school Friday night when she was chosen from a group of 11 contestants. Her princesses were Brenda Bateman and Linda Watson.

Following the crowning, everyone went to Madoc Memorial Centre where official opening ceremonies took place, followed by a dance for the adults. At the same time, a carnadisco dance for teenagers was held in CHSS auditorium.

Miss Dominion of Canada, Lana Drouillard, the Canadian Dairy Princess Dianne Gunnink and Ontario Dairy Princess, Nancy Brown, were all present at the dance in the Kiwanis Centre, and attended a number of other events during the weekend.

Saturday afternoon's Carna-Craft Festival and Bazaar in the Kiwanis Centre was a fantastic success with over 40 exhibitors displaying their handicrafts and hobbies. Displays included knitting, crocheting, sewing, quilts, hairpin lace and leather tooling. The Hole in the Wall: charcoal Portraits while you wait by Mrs. Burgside and Mrs. Hudson; oil paintings by Mary Barton and Mr. Spurrell; macrame by Amelie and Gary Smith; tea cup reading and tea tables by the Senior Citizens and the TOPS Club.

The Madoc and District Skating Club presented Carna Capers Saturday evening, performances at 8 and 9 before a large crowd that packed Madoc Arena to capacity.

The theme was The Enchanted Toyland. The program began with an old man in his workshop and was followed by elves, teddy bears, dolls, rag dolls, cowboys, wooden soldiers, ballerinas and Can-Can Dancers all in beautiful colored costumes worn by the club's young skaters.

Solos were performed by Rick Mastile and Barbara Kellar, also of the Madoc Club.

The crown may have been merely some future olympic stars as they watched guests Pam Watson, 11, a pantomist favourite with the crowd, and Catherine Jane Warkentin, also 11, and Jocelyn Nix, 12, from Kingston. Elaine Poste and Staci Hughes from Peterborough performed excellent free-skating duo while Diane Wesse and Joseph Calberry followed with a dance on ice.

Intermission included demonstration of modern square dancing by the Madoc Merry Misers. Bono the Clown and his helpers provided rides for the kids' ones in the corral. A comedy act by the mystery guest, (Rhonda McKnight, the club's skating instructor), was particularly enjoyed by all, and then it was time for the grand finale.

Sunday morning's pancake breakfast drew a large crowd and was a decided success. That afternoon's ringmettle races were attended by over 1,000 people despite high winds and blowing snow accompanied by very low temperatures. A repeat sun shone all afternoon, a welcome sight.

The committee in charge was pleased with the number of race entries, and management is to be congratulated for the efficient manner in which it kept the races moving at a steady pace. More than $1,000 in prizes and trophies were awarded to 13 class winners.

CN's Ed Abrams Checks With Phyllis Cherry

CN Credit Union Now Public

With a bagful of carefully accumulated assets, the offspring of Belleville railroaders' financial organization is travelling to a broader future.

It's the city's first credit union — the Belleville Community Credit Union Ltd. with a ready-made membership of 1,000 and claimed cash assets of $200,000.

As such it's the direct successor of the CNR (Belleville) Credit Union, growth of which has been as steadily inevitable as a freight train's progress.

Hence as readymade membership roster — railroaders or their dependents — and cash assets.

That membership now, hopefully will broaden in identity as it increases in numbers in its new function as a community service.

But why the change, for an organization obviously doing so well within its own railroad bailiwick?

It comes about, says Phyllis Cherry, credit union treasurer - manager for the last 15 years, because of a local need.

By statutory stipulation, a credit union must have a membership of 100 before receiving its provincial charter. Many smaller service and manufacturing industries couldn't meet that quota, although their employees desired such an organization. (Big companies — including Northern Electric, Bell Canada — have such groups). It also takes time for such an organization to grow.

Hence, the CN group were sounded by provincial government sources about the possibility of broadening their charter on a community basis.

"We were approached by the auditor of the department of financial and commercial fairs because they felt there was a need for this type of credit union in Belleville," explains Mrs. Cherry.

Late last year the railroaders voted to surrender their charter as a company group and accept the bigger role as a bank does. It is owned and operated by its members, a bank by its shareholders.)

Having pulled the switch, are the railroaders convinced their enterprise will meet the necessary response?

Mrs. Cherry is certain the demand will merit the expansion — which will permit more services, among them personal chequing. At the moment dealings are on a straight cash basis — with business done over the counter at the credit union's CN offices.

One thing that won't change —the office location. During its 9 years as a CN workers' entity, the credit union has always had "excellent" rapport with the company.

The relationship is continuing. The credit union will remain at the CNs Railroa ders offices, where it now faces the platform of the railroad's Belleville station.

However, the railroad has given assurance it will provide even larger quarters to accommodate the expanded operation.

"They're terrific with us," says Mrs. Cherry. "The co-operation of CN has been boundless."

Jobs for Students Available Abroad

For some 3,000 post-secondary students who otherwise might be unemployed this coming summer there are other opportunities.

Under the International Student Exchange Program sponsored by the Canada Manpower and Immigration, young people between the ages of 18 and 25 who are Canadian citizens and currently taking full-time courses at a university, community college, or institute of technology can find employment opportunities abroad.

Participating countries are: Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, The Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and the United Kingdom.

Employment begins anywhere from mid-May to the first of June and can last from six weeks to three months. One of the conditions of the plan is that the student must agree to work for as long as his employer needs his services. Work weeks in Europe are generally longer than in Canada and it is recommended to work 50 hours or more a week with wages averaging 60 dollars a month.

Applicants must be ready to pay their own way for Canada Atlantic transportation which can be had at low costs from student agencies. Students must also have enough money to keep themselves until they receive their first pay.

Former MPP Discusses Sand Removal Question

Following are the comments of former MPP and longtime resident of Prince Edward County, Lewis Whitney, on the controversy surrounding removal of sand from an area adjacent to Sandbanks Provincial Park:

"As a former member of the Ontario Legislature who was involved in the establishment of all of the provincial parks in Prince Edward County and having a continuing interest in their further development to best serve the people, I find myself questioning the wisdom and foresight of those who would have the sand removal operation cease at this time, regardless of whether or not a satisfactory alternative source of sand is soon found.

"To me, the sand dunes are important, but so are the West Lake and Sandbanks tourist operations and fertile farm lands. In fact, a sizable portion of the 16-acre site from which the sand is being removed was the bed of West Lake not too many years ago and I believe that anyone who was familiar with this area 40 years ago would agree that these huge deposits of sand would not have been formed at this location had it not been for the foresting and conservation work done by the Department of Lands and Forests. Many of the trees that were planted there have grown to maturity and I dread to think of the results that would accrue through some unfortunate circumstance they were to be destroyed by fire. If this tragedy were to happen, it is my opinion that the overall beauty of the area would continuously reduce in size the mounds of sand and the shifting of it over a much greater area, including at least a further portion of West Lake and adjacent properties.

"Over a period of several years, I have talked from time to time with lands and forests staff about the desirability of making at least a part of the West Lake shore line available to visitors to the Sandbanks Park, and generally there was agreement, but first greater stabilization of the shifting sands had to be achieved.

"Every year further progress in this objective is being made and I anticipate that within a few years other high dunes comparable to the ones from which the sand is being removed will become available to the public and that embedded beach of the West Lake side where the water should be warmer will be developed.

"The present area of approximately 16 acres which has never been a part of the Park could be added to the Park, be sodded, have some trees and shrubs planted on it and form a very important and enjoyable part of the development on the West Lake side. Perhaps, most important of all, this would provide a buffer to give time and space for action to be taken to combat the contaminated environment from the filling sand which is an ever-present threat that should not be ignored.

"I can sympathize with hysterical land speculators who are disturbed by the sand removal operations during the tourist season, and agree that every possible effort should be made to remedy this situation. On the other hand, I can remember when the largest dunes were 100 yards or less from the Lake Ontario shoreline and the devastation they caused as they moved relentlessly inland by the years that followed before the efforts made by the Ontario Government were successful in halting the advances at the South-West corner of West Lake.

"Whether or not there are other people who will agree with the personal views I have expressed I do not know, but I sincerely hope that any final decisions that are made will be based on serious studies of the whole situation and its potential — not just part of it."

Belleville's X-ray Goes to Malaysia

A little bit of Belleville will soon be settled in among the equipment of the Malaysian mission hospital run by Dr. Robert McClure, former moderator of the United Church of Canada.

The item is a $15,000 stationary miniature chest X-ray machine, now recdered obsolete at Belleville General Hospital by a decision of its Medical Advisory Committee.

BGH, in common with all other hospitals in Canada, is halting its admission X-ray procedure and no longer needs the machine.

Dr. McClure, a famed medical missionary before he became church moderator, has returned to medical practice as a remote Malaysian missionary hospital. He needs a miniature X-ray machine. So, for $1, the price set by hospital director Phillip Hubbard, the machine will be shipped to Dr. McClure.

Ald. Harold M. Soutter questioned the transaction, asking the board if it was fair to the original purchasers to give the machine away.

"These machines are being put out by every hospital in Canada," said Mayor J. Russell Scott. "There will be no market for them within three months, so we have to give ours to Malaysia now to realize a nominal sum on the investment."

For many years, patients entering the hospital were required to have a chest X-ray, part of an anti-tuberculosis campaign.

Now, doctors have decided that the routine chest X-ray has resulted in "a relatively high radiation exposure" for patients.

As well, the routine X-ray produced "a low yield of significant positive findings."

Because of its hazardous potential and its relative uselessness as an anti-TB tool, the routine X-ray is being discontinued not only here, but across the country.

Happy Environment

Belleville has welcomed a considerable number of new residents in recent years. They have come here in the wake of new industry and the community and its atmosphere seem to be to the liking of most.

Even the loss of big city attractions has not hung too heavily among those who have come from larger centres. As Bell Canada's George Mathieu told Rotarians recently, the advantages of a community such as Belleville and become evident to him since coming from Montreal.

Mr. Mathieu, supervisor of data training at the communications establishment in the Four Seasons hotel, did not elaborate, but we know what he meant.

Belleville has a lot going for it just now, with its fresh industrial impetus, allied to its proximity to unspoilt countryside and recreational facilities. But let us not become complacent, and in this context we quote a recent warning of Frank Murray, outgoing president of the Chamber of Commerce here.

"My one recommendation to the incoming executive," he said, "is institute more people projects and take the emphasis off gaining material wealth.

A book prepared by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he warned, says that "because of increases in population and dwindling of resources we may have only 50 years left . . ."

It is a chilling thought, and one which has been in the forefront of cautionary speeches by scientists for some time. On this theme actor Cornel Wilde has made a film of a world where social ethics are exhausted; it is a terrible prospect, and one we must do everything in our power to counter — by fighting pollution to the utmost and pressing the search for new sources of food and other resources.

Road Conditions

Happiness to be sure is not the driver's part of a sledding party, though in a slow, controlled way it has a certain fascination. In the latter context too it can bring a smile to the face, as in the case of a young woman driver rounding the corner from Massassaga onto the Old Picton Road recently.

It can be a slippery corner this one, and the small English vehicle did a couple of smart 360's from side to side before the lady got it under control. The next morning a couple of school buses from Massassaga were stopped at this same intersection; the driver of the first vehicle waited for a car to pass before proceeding cautiously around the corner — presumably because it was still treacherous.

The moral here is that rural roads can be more dangerous than they ought for want of regular sanding. For instance, it was after 1 p.m. before the Old Picton Road got sanded after a recent overnight snowfall. The wonder is that more vehicles do not come to grief in the slippery conditions of these February days.

CBC Spoof

The Wayne and Schuster special Sunday night was one of the best we've seen by this pair in a long time. However the show veered somewhat from the bounds of good taste by including a spoof on the Governor-General. A character made up to look like Mr. Michener was seen in a "ballet" sequence. The scene was harmless enough, but it betrayed once again the CBC's penchant for poking fun at the Monarchy and its representatives.

Permissiveness Is Common Thread

P.M. and His Lieutenants Speak with Many Tongues

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — To hear them and see what they do, it is reasonably difficult and sometimes almost impossible to believe that Prime Minister Trudeau, Manpower Minister Mackasey, Solicitor General Goyer, Secretary Pelletier and the rest of the cabinet activists are on the same team.

And the Trudeau cabinet has it when it comes to voting in Parliament.

There and then the team stands shoulder - to - shoulder, except when one of its members — like Paul Hellyer, Eric Kierans — breaking ranks, quits.

But when it comes to talking and decision - making outside Parliament — especially when the Commons is in recess — this same cabinet can be so split as to be polarized.

Just consider what Captain Trudeau says about law, order, and the government's responsibility in maintaining a non-violent social order.

And then contemplate some of the things Mackasey, Goyer and Pelletier have been doing.

Speaking of the Quebec Liberation Front reign of terror, the Prime Minister has said it was the government's clear responsibility "to protect society against the wholly insensate and merciless activities of the self-styled patriots" who kidnapped British diplomat James Cross and murdered Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

Such "insistence," as the Prime Minister calls it, on, as a peculiar breed, possessed of a solitary arrogance, members of a minority possessing no mandate from the community whose restructuring they propose."

So there is Pierre Vallieres, already convicted of manslaughter and contempt of court and facing further charges of counselling murder and kidnapping — all involved in the FLQ terror — accepted at a weekly $150 at the federal taxpayers' expense, courtesy of Manpower Minister Mackasey's department.

And Mackasey says that is just dandy, proving how democratic we all are.

Next consider what the Prime Minister has said about what he calls "the government's task to preserve for all citizens their freedom from assault and fear of illegal acts of all kinds."

And, underlining it, he adds: "It is the duty of the government to act in such a fashion that the social order remains able to protect the life of its members."

But then, listen to Solicitor General Goyer who says that the protection of society and the security of its citizens must be secondary to the welfare and hopefully the rehabilitation of those who violate it.

And to show he means what he says, Goyer has Parole Board chairman George "Easy" Street hand out prison holiday passes like leaves from cedar cones.

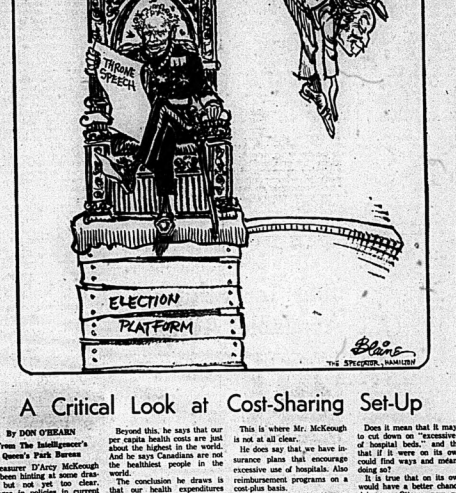
And the kidnappers of Mary Nellis not only enjoy a series of "Easy" passes during the few months of their terms they serve, but are turned loose, free and clear.



The penal system has been so perverted by "Easy", both police and the courts publicly charged that parole - breakers who use their leaves to commit new crimes are re-paroled.

Finally, the Prime Minister says that "it is irresponsible for anyone to suggest that violence is necessary to right political wrongs."

But State Secretary Pelletier hands out tax dollars to "activist groups," and provides them with what he calls "community activators" to raise a rumpus that often ends in violence.

The situation is there, Ontario MP Ralph Stewart has charged in alarm, amounts to Pelletier actually paying — with your tax dollars — and protecting the provocateurs to destroy society and your way of life.

Now how about that?

It was a 'full house' at BCIVS for the annual John Deere Day show. Rural residents of the Belleville district saw motion pictures on the latest in mechanized farm equipment. As well as films of general entertainment. Thomas Montgomery, territory manager, welcomed those attending, while at the conclusion of the show, Ivan May, district leader, expressed his appreciation.

"International trade fairs date back to the time before Christ," said G. F. Abortion Opposed

It is with great concern that I must object strongly to your policy to set up therapeutic abortion committees in every Ontario hospital.

If the right to life of the unborn is not respected, is the next step to take away the right to life of the aged and infirm? The sanctity of human life in all its stages must be upheld without hindrance from the government.

A Critical Look at Cost-Sharing Set-Up

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

Treasurer D'Arcy McKeough has been hinting at some drastic, but not yet too clear, changes in policies in current speeches.

The central theme of these speeches has been that Ontario should opt out of shared programs with the federal government (as Quebec has done to a large extent).

Ontario, of course, is demanding that it get revenues equivalent to the money it would receive from the programs.

And the objective is it would be able to spend all this money itself, rather than follow the ground rules laid down by Ottawa.

The interesting hints, however, come in the reasoning Mr. McKeough has been offering to back up his claims.

This applies particularly to health programs, which he has been using as his most common illustration.

He cites the claim which is pretty well accepted, that total health expenditures in Canada increased 1½ times between 1960 and 1968 and now are escalating at a rate of 13.5 per cent a year.

Beyond this, he says that our per capita health costs are just about the highest in the world. And he says Canadians are not the healthiest people in the world.

The conclusion he draws is that our health expenditures must be more effective.

Part of the blame for the present situation he places on the dual responsibility of the two levels of government.

But even if Ottawa agrees, which isn't too likely, and the province gains sole responsibility for health, just how is the province going to reduce or even contain costs?

He does say that we have insurance plans that encourage excessive use of hospitals. Also reimbursement programs on a cost-plus basis.

And financial and other rewards that encourage dramatic forms of surgery at, possibly, the expense of research funds for preventive medicine.

But what does this really mean?

Does it mean that the government would ever try to restrict "dramatic surgery?"

How?

Does it mean that it may try to cut down on "excessive use of hospital beds," and thinks that if it were on its own it could find ways and means of doing so?

It is true that on its own it would have a better chance of doing so. Ottawa now pretty well sets the guide-lines.

But still it is hard to see in a practical way how it could do this. And whatever it did would certainly be drastic.

However, it must have some concrete thoughts. And it will be most interesting to see what they are, if and when they ever are explained.

The Genius of Charles Chaplin

The Globe and Mail

Gently debunking the exotic notions of his more scholarly admirers, Charles Chaplin said recently that he knew nothing about making people laugh. He was just lucky he could make a living from it and that people appreciated what he did.

He tried to be modest, wistfully thinking what fun it would be if Chaplin were sufficiently hard up in these modern times, that he had to make one more picture. It would be relatively easy in one sense, for the script has already been written in the form of reports on the preparations for his first visit to the United States in 20 years.

Of course the Chaplin genius for exposing the absurdities of human behavior would scarcely be needed. The anachronistic, humorless figures in Hollywood today, resisting the proposal to add a Chaplin statue to the 1,238 other film and television stars in Hollywood's Walk of Fame, are clowns in their own right — unconscious but decidedly comical. They are not quite old enough to forgive what was done to them 25 years ago as a Communist sympathizer in Chaplin's Limelight.

It was, of course, pathetically easy for prominent figures to be branded Communists in the United States of the early Nineteen Fifties. Growing old ourselves — was pretty sinister. And what about Modern Times, that slander on materialism and the capitalist system?

Heaven knows what distribbes would have descended on the little tramp if he had left the country with the announcement that he planned to visit China (with or without a score of movie cameras).

But, to restore perspective to the Chaplin visit and the mood of America today, it must be said that he is to be honored in grand style. From his four-day fete in New York City, to the special citation he will receive at the annual Academy Awards ceremony in Hollywood on April 15, the Chaplin salute is obviously going to be impressive and probably quite emotional.

If there is any southerly left, the little man who made them laugh and weep long ago will do it again in April.

Self-Care Unit Praised

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like to express my thanks and let others know of the wonderful care I received while a patient in Queen's Self Care Convalescent Unit.

I thought its staff very helpful and kind to me when depressed or feeling lonesome. Its atmosphere was very home-like and attractive for those who feel ill but not ill enough to be in bed at all times. It was also nice to be able to wear street clothes, so after my own meals and tidy my own bed.

As for the meals served in the dining room they were just right and when one ordered a patient take a visitor to lunch or tea etc. The tuck-in-trays service offered was a good help when feeling miserable and depressed. Even at home you don't have their service of coming to do that.

I hope others find this unit just as nice as I found it as I feel there should have been one of these units long ago.

Bus Safety Stressed

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

We were sorry to read of the accident which befell five-year-old Ralph Robinson who was injured when a school bus ran over him, and we are glad to learn he is progressing very well but would like to make a suggestion which I feel would prevent similar happenings.

On our bus one of the senior students acts as a guard. They take turns doing this. The senior student steps off the bus first and watches the others get off and get clear of the bus before getting back on. They may wear a red plastic belt or sash as they wish.

Middle folk sometimes forget to watch. Parents should warn children not to run on roads after toys or pets, as they can be replaced but human life cannot.

They should also be taught to be most careful in stepping out from behind cars in crossing streets.

I see where the malcontent "Zombie" is at it again. Castigating his employer and the system for which he works! This type gives me a pain in the neck.

As he sits at his desk drafting his letters to the Editor and cogitating as to where to place his next barbs I wonder if his thoughts ever stray to those less caste countries? Like India or Bangladesh with their starving millions. I understand the UIC payment in those places is one loaf of sour dough.

So my advice to Zombie is to stop this downgrading and count your blessings. You have, I am on it.

Agreement on Eucharist Seen as Real Milestone

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Vatican sources see the historic agreement on the interpretation of the Eucharist, or holy communion, between the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches as the most important step towards reunion of the two churches since the 16th-century Reformation.

The agreement, published on Dec. 31, was reached by an international Anglican-Roman Catholic commission at Windsor, England, last September.

It removed one of the main theological obstacles to uniting the centuries-old differences between the two churches over the concept of transubstantiation—or what exactly has during the sacrament of the Lord's Supper in the eating of consecrated bread and wine.

The commission, set up in 1966 by Pope Paul and the Anglican Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, described its agreement as "of vital importance to Anglican-Roman Catholic relations" at this stage in the preparation of the way to organic unity."

But it decided not to publish the document until it had been studied by the authorities of the two churches, whose approval is necessary before it is accepted.

Although this approval has not yet been given, the fact that the document is being published at all indicates that Pope Paul, at least, does not have deep-rooted objections, Vatican sources said.

Opposition to the document, however, is expected to come both from the "left wing" of the Anglican Communion and from the "right wing" of the Roman Catholic Church.

Some members of the Vatican's powerful Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, the department which deals with doctrinal questions, are believed to have reservations.

Vatican officials active in the cause of Christian unity hope that the agreement will be so popular that it will be difficult for the die-hard traditionalists to impose their will.

The 12-paragraph document overcomes what has always been a source of bitter controversy between the two churches — the Roman Catholic doctrine of transubstantiation.

Although the Anglican Church has traditionally embraced a variety of beliefs about the Eucharist, Anglicans have always opposed the Roman Catholic teaching that the bread and wine of the Eucharist are converted into the whole substance of the body and blood of Christ.

This does not mean that all Anglicans have denied any form of presence of the body and blood in the bread and wine, but that they have regarded true substantiation as an exaggerated materialistic doctrine.

The document never accepted that Christ is "corporally" present in the Eucharist.

In the agreement the Roman Catholics disown any claims ever attributed to Henry VIII's long practically how transubstantiation takes place.

In a footnote to the document, the Roman Catholics affirm the traditional teaching of the Church in the inner reality of the elements.

"The term should be seen as affirming the fact of Christ's presence and of his mysterious and radical change which takes place in the gifts."

This clarified, the Anglicans were prepared to go along with the fundamental statement that "communion with Christ in the Eucharist presupposes as true presence effectually signified by the bread and wine which is his body and blood."

Here the representatives of both churches agreed that, in some mysterious way, the bread and wine become Christ's body and blood.

The Mind of Christ His Fading Hope

By the Reverend Gordon C. Smyth

Society's death wish arises out of historical or maybe biological, necessity rather than out of any rational, or conventional, considerations. Civilizations, like regimes and families, are ultimately wound up.

Little comfort can be offered to those who cling to the hope that the pendulum will swing back, or another revival succeed. There is too much truth in what Kenneth Boulding, an eminent economist and social thinker, writes, "The world of today is a different world to the world into which I was born as that world was from Julius Caesar's."

There is likewise too much truth in what Aldous Huxley, the American automation expert, writes: "The effect of the technological revolution we are now living through will be deeper than any social change we have experienced before."

It is in this context that one has to say that imperialism, racism, and despair, which have gone too far. Western man's hand on the throttle is never over-sure. The "world" that has held many traditions and sincerities dear for a few of us is passing away. The high-powered engine that pulls it is hell-bent for destruction.

What, then, can be said for the encouragement of faltering lives? It was said long ago when, as yet, a proud Roman "world" that was also starting to disintegrate, paid scant heed to the Nazarene's followers. These were exhorted by an apostle "Do not be conformed to this world but be transformed by the renewal of your mind. Have this mind among yourselves, which you have in Christ Jesus."

His mind knew fading hope too! The 8th chapter of St. John's Gospel marks the watershed of his ministry. He had commenced with the idea of God's kingdom shining in his eyes. Why should not that kingdom be realized, at least in Palestine, while he went about teaching and doing good?

Our Lord emphasized the inwardness of God's kingdom. This was the key to his parables about the sower, the yeast, and the salt of the earth. The kingdom was not foreign to human effort, but it was foreign to human sin. Here lay the source of his fading hope.

The episode of feeding the five thousand meant a transition. The multitude was so thrilled that it wanted to take Christ by force and make him a temporal sovereign. But what was all this preaching about bread from heaven? Many of his disciples drew back and no longer went about with him.

The chief inspiration of our Lord's ministry is found in its opening line: "In his first hope faded, it was gradually replaced by what became a sure and certain hope. "He steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem." Calvary would let loose the full meaning of his mission, and purchase all that he had said and done.

How? Men would see a new kind of kingdom, a new order of chivalry, a new estimate of greatness, and a new quality of brotherhood. Besides, his followers would be pioneers of a spiritual democracy because, on the Cross, he had been the pioneer and perfector of faith. The seed was planted, the yeast added, and the salt applied as never before or since.

No wonder one of the Savior's contrasts uttered these timeless words. "If God is for me, who is against us?" He who did not spare his own Son but gave him up for us all, will he not also give us all things with him?" No wonder the Gospel disturbs each succeeding culture, is fully at home in none and always has an inner genius to mould the next new one!

No wonder yet the wonder of it all! We have a unique treasure to cherish and pass on. Christ purchased it not Karl Marx. St. Paul made sure that it would reach us, not Henry Ford or Hugh Hefner.

Fiance Gives Her Third Degree

Dear Ann Landers: I am 21 and engaged to a young man who is 24. We've been going steady for months. I've worried about his drinking. He's had a few brushes with anyone.

Shortly after I started to go steady with Mark asked me if I had ever experimented sexually and I told him I had a few years my junior. I was shocked at his question. He offered to pick me up. The kid is about 18. I got the distinct impression he was testing me. I trust me. I've tried to build his confidence and so help me I haven't even looked at another man since. And we've been going together. How can I prove my faithfulness? I love him to bits and he'll drive me nuts.—Shaky Lady

Dear Lady: If you're smart you'll drop him and fast. Marriage to the man would be a disaster the third time around. You'd be defending yourself against his accusations practically every night. Men who are excessively suspicious are impossible to live with. They also be mentally ill.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have known Fred and Elsie for many years. I want to make it clear that this is not a Carol-and-Ted, Ted-and-Alice arrangement. Elsie was my closest friend all the way through school and Ted was my husband's best buddy.

The four of us are together at least two evenings a week—sometimes more. It used to be great fun, but things are changing. Fred is happy-go-lucky, likes going out the type who he cannot more relaxed with every drink. Elsie is really a great person, but when she drinks she gets unbelievably mean and shrewish. Almost every evening lately has ended with her attacking Fred viciously because of his drinking. It's awful to where it will end.

My husband told me this morning that he doesn't want any more evenings like last night. I'm beside myself. These people are godparents to our children and we consider them theirs. Our friendship goes back so many years and I hate to see it end like this. I'm not going to defend Elsie, but I happen to know that her father's sons were alcoholic. Perhaps this has something to do with her vehement attitude toward Fred's drinking. Please tell me what I should do to save a four-way friendship.—C.E.

Dear C.E.: There's more in it veloped than friendship. It sounds like a marriage might go down the drain unless your friends get counseling. Suggest it to Elsie.

I cannot tell from your letter whether Fred is an alcoholic, but one thing is certain, drinking is getting him into trouble. If Elsie gets mad at you for trying to help, that's her problem, not yours.

CHINA CHARM WITH THE WRITTEN WORD

"Like strings of wax the rain hung down . . . wheels bring scent of almond blossoms . . . . . Tu Fu.

* * *

With the country of China the centre of the world's stage this week, legends, poetry and writings of its fine writers lay on open pages of books long closed, hidden away on hitherto-unknown shelves.

Wise in proverbs here on this page are some that read:

"Swiftest horse cannot overtake the word once spoken;

"Even your own ten fingers are unequal;

"Hide your offended heart — keep your valued friend;

After great thunder little rain;

A nation's treasure — scholars;

A good neighbor — a found treasure;

No needle is sharp at both ends".

A legend refers to a beautiful girl named Chango living for 4,000 years on the moon, since being banished there because she drank a pill of immortality from her husband.

Her companion is a large Chinese rabbit, who, the story goes, spot because he is always pounding in his hind feet . . . in the shade of a cinnamon tree."

A Chinese spacecraft communicator asked the Apollo XI astronauts to watch for a lovely girl with a big rabbit". They replied: "Okay, we'll keep a close eye out for the lonely girl."

But there have been no reports she was caught sight of while they were on the moon.

One Shanghai-born modern painter - poet named Wang Ching Ting who has recently translated some Chinese poems written between the 3rd and 15th century points out: "People today sometimes discover the moment they die that life has been rather empty."

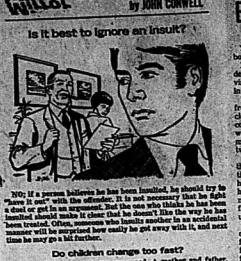
Has your father ever been your friend? Have you ever sought anyone's advice? Have you ever gone around the house with a dressed in front of your friends?—Shaky Lady

Dear Lady: If you're smart you'll drop him and fast. Marriage to the man would be a disaster the third time around. You'd be defending yourself against his accusations practically every night. Men who are excessively suspicious are impossible to live with. They also be mentally ill.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have known Fred and Elsie for many years. I want to make it clear that this is not a Carol-and-Ted, Ted-and-Alice arrangement. Elsie was my closest friend all the way through school and Ted was my husband's best buddy.

The four of us are together at least two evenings a week—sometimes more. It used to be great fun, but things are changing. Fred is happy-go-lucky, likes going out the type who he cannot more relaxed with every drink. Elsie is really a great person, but when she drinks she gets unbelievably mean and shrewish. Almost every evening lately has ended with her attacking Fred viciously because of his drinking. It's awful to where it will end.

My husband told me this morning that he doesn't want any more evenings like last night. I'm beside myself. These people are godparents to our children and we consider them theirs. Our friendship goes back so many years and I hate to see it end like this. I'm not going to defend Elsie, but I happen to know that her father's sons were alcoholic. Perhaps this has something to do with her vehement attitude toward Fred's drinking. Please tell me what I should do to save a four-way friendship.—C.E.



Dear C.E.: There's more in it veloped than friendship. It sounds like a marriage might go down the drain unless your friends get counseling. Suggest it to Elsie.

I cannot tell from your letter whether Fred is an alcoholic, but one thing is certain, drinking is getting him into trouble. If Elsie gets mad at you for trying to help, that's her problem, not yours.

Mirror of Your Mind

By JOHN CONNELL

Is it best to ignore an insult?

NO; if a person believes he has been insulted, he should try to "have it out" with the offender. It is not necessary that he fight a duel or get in an argument. But the one who thinks he has been insulted should make it clear that he doesn't like the way he has been treated. Often, someone who hastily another in an accidental manner will be surprised how easily he got away with it, and next time he may get a bit further.

Do children change too fast?

YES, as far as parents are concerned. A mother and father, concerned about the way one of their children acts under certain circumstances, may think a son of daughter is a little lax about showing proper gratitude for say gifts given to him by the parents themselves or by others in the family. Just about the time the parents decide to begin to accept their child's apparent lack of appreciation, he surprises them by acting just the opposite.

Can job setbacks ruin marriage?

NO; though there might be some tension between a husband or a wife, a long-time difficulty on the job. Yet when a wife, say, knows she will find love and understanding at home, she will feel her problems at work are only minor factors in her life. Not only that, but her marriage will also give her the confidence either to overcome her troubles on the job or at least be able to accept them as an "occupational hazard."

Babes Respond to Affection

By DORIS CLARK

The need for affection is born in us!

My psychiatric consultant describes what he sees on his visits to the maternity nursery in his maternity hospital.

The babies there are so very fragile! They must be kept in enclosed beds, with temperature controlled and regulated to just warmth and humidity. They say, weigh anywhere from six to five pounds.

When a nurse reaches into the enclosure and takes the tiny bit of humanity onto her hand, he will snuggle into that hand. He responds to the human touch. And will usually fall to flourish if he is not regularly cuddled, patted, stoked.

As we grow up and grow old, we never lose our need for the touch of a human hand for affection in its various forms.

Dear Doris: Four months ago my family suffered a terrible loss. One of the best men who ever lived — my father—took a stroke and fell into my arms. He died in my arms. So far time has not lessened the pain. I have written my writing as tears are blurring my vision.

When my father lived he always liked to recite. One of his favorites was a poem I once heard Charles Coburn say. I can only remember part of it: Rest in the assurance that I have lived. And all living things must die. Therefore death being inevitable, Should not be looked upon in sorrow By relatives and friends.

When a someone reads these lines, it will ring a bell. Thank you, memory.

Dear Proctor: We have searched for a long time in reading it. A lovely bit of philosophy! Readers, over to you!

Dear Doris: My problem seems like a mountain. Years ago, we became hopelessly in debt. I went away to try and work. I stood that for six months, came home and ended up in the mental hospital. I should still be seeing a psychiatrist, but we just can't afford the trip to the city. I guess I even feel a little better for writing.

My husband is a good worker and non-drinker but his work is only seasonal and we can't seem to get the debts paid. I just don't know where to turn. We get unemployment benefits and I try to get some sewing and knit, but what we get hardly covers the necessities. — Discouraged.

Dear Discouraged: There's nothing more discouraging than debts that mount up. The struggle is extra hard when the only income is from unemployment benefits.

With a family to feed, there are a few economies you can make, and I will send you a sheet of Economical Recipes which were obtained from families in just your situation during the depression of the 30's, along with some budgeting and shopping hints of my own.

Is there any work you can do at home? Do you sew? Knit or bake? Homemakers have managed extra money by devoting a day a week to baking bread and rolls. You may have a specialty that you have could get you some steady customers.

There are social agencies which specialize in helping people with their budgets. Next time you are collecting your unemployment benefit, ask guidance in a counselor on budgeting.

Trudeau:

Conservatives Sow Seeds of Discontent

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau fired some election-style shots at the opposition Friday as he wound up what was officially just another meet-the-people tour of Northern Ontario.

Throwing aside the detached approach he took at a Sault Ste. Marie meeting Thursday night, Mr. Trudeau waded into the Conservatives at meetings Friday in Sturgeon Falls and Sudbury.

Roused by cheering school children at a Sturgeon Falls high school, the prime minister charged the Conservatives with spreading lies about at alleged secret report downgrading RCMP traditions.

He suggested at a Liberal party reception in Sudbury that opposition statements may have harmed police efforts to catch convicted wife-strangler Yves Geoffroy.

Between these two hard-hitting statements the prime minister fitted in a trip down a mine-shaft. While operating a drill in the Falconbridge nickel mine at Sturgeon, Mr. Trudeau was spattered with ore cuttings and mud.

Toronto OKs 300 More Policemen

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan Toronto executive committee has approved the addition of 300 police officers, 25 cadets and 25 cars to the 2,706-member municipal police force.

The decision came Friday after Police Chief Harold Adamson told the committee that gaping holes in Canada's immigration laws have let undesirables into Toronto the extent that drug addiction, shoplifting and prostitution have become serious problems.

The police department was awarded a $53.6-million budget, up $5.8 million over last year.

a hot-line television show in Sudbury accompanied by Conservative Affairs Minister Robert Andras and Sudbury-area MPs Jean Serre and James Jerome. The prime minister returned to Ottawa later on a transport chartered Viscount.

In Sturgeon Falls, Mr. Trudeau said the RCMP asked permission in 1968 to use the word "police" on their buildings rather than the letters RCMP.

He said some Canadians do not know what the letters RCMP represent but the word police seems clearer.

But "some people in Ottawa" had invented a story about a secret report seeking to get rid of RCMP traditions.

The remark seemed aimed at former prime minister John Diefenbaker who suggested this week that the government has a report which recommends dissolution of the RCMP and creation of a new force with a new name.

Mr. Trudeau said Friday this is "pure baloney, pure malicious invention."

The opposition had spread a "false and phony story" about a report which never existed.

"This is the way people with malicious intent and political aims try to sow seeds of discontent in this country," he said.

In Sudbury, the prime minister lured the opposition for the way it has been questioning the release of convicted wife-strangler Yves Geoffroy from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary in Montreal.

Geoffroy was given permission to leave the prison to marry his former sweetheart but failed to return when his leave expired.

Mr. Trudeau said the government knew Geoffroy acquired a false passport to leave Canada. But the government has been asked by police not to make this information public.

The prime minister said if the question had not made public this fact, the police might have an easier time catching Geoffroy.

But with the cat out of the bag, Geoffroy may avoid using the false passport, making it more difficult to find him, Mr. Trudeau said.

Here's Mud in Your Eye

Freer Trade Best Hedge: Sharpe

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp warned Friday against economic policies based on narrow self-interest.

"History is on the side of those who favor freer trade and the international movement of capital technology and ideas as a means of promoting the legitimate national aspirations of states," he told the board of trade.

Mr. Sharp did not directly refer to controversy over whether foreign investment and ownership in Canada should be limited. The government has been preparing a policy announcement on the "issue for more than a year.

His theme was that "we live in a rapidly-shrinking world, a world where independence must be exercised within a growing interdependence."

He said freer access to capital, technology and ideas "reinforces the ability of individual countries to control and improve their economic performance."

"I cannot resist adding that the policies of economic nationalism which were so widely practised during the pre-war period did not protect individual countries from the effects of the great depression as Canadians and Newfoundlanders well know. In fact the reverse was true."

Mr. Sharp said every country, even the U.S., has limits on its ability to control its own economic destiny.

"There is no way in which any one country can insulate itself from external economic events and if it were to try it would probably find that it had lost more than it had gained.

"In its economic policy, Canada is the most internationalist of nations. This does not imply abrogation of economic sovereignty, any more than our internationalist attitude in world affairs implies abrogation of our political sovereignty."

Stanfield:

Government Lost Chance Like Drunk at Gaming Table

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said here Friday night the Trudeau government had wilfully "thrown away" the confidence of the Canadian people.

The Progressive Conservative leader told local party supporters at a fund-raising dinner the Liberal administration was simply "marking time" with the machinery of government and had failed to give Canadians "the sense of purpose" they needed.

The dinner capped Mr. Stanfield's 17-hour visit here. Earlier in the day, he talked with workers at a local shipyard and was briefed on the prospects of a proposed deep water port on the city's western edge.

He travels to Moncton today to attend the federal PC nominating convention for the city.

Mr. Stanfield lashed out at the government's economic policy, accusing the administration of failing labor, farmers, the public service and business.

"Thousands of Canadians were unemployed, many of them at the low point of their working lives," and unable even to gain the comfort offered by an unemployment insurance cheque.

In Ottawa, Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey said the "standing" accusation by Mr. Stanfield that the waiting period for unemployment insurance benefits be reduced to one week from two would cost employers and employees $180 million a year.

In a statement telephoned to The Canadian Press by Jacques Des Roches, chairman of the unemployment insurance commission, Mr. Mackasey said the suggestion was startling since the leader of the opposition and his party have said on many occasions that the commission plan is too generous.

"An alternative to the added cost would be to reduce benefits and this is "hardly a very progressive suggestion," Mr. Mackasey said.

"In any event the suggestion would not materially affect the speed of processing claims since these are now being processed as fast as they ever were."

Mr. Stanfield also suggested that municipalities should be reimbursed for welfare payments they have to make because of delays in unemployment insurance.

The provinces and municipalities are taxed at least $40 million a year under the new plan, Mr. Mackasey said. The new plan also permitted the assignment of benefits to welfare agencies and "this is being

Nearly Everyone on Fatal Fight Card Suspended In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian heavyweight boxing champion George Chuvalo of Toronto, his brother, Irv Chuvalo, and most of the participants in a fight card here last Monday night were suspended Friday by the Manitoba Boxing and Wrestling Commission.

Commissioner Ian Chevalis, Dingeman and trainer Ted McWhirter fired talking part in any professional match in the province until an investigation is completed into the four-fight card which resulted in the death of Toronto light-heavyweight George Grey.

The suspensions also apply to boxers Jim Christopher, Sam Peko and Dennis Pagan of Dauphin, North American of Toronto, Muhammad Ali Kamara of Regina, boxer Jack Kolke of Regina and Lee Kranz of Detroit, Christopher's trainer.

The suspensions are effective in Manitoba but commission chairman Norm Coston said he is hopeful other professional boxing authorities and the Canadian Professional Boxing Federation will honor them.

Dick Pearson, secretary-treasurer of the CPBF, said in Saint John, N.B., the commission would be honored by the federation.

The Manitoba government has already ordered a full investigation into the fights, and Provincial County Court Judge Benjamin Hrivek to conduct the investigation of the card.

Gray died about 24 hours after being knocked out by champion Al Sparks of Winnipeg in a bout for the Canadian light-heavyweight championship.

Christopher was knocked out in the second round by Chuvalo. He hadn't boxed in a year before saying he took a dive because his life was being threatened.

Chuvalo and Ungerman have both described Christopher's statement as "ridiculous."

Chuvalo was to have fought Muhammad Ali, former world heavyweight champion, next month in Vancouver but had the bout cancelled Friday. He was to have received $60,000 for the Vancouver fight.

Ungerman said the commission is not ready to announce the suspensions, saying none of the boxers was properly licensed.

"It's a farce," Ungerman said. "How can they suspend anyone they never licensed."

He said the commission did not even list members of the CPBF "until 15 days or so ago" and that Keller paid the $100 fee himself to get the fight promoter's sanction.

The commission was investigating the death of the 27-year-old Grey when Christopher's lawyer had statements he was to testify at the inquest read by Ungerman, saying he had been threatened. The lawyer forwarded the statement to the provincial minister of recreation, Larry Desjardins, who is responsible for the boxing commission.

Coston said statements have also been received from referees Steve Trolack and Pete Pitzer alleging that Pagan and Peko took dives in their bouts.

Pagan and Peko were both knocked out in the second round of their bouts.

Said Coston: "Put it this way: We have statements that the fights have been could easily have been the two winners.

"This commission-appointed commission is to investigate all aspects of the card, including the role of the boxing commission.

Cards Deal Carlton

Blog Devine, general manager of St. Louis Cardinals, has traded away a 20-game winner and pitcher he did not love doing the same with a most valuable player.

Devine, who shipped Steve Carlton to Philadelphia Phillies for right-hander Rick Wise Friday, said the deal was made because of "irreconcilable" salary differences with his southpaw ace.

He also declared: "We're bolded down to an unworkable situation with anyone who is still unsigned."

Among the unsigned players is Joe Torre, last year's most valuable player in the National League.

Other players also balked at a reported decision by Cardinal management to comply with the 5.5 per cent federal guidelines on wage increases. They included catcher Ted Simmons, first baseman Matty Alou and Jerry Reuss, a 14-game winner.

Carlton, upset at the trade, said he not advised him of the trade, had no similar trouble with the Philadelphia manager Paul Owens, a 24-game winner.

He came to terms on his 1972 contract after a 10-minute chat with general manager John Quinn. The figure was in the neighborhood of $65,000.

Wise, Phillies No. 1 pitcher last year, dismissed suggestions that salary differences caused his departure. He, too, was unable to come to terms. He wanted $65,000.

"I don't know if I could read that into that," said Wise, who pitched a no-hitter among his 17 triumphs last year. "Since Steve and I seem to counter-balance each other, I think the trade was made to help both clubs."

Until Carlton came to terms with his new team, he and Wise were among the notable disaffiliated players in baseball.

Others include two of the 39-game winners on Baltimore Orioles' staff—Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar, Jim Palmer, another 20-game winner, reduced the number of unhappy players on the American League champions by signing Friday for about $70,000.

Mickey Lolich, Detroit, Tigers' ace left-hander, is another pitcher who hasn't reported to spring training. Andy Messersmith of California Angels, Sonny Siebert of Boston Red Sox, Carl Morton of Montreal Expos and Clay Carroll of Cincinnati Reds also are away.

Among other unsigned players, although not yet considered spring training truants, are some of baseball's big hitters—Frank Howard of Texas Rangers, Boots Staub of Montreal and Ollie Brown of San Diego Padres.

Outfielders Mickey Stanley and Gates Brown signed with the Tigers. Other outfielders Cesar Geronimo and Bobby Tolan agreed to terms with Cincinnati; pitcher Dave LaRoche and infielder Rich Reese with Minnesota Twins; pitcher Mike Marshall with Montreal Expos.

Play... Ball!??

Eight feet of snow still cover the infield at Montreal Jarry Park Friday, home of the Montreal Expos. A massive cleanup is slated for March 20 to get the park ready for the April 7 home opening game against the Chicago Cubs.

Soaring Swede Sets Indoor Vaulting Mark

The blonde Swede cleared 17 feet 10½ inches to break his own indoor mark of 17-9. He then tried to snap the world outdoor mark of 18 feet ¼ inch held by Chris Papanicolaou of Greece, failed on three tries at 18 feet ½ inch.

Fewer than 1,000 of the night's crowd of 14,431 saw the vaulting heroics.

At the start of the evening, graceful Debbie van Kieckbelt of Toronto was the women's high jump at five feet eight inches, with another long-legged Toronto girl, Susan Turpin, placing fourth.

Miss Van Kiekebelt, wearing the colors of Scarborough Central Lions, cleared five feet on her first attempt at every height until it was put at 5-10. That proved too much for her and for two Boulder, Colo., girls who had cleared 5-8 after more than one attempt.

A top Olympic prospect, the five-foot-seven-inch Miss Van Kiekebelt won the 1971 Pan-American Games pentathlon gold medal for Canada.

Miss Turpin cleared all heights to 5-5 with ease but was stopped at 5-8. She placed fourth on the basis of fewer misses than others who leaped 5-6. Second place went to Alice Pfaff and third to Jane Frederick, the Colorado pair.

In all, eight Canadians placed sixth or better in the high-c'ass indoor meet at which many of the top United States Olympic prospects competed.

Glenda Reiser of Ottawa ran herself to exhaustion in placing third in the women's mile, but perked up immediately when the time of 4:46.8 was announced.

"That was my best ever," she said. She is Canadian native Canada-holder at 4:53.2. Doris Brown of Seattle won the event in 4:44.6.

Brenda Walsh of Edmonton was fourth in the women's 440-yard final in 58.8 seconds. Abby Hoffman of Toronto placed fifth in the women's 880 yards in 2:18.3, an event won by Cheryl Toussaint of New York in 2:08.2.

Diane Jones of Saskatoon was fifth in the women's shot put. Her best heave was 45 feet ¾, which compared with the 50-11½ of winner Maria Seidler of Chicago. Miss Seidler set an American record.

Among the Canadian men, Grant McLaren of London, Ont., placed fifth in the three-mile event with his best-ever time of 12:23.0. Emiel Puttemans of Belgium was the winner in 13:18.4.

Coach Paul Poce of Toronto said McLaren had been aiming at a 12:15 clocking, which would have been good enough for victory. Ken Hamilton of Toronto placed far back in the field.

Byron Dyce of Jamaica captured the men's mile in 4:01.8 ahead of Bob Day of Canada. Dyce, who is the 60-yard dash in 6.3 seconds, Dr. Merbener, who already was AAU outdoor sprint champion, noted that Gerald Tinker with his patented surging finish.

Chi Cheng's U.S. record of 7.6 in the women's 60-yard hurdles was beaten by Patty Johnson of San Clemente, Calif., timed in 7.5.

LEE TREVINO

Trevino Not Winning, But Has No Headaches

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (CP-AP) — Lee Trevino will have no trouble finding where the next meal comes from, no matter how he finishes in the Jackie Gleason $200,000 Inverrary Classic golf tournaments.

But three Canadians will have also been received from referees Steve Trolack and Pete Pitzer alleging that Pagan and Peko took dives in their bouts.

Said Coston: "Put it this way: We have statements that the fights have been could easily have been the two winners.

"This commission-appointed commission is to investigate all aspects of the card, including the role of the boxing commission.

Expos' Home Field Eight Feet Under

MONTREAL (CP) — While assorted members of Montreal Expos cavort through the early part of their spring training routine in the warmth and relative seclusion of West Palm Beach, Fla., it's an entirely different scene for the custodians of the club's home base, Jarry Park.

Today the infield at Jarry Park is buried under a winter accumulation of eight feet of snow and it's Marc Clutier's job to get the field ready for the National League club's home opener against Chicago Cubs, April 7.

"You could say we're proceeding with concern but at the same time we're not worried about taking," says Cloutier.

In three previous seasons the weather shifted in favor of the ball club, despite early predictions of doom and gloom, and not on opener was cancelled.

But the first home date never has been as early as this year. In 1969, it was April 14. In 1970, it was April 8, and last year it fell on April 11.

Cloutier, 37, is a well-known skier and water-ski champion, and is in his second year as Les Martin's successor. He works as director of operations from offices under the grandstand embellished with a sign that reads: "Bilingual Insane Asylum."

Last year, the snow-clearing started about this time. But that was the winter of Montreal's mammoth 180-inch snowfall. This year, the accumulation of home plate and the pitcher's mound won't begin until March 20. Cloutier figures the job will take 10 days.

Those two inches of snow will be left as protective cover for the grass. Ground crews like to think it will melt and run off naturally in time for the first game.

Preparing the field each spring is something of an experiment. The job used to be done with shovels but that was too time-consuming and exhausting. Heavy equipment, on the other hand, could damage the turf.

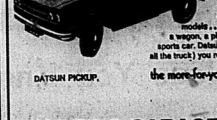
The $16,000 machine, running on treads, is fitted with a snow-clearing blade that pushes the snow onto the warming track—the ungrassed area around the outfield intended to warm grass before the wall is burning.

A loader carries the snow through both clubhouse exits to a truck which carts it away.

No Comeback For Tony C

NASHAU, Mass. (AP) — Tony Conigliaro went into seclusion in Connecticut Thursday after an eye examination confirmed that his sight is too poor to try a baseball comeback, according to his brother, Billy. Conigliaro, once considered a budding superstar with the Boston Red Sox until hit in the head by a pitch in 1967, said his baseball career is over. The Los Angel-s Times quoted him Friday as saying: "I feel—I'm nothing without baseball, but this time I don't fight it." the Times quoted Conigliaro as saying. "I've been through two comebacks already and I can't do it again."

Sport Briefs



WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Montreal centrefielder Boots Day had a full-length cast removed from his right leg Friday after checking into the Expos' baseball spring training camp. Manager Gene Mauch said Day would undergo isometric exercises to restore strength in the thigh muscles and would refrain from any strenuous workouts until at least mid-March. He sprained ligaments in his right knee during a benefit game in Montreal Jan. 27.

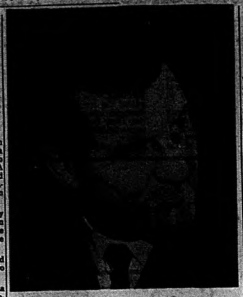
For Orillia, Charlie Cipolla got two goals and Clare Alexander and Gary Marshe got each.

Both teams answered two major penalties, and Orillia drew eight of 14 minors. Woodstock drafted Orillia 4-0-11.



The series continues Saturday at Orillia.

Hockey Scoreboard

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tuesday's line-up — a season that says you can't teach an old dog new tricks.

Willie Marshall, 41-year-old centre with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, demonstrated Friday night that he doesn't require much teaching.

He was up to some of his old tricks as he scored the 32nd goal of his career to tie the AHL record previously held by Fred Glover, now coach of Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League. Marshall already owned the record for most points, with 321 goals and 699 assists in 1,126 games.

Marshall, who was reinstated as an amateur last fall after 20 seasons in the AHL, is on a five-game pro tryout with the Americans.

His goal helped Rochester defeat Providence Reds 5-3 in their battle for fourth and last playoff position in the eastern division.

Murray Hall, Duke Harris, Barry Wilcox and Gary Bredin scored the other goals for the winners. Don Blackburn, the league's leading scorer, had a goal and two assists for the Reds. Ron Garwasiuk connected twice.

In other games Baltimore Clippers regained first place in the west, two points ahead of the idle Cleveland Barons, by whipping Hershey Bears 8-3. The loss for Hershey prevented the Bears from taking over third place. They are tied with Cincinnati Swords, who were also idle last night.

Springfield Kings shut out Richmond Robins 1-0 in a third game.

Ski Wins No Surprise

CRYSTAL MOUNTAIN, Wash. (AP) — Austria's Annemarie Proell and Bernhard Russi of Switzerland won the downhill races Friday in the World Cup ski competition at this Crystal Mountain area resort, 78 miles southeast of Seattle.

Miss Proell's unofficial time for the 1.3-mile women's course during 1,000 feet Silver Queen peak was 92.82 seconds. Russi, who won a gold medal in the giant slalom at the Winter Olympics, was timed in 85.97 seconds for the 1.5-mile men's course.

Marie Therese Nadig of Switzerland, who edged Miss Proell in the Olympics and Wilfried Dvenet of Austria tied for second. Their time down the course that drops 1,900 feet was 93.65 seconds.

Switzerland's Bernadette Zurbriggen was fourth with a time of 93.68. Laurie Kreiner of Timmins, Ont., finished fifth. Carolyn Oughton of Calgary was sixth.

World Championships at Calgary

Second Chance Coming Up for Skaters

CALGARY (CP) — Skaters who weren't a little or missed a step at the Olympics earlier this month get another chance at the world figure skating championships.

For the Olympics winners, all of whom are expected to compete, there is an opportunity to show they really are the best.

International Skating Union rules prohibit release of the competitors' names and countries for the March 7-11 event which they believe the Olympic results but it's expected 110 skaters from 18 countries will be taking part.

It could be a repeat of the Olympics at Sapporo, Japan, when Beatrix Schuba of Austria won the women's singles, Ondrej Nepela of Czechoslovakia took the men's singles, and Irina Rodnina and Alexei Ulanov of Russia captured the gold medal in pairs competition.

The dance wasn't held at the Olympics but defending world champions Ludmilla Pachomova and Alexander Gorshkov of Russia are expected to defend their title.

The Olympic champions also won world titles at the last France, last year, although the United States and Canada finished in the top three in two events.

Julie Holmes of the U.S. placed second in the women's singles at Lyons and Karen Magnussen, three-time Canadian champion from Vancouver, was third. Jo Jo Starbuck and Kenny Shelley of the U.S. were third in the pairs.

They'll be seeking higher placings in the coming championships, to be held in the 6,475-Stampede Corral which sold out its high-priced seats last June.

The Corral has been remodelled at cost of $200,000 which includes a new floor and special lights for the championships. More than 1,500 standing-room tickets will be available for each performance.

Obviously, Miss Magnussen will be one of the favorites as the four-time Canadian champion goes after the skates she missed gold medal. She placed second in the Olympics behind Miss Schuba while Janet Lynn, three-time U.S. champion, took third. Miss Holmes was fourth.

"If Miss Magnussen is going to win it, this is the time to do it on her home ground," said

Julie Holmes Turning Pro

Charles DeMore of Cleveland said Miss Holmes of North Hollywood, Calif., had signed a pro contract.

Miss Holmes was a silver-medallist in last year's World Championships, two years after she won the bronze medal. She competed for the United States in the Sapporo Winter Olympics earlier this month, finishing fourth.

Bulls' Rookie Centre Aims Sights High

Clifford Ray, Chicago Bulls' rookie centre, has set a lofty goal for himself: to become another Bill Russell in professional basketball.

Ray, in his first season in the National Basketball Association, has averaged nearly the excitement that Russell did when he joined Boston Celtics in 1956 and led them to their first of 11 league championships in 13 seasons.

But he has become the Bulls' No. 1 centre and helped them gain a solid grip on second

Glover Record Going

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Willie Marshall, 41-year-old centre with Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League, demonstrated Friday night that he doesn't require much teaching.

He was up to some of his old tricks as he scored the 32nd goal of his career to tie the AHL record previously held by Fred Glover, now coach of Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League. Marshall already owned the record for most points, with 321 goals and 699 assists in 1,126 games.

Marshall, who was reinstated as an amateur last fall after 20 seasons in the AHL, is on a five-game pro tryout with the Americans.

His goal helped Rochester defeat Providence Reds 5-3 in their battle for fourth and last playoff position in the eastern division.

Murray Hall, Duke Harris, Barry Wilcox and Gary Bredin scored the other goals for the winners. Don Blackburn, the league's leading scorer, had a goal and two assists for the Reds. Ron Garwasiuk connected twice.

In other games Baltimore Clippers regained first place in the west, two points ahead of the idle Cleveland Barons, by whipping Hershey Bears 8-3. The loss for Hershey prevented the Bears from taking over third place. They are tied with Cincinnati Swords, who were also idle last night.

Springfield Kings shut out Richmond Robins 1-0 in a third game.

Weldon Man for All Seasons

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Ken Weldon, a 55-year-old businessman, returns to his home province of Manitoba that he can throw a curling stone as well as he can swing a golf club.

Weldon skipped his Montreal rink to the Canadian seniors curling championship Friday with an 11th-round, 13-1 rout of the Ontario rink led by Stewart Brown of Guelph.

It was the second seniors title he has captured in just a few months. He won the Quebec seniors golf championship last fall.

Weldon's victory on a record of nine wins and one loss, gave Quebec its first seniors title ever and provided comfort to the veteran skip who was unsuccessful in three bids for the Canadian curling championship.

"Couldn't win the Brier, but this is the next best thing," Weldon said. "At our age, it's even better."

British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba tied for second behind Quebec, each with 7-3 records. Nova Scotia was fifth at 6-4, Saskatchewan, New Brunswick and Northern Ontario sixth at 5-7, Prince Edward Island ninth at 3-7 and Ontario 10th at 1-10.

Newfoundland, skipped by 51-year-old Lew Budden of Buchans, was winless. His rink learned to curl by reading a booklet published by a bank.

Filion Fills Card

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston's leading standardbred driver, Herve Filion, says world champion Herve Filion could break a record for most wins on a single card when he makes his debut at Frontenac Downs on Sunday afternoon.

Filion, who set a world record 345 wins last year, is driving in all 10 races and Sheth said Friday the 31-year-old French Canadian will be raising favorites in eight of the 10 races.

Boxing Day at Winterbourne, Filion broke the single day mark with seven wins in the nine-race card.

Attendance and wagering records are expected to be broken at Ontario's newest race track which opened last August and which has conducted 57 cards to date.

Lancers Lose

OTTAWA (CP) — Algonquin College defeated Belleville Loyalists 79-34 in an Ontario College Athletic Association basketball game Friday.

Coaching Brawl Steals Show As Crushmen Extend Series

OSHAWA (Special) — There were many questions in Belleville Bobcat coach "Moe" Hunter's mind following his team's 7-5 junior hockey playoff loss here Friday.

Not the least of these was "How could I have the right lines knocked out of my glasses and have a black left eye?"

Hunter's players had been in the limelight by going into Friday's game with a 3-1 edge in their best-of-seven semi-final series with the Crushmen, who finished second to Belleville's third in the Eastern Ontario Junior B league's regular schedule.

But the Bobcat coach found himself thrust into the spotlight near the end of the second period of Friday's game when Oshawa counterpart Jack Armstrong hurdled the barrier between the team benches and started throwing ches at him.

A five-minute high-sticking penalty to Bobcat goalie Bill Cormier at 16.40 triggered the incident.

Just after Terry Meagher tied the score 3-3, Cormier raced out of his crease and beat Oshawa's Joe Greenlree to a loose puck. But the Oshawa player kept coming after Cormier had cleared the puck, and the Belleville goalie raised his stick in self-defence. Greenlree suffered a facial gash, tumbled into the boards, and was removed on a stretcher, although he reappeared in the Oshawa lineup in the third period.

Cormier was assessed a five - minute high sticking penalty on the play.

"Armstrong started yelling things and I just said Bill was protecting himself," Hunter described the ensuing melee.

Although Armstrong and son Gary, familiar Oshawa defenceman number 4, were both involved in the brawl at the Belleville bench, the only action taken by the referee was to order both coaches to the dressing room for the remainder of the game and tack the last four minutes of the period onto the third.

The status of both coaches for Sunday's 8 p.m. sixth semi-final game at the Memorial Arena is in doubt.

"I don't know if I'll be able to be on the bench or not," said Hunter. "But I'll tell you one thing, I'll be there."

Although they held more than their share of the play in Friday's game, outshooting the Crushmen 46-31, the Bobcats only held the lead once.

Brian Counico snapped the game's first goal past Mark Logan at 2:10 of the first period after Rick Meagher got the draw in the Oshawa end on a Belleville powerplay.

Goals by Gary Bone and Gus McAvoy gave Oshawa into the second period with a 2-1 Greenlree made it 3-1 at 13.30, but linemates Mark Woodward and Terry Meagher scored 41 seconds apart to put the Bobcats on even footing.

Larry Hopkins made it 4-3 for the Crushmen after 27 seconds of the third period with Belleville still playing a man short on Cormier's major penalty.

Terry Meagher's second goal of the game at 2:15 on a powerplay, tied the score at 4-4, but Chris Bone gave Oshawa the lead a minute later with a Bobcat in the penalty box.

After Oshawa's Chuck Lukie drew three minor penalties on one play, Rick Meagher tied the game 5-5, but the Bobcats failed to take further advantage of their extended manpower advantage.

A disputed goal by Chris Bone, that Belleville claimed was kicked in at 15:45, proved to be the winner, while McAvoy fired an insurance goal into an empty Belleville net with only three seconds remaining on the clock.

The Crushmen drew 16 of the game's 26 penalties.

If a seventh series game is necessary, it will be played Thursday night at 8 p.m. in Oshawa.

What you see is what you get if you try messing around with Margaret Way of the YMCA judo club. Taking his knocks is Mike Ward, another member of the club. The demonstration was part of the program at the Y's annual meeting Thursday.

Bantams Fall by Playoff Wayside

Belleville's second all-star team fell by the playoff wayside Friday night as the Elmmen Bantams dropped a 6-1 decision to Lindsay in the Memorial Arena.

The bantams lost the Ontario Minor Hockey Association second - round series in two straight games, and join the city's Western Tire Juveniles on the sidelines.

Sunday, three other city all-star teams try to get back on winning playoff tracks. The Knox Car Wash Peewees, who lost the opening game of their series to Whitby 4-3 in overtime, enjoy a home ice advantage in Sunday's return 1.30 game in the Memorial Arena.

At 3 o'clock, the Blake Kerr Imperials play the fourth game in their best-of-five OMHA midget series with Ajax. The visitors lead the series 2-1.

And at 5 o'clock Sunday, the Rollins Construction peewees play host to Whitby, who won the first game of their series 5-3 with three overtime goals.

Nixon, Chou In Agreement In Some Areas

HANGCHOW (AP) — President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai have agreed between them on major issues they have been debating for the last week, the United States president said today, and they will tell the world about it in a communique Sunday.

Nixon told reporters he and his Chinese host had reached "some areas of agreement." He emphasized the limited scope, adding: "Note that I said some areas."

"The communique will speak for itself," the president said, adding that he and Chou had agreed that they will not make any statements going beyond the language of the joint document.

Conclusion of a "basic agreement" was first announced today by White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler, who also declined to give details of what Nixon and Chou had agreed on. But the communique is expected to be couched in general terms and to promise cultural and journalistic exchanges, some expansion of trade, an easing of restrictions on tourist travel and some of continuing contact between the two governments.

It was generally assumed that there will be little or no mention of such issues of major disagreement as the war in Indochina and the Nationalist government's hold on Taiwan. And when Nixon prepares to visit the Soviet Union in May, there is not likely to be any mention of Peking's feud with Moscow.

Ziegler made his announcement shortly after Nixon, Chou and Mrs. Nixon flew from Peking to Hangchow, a favored vacation spot for Chinese officials on the coast south of Shanghai.

The president told U.S. reporters he wanted to apologize because his aides had steadfastly refused to discuss the progress of his summit conferences in Peking.

"If we had yielded to the pressure for hard news," he said, "it would have jeopardized what we have accomplished, and you, of course, will be the judge of that we have accomplished."

Nixon added that he had ordered this policy of silence as part of the process of "nurturing this new relationship" with China.

IRA Tries to Kill Security Chief

BELFAST (CP) — The Official wing of the Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility today for the assassination attempt against Northern Ireland's security chief, and said he was chosen as a target because of his hard line against insurgents.

Home Affairs Minister John Taylor, who once accused the British army of being "too soft" on the IRA, was ambushed Friday night as he got into his car after visiting his family's engineering business in Armagh. Gunmen pumped 15 rounds from a sub-machine-gun into the car and four of them hit Taylor in the jaw, neck and chest.

After emergency treatment in Armagh, he was taken by 32 miles to a Belfast hospital where the bullets were removed. He is in satisfactory condition.

The Officials, who assumed responsibility for killing seven persons in a bombing at the British Army base in Aldershot, England, Tuesday, issued a statement in Dublin describing the 34-year-old Taylor as "the city unscrupulous and vicious."

They said he was one of the principal architects of the Ulster government's policy of jailing IRA suspects without trial "with its attendant acts of brutality and systematic torture of innocent people," and charged he was responsible for British troops killing 13 Roman Catholic civilians during the illegal civil rights march in Londonderry last Sunday's ago.

Two Men Die In Silo

MONTREAL (CP) — National Harbors Board police said Friday that either a lack of oxygen or an accidentified gas caused the death of two men in a corn storage bin in Montreal harbor Thursday. Lieut. Conrad Rangy said the men, Leo Paul Hebert, 49, and Gerard Muir, 53, collapsed after descending into the bin to make repairs. Two other harbor workmen and three harbor policemen were taken to hospital after being overcome in rescue attempts.

Held by Hair Student Says

TORONTO (CP) — An 18-year-old student, through a "agony" because police held him upright by his hair and throat while he was photographed at a demonstration against Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's visit to Canada last October, Judge Anthony Vannini said Friday.

Judge Vannini, conducting a preferred by injury into alleged police brutality at the demonstration, was commenting on photographs of George Dilarski, a student at a Toronto high school at the time.

Evidence at the inquiry showed that the youth was held by police, while blood streamed from his nose, long enough for at least four photographs to be taken—three by a photographer for The Globe and Mail and at least one by police.

"In any event, these pictures do indicate that young man was going through a great deal of agony in having his picture taken," Judge Vannini said.

Earlier Friday, Mr. Dilarski said he was constantly struck in the face by the police who arrested him. He said he lost his back when he was tossed into a police van, and eventually was taken to hospital where he received three stitches to a gash in his head.

He told the inquiry that he was unable to eat solid food for two weeks because of a sore jaw, and his "whole face was swollen."

Constable Dennis Robinson, one of the arresting officers, said the youth had to be rushed into the van, and the door quickly shut, because he was struggling wildly with police.

He said the youth was arrested after he pulled at a police officer's horse's bridle and shouted at the mounted officer.

Because of a mixup at the police van, Constable Robinson said, Mr. Dilarski was charged with two counts of assaulting police and one of possessing a dangerous weapon. The charges were later dropped.

Constable Robinson said Mr. Dilarski may have got a bleeding nose as he scuffled with police following the attack on the mounted officer.

Barry Lebov, a mortgage broker who witnessed the incident, said a mounted officer ordered Mr. Dilarski to "get back" after the youth stepped out onto the street near the Ontario Science Centre, where the demonstration was taking place.

He said a second officer rode up "and with his crop began to beat George."

"As we got to the police line, the officer stepped out from the line, gave me an uppercut to the stomach and then stepped back into the line and we were let through," Mr. Lebow said.

Mr. Lebow was charged with causing a disturbance. His case was heard in provincial court on Wednesday. Judge H. A. Rice has deferred his decision until April 6.

On the way to the police station, Mr. Lebow said, Mr. Dilarski sat across from him in the van, his face covered in blood, moaning that he was going to pass out. He said he did not know the youth before that night.

FREEZE-WARNING

LONDON (AP) — British government scientists have developed a roadside device that warns when a road may freeze over, giving maintenance crews time to lay salt and gravel in advance.

Defence Policy Remains

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's defence policy is virtually the same as that recommended previously by the Commons external affairs committee, Defence Minister E. J. Benson told the committee Friday.

One of the few partial exceptions noted in his prepared remarks concerned participation in peacekeeping activities. Both the government's white paper on defence and a committee report had agreed on the importance Canada should attach to peacekeeping.

"It is the government's assessment, however, that the scope for useful and effective peacekeeping activities appears at the present time more modest than it did earlier."

Although "the necessary political pre-conditions for establishment of such a force" were lacking in most cases, "this government remains fully committed to peacekeeping as an objective where the conditions are appropriate."

It was Mr. Benson's first appearance before the committee since leaving finance for the defence portfolio. His statement dealt in generalities.

Snowbird Writer Is Back

TORONTO (CP) — Gene MacLellan left Toronto eight years ago because he was tired of his job as a dishwasher and started a new career in Charlottetown as a hospital attendant.

Since then, the 34-year-old native of Val d'Or, Que., has acquired an international reputation as a song writer on the strength of Snowbird, the hit that made Anne Murray famous, and Put Your Hand in the Hand.

He is back in Toronto today as a performer, having left his 140-year-old farm house near Charlottetown for a cross-country singing tour with The Bells, a Montreal pop group.

"I just thought I'd have to get up off my rear end and do a little work," he explained in an interview.

He said he decided to leave the quiet of the farm because "the more you write songs, the more introverted you become."

"To get out of it you have to stop writing."

Lions Donate Hearing Aids

Sewer Construction Means Extra Guards

Sanitary sewer construction on Cannifton Road between College and Adam Streets is necessitating the hiring of additional school crossing guards for detour routes in the city's Hillcrest area.

With the commencement of sewer installation several weeks ago, the hiring of one guard for the detour route was recommended by the city traffic committee and this week the committee recommended that a second temporary guard be hired for the intersection of Centre Street and McFarland Drive.

The recommendation to city council is that the guard be hired until the end of June or until the Cannifton Road sewer project ends.

The Cannifton Road sewer is part of the trunk sanitary sewer to run up the bed of the Moira River from the Dundas Street sewage station to College street and then up Cannifton Road to Adam Street.

The purpose of the trunk line is to provide sewer service for the city's northeast industrial area and will ultimately be extended into Thurlow township to service building up areas immediately north of Belleville.

The sewer project is being constructed by the Ontario Water Resources Commission which will recover costs on a use basis from the municipalities served.

Plowing Match Sought for County

Hastings county has extended an official invitation to have the International Plowing Match held again in this county.

The invitation was extended early this week at the annual convention in Toronto of the Ontario Plowmen's Association by county representative Kenneth Mumby of Rawdon township.

Sites for the International Plowing Match have been promised for as far ahead as 1978 and it is not known for what year the Hastings invitation will be accepted.

"We may not know this year, but I am looking forward to having the match in Hastings in 1979," said Mr. Mumby. He noted however that this was not definite.

The International was held north of Belleville in 1961 on the farm of Ivey Vermilyea and other neighboring farms.

Mr. Mumby said his committee has not yet given thought to a possible site for the next International match in Hastings but he expected action on this to be taken soon.

Luna 20 Back

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet unmanned Luna 20 returned to earth with the first soil samples from the lunar highlands, Tass announced today.

The unmanned craft touched down safely after its orange parachute opened over "the pre-set area," Tass said. The landing was at 10.12 Moscow time Friday night.

Announcing the conclusion of the mission, Tass said, "all stages of the complicated experiment were carried out according to plan."

Man Shot

BRAMPTON (CP) — A knife-wielding man died Friday after being shot by a Brampton police sergeant.

Police said the uniformed officer was called to investigate a complaint that a man was smashing furniture and making loud noises. The man advanced on the officer brandishing a knife, and did not back down after several warnings.

Chinese Amazed At Pictures

HANGCHOW (AP) — If the visiting Americans are awed by China's deification of Chairman Mao, the Chinese are stunned by the extensive and persistent television and photo coverage of President Nixon.

They cannot understand why a man cannot go for a walk along a lovely lake or through a palace courtyard without being dogged every step of the way by TV crews and hordes of photographers.

"It is not healthy for President Nixon to have his picture taken so often," worried one of the interpreter guides. "His work becomes a public one in many little black boxes."

Radio and press interest in the United States in the Nixon visit seems to grow more frantic as the days go by.

The telephone rang at 4 a.m. today on the bed table of James Richener, the author of Tales of the South Pacific who is covering the president's trip for Reader's Digest.

"Hi there," said a cheery voice. "This is All Night Dan the Record Man. . . ."

The caller identified himself as the friendly news-and-music voice of a 1,000-kilowatt station in the Philippine hinterland of Angelica and urgently asked: "Tell us, Jim, just what is Chair man Mao telling to President Nixon about?"

Grain Growers Get $300 Subsidy

OTTAWA (CP) — Grain growers on the Prairies and wheat farmers in the rest of Canada can expect to make between $300 and $500 this year under the government's new grain subsidy.

Payments from the estimated $66-million subsidy, dubbed a two-price system for wheat, were announced Friday by Otto Lang, minister responsible for the Canadian wheat board.

Prairie farmers can expect for payments under an intricate acreage limit even if they sell no wheat.

But grain farmers in the rest of Canada—mainly in Ontario, Quebec and Prince Edward Island—can only qualify if they sell wheat.

Officials in the industry department's grains division said the amount of the subsidy was decided by determining the number of bushels of wheat sold for human consumption in Canada—about 200 million bushels last year, but which varies from year to year—and making a $3-a-bushel compensated sale price.

This amount reduced by $3 from $1.36½ a bushel the price a farmer can receive for domestic consumption wheat.

In other wheat-growing areas of Canada, however, the amount can fall only by $2.00 bushels of wheat at the $3-a-bushel price.

Mother's Complaint Frivolous

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Keith Spicer, Canada's bilingual commissioner of official languages, revealed here Friday only one of about 700 complaints filed with his office was rejected for being both out of his jurisdiction and in bad faith.

It was from his mother.

Mr. Spicer said his mother, a "dyed-in-the-wool loyalist," was apparently annoyed by bilingual trash-room signs along Highway 401 in Ontario where "there wasn't a French-speaking resident for 100 miles."

Said Mr. Spicer: "I wrote back and said Dear Mom, I'm disregarding your complaint because it is frivolous, immaterial and made in bad faith. And also it's in the provincial government's jurisdiction."

Soft Line Taken On Trade Conflict

OTTAWA (CP) — The long-awaited Canada-U.S. trade conflict was alive but almost invisible this week.

It was buried beneath Canadian disclosures about a controversial wife-killer who received a presidential pardon and the generally gloomy state of the country.

It was submerged under the opposition pressed its attack on the government over the high rate of unemployment in the unemployment benefit commission.

Under all that, the government seemed to be taking a soft line on the trade negotiations, which broke off two weeks ago in deadlock.

Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin told the House Friday that Canada is willing to resume discussions whenever Washington wants.

In a speech at St. John's, Nfld. Friday night, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said the dispute between the two countries, which came to a head after President Nixon imposed its import surcharge last August, is "not insurmountable" and made it clear Ottawa is ready to change trading relations with Canada.

"What is involved is not a confrontation between two opposing philosophies of trade," Mr. Sharp said, "but a question of how the mutually beneficial relationship between our two countries."

Washington has been seeking changes in the 1965 auto pact provisions that guarantee Canada a set share of the American auto market.

It also wants to remove the barrier against duty-free import of cars from the United States by individual Canadians.

Statistics Canada reported that Canada's auto trade surplus with the United States ended in 1971—at $188 million—was down $27.5 million from the 1970 surplus.

But Canada still had a seven-month cumulative deficit of $78 million in U.S.-Canada auto trade.

In a statement released to the press this week, Paul Cellucci, U.S. treasury undersecretary, put the Washington view of the trade dispute in terms much broader than merely auto pact changes.

He agreed that Canada and the United States exist in "mutual relationship," but he suggested that is where the "understanding" really ends.

It was under very different circumstances that trade agreements such as the auto pact and the defence production sharing arrangements originally sealed, he said.

"Both Canada is a stronger economic position, enjoying a continuing balance-of-payments surplus, and the relationship which led to increased United States exports to Canada has now "unbalanced."

The answer, he suggested, is for Canada to import more goods from the United States, reinstating Canada's traditional deficit in Canada's favor.

He called for a "more mature special relationship."

Jitter Legs Common But Cause Unknown

By G. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you offer some help for restless legs? This happens in bed at night. It is really worse, because at all, but I am losing sleep. Prescription and nonprescription pills don't help. I am 62. I play tennis. — Mrs. F.S.

Dear Reader: My husband has had restless legs for years. He has been told that doctors all over have no such a condition but no one knows what to do. He has taken tranquilizers and sleeping pills, yet when he relaxes they will return the trouble also. — Mrs. S.A.

Yes, it's a fairly common problem and a miserable nuisance, but the exact cause isn't known, so I'll offer such remedies as seem to help in some cases. The problem is also known as "jitter legs."

It's been described at quite some length. Some women may experience the trouble during pregnancy and it may run in families.

There's an idea that accumulation of hypnotoxin in the tissues is responsible, and folks who have kidney disease often have more trouble, but they are not alone in having the difficulty. Anemia is the artery-set, however, is usually found to be normal.

Another theory contends that restless legs are more common in persons who are "overstrung" — but there's also a possibility that overstrung folks actively may sometimes be a factor. In some cases, anemia is present. It is a mild corrective it helped.

In short, it's been difficult to pin down a specific cause for restless legs, and there's fair reason to suspect that quite different conditions color into different states.

So what will we do about the problem? Commonest treatment is a tranquilizer along with an aspirin-type medication at bedtime.

Walking around a bit before retiring helps, but that's sort of a nuisance. One reader said that she found relief by the simple procedure of taking a deep breath, and holding it while keeping her abdomen relaxed.

Exercising to dilate blood vessels have been used. Also hot baths and massaging. Some report success here said that vitamin E helps.

Another reader, a physician, said he began taking a brisk walk late in the day and his leg jitters stopped bothering him.

Don't ask me why any of these remedies work. I don't know. All I can do is pass along to you a variety of ones that people say work.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a double chin be caused by adenoids or tonsils? I've tried exercises and didn't work. I also once very badly. I saw a doctor who said I'd have to have a double chin, and would this year or next. When I was younger I was very thin, but now that I've filled out I've got a double chin. — Mrs. R.R.

Adenoids and tonsils have nothing to do with double chin. It is a matter of fat accumulating in the tissues of the throat. The contour of your face, however, may exaggerate it.

You don't mention your weight, but that may be the problem. Mechanical exercises won't get rid of a double chin—but the fat that causes it will. Diet is where something to do with your scoring.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I fighted and my hair a few months ago and have been left with a noticeably darker. I would like to lighten it. Can a mechanical peroxide used near the eyes can cause blindness. What can I do? — Miss M.

If peroxide gets into the eye it can cause irritation, although not blindness. If you protect the eyes with some sort of padding, you can use peroxide on the eyebrows without danger.

Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

It is very relaxing to play against defenders who never seem to find a winning lead and can be rescued if the opponents' bidding has been misjudged or reliably be taken at their face value.

In the this case, where West leads a diamond against six spades. As first sight there seems to be nothing to the play. Apparently the thing to do is draw trumps and lead a heart toward the king.

If West takes the ace, you make the slam even if he goes up, for you can then lodge your club loser on the king.

But if East has the ace, you go down, because he takes the king with the ace and you later lose a club trick.

However, it is more to the best than meets the eye. There is a good chance of making the slam, because East has the ace of hearts. And, of course, this possibility should be explored.

Let's assume that after winning the diamond lead you cash the K-A of spades, East showing out and discarding the nine of hearts.

What you do next depends on how well you know East. If he is a player who never false cards, you can be sure he has the diamond ace.

In that case it would be a losing proposition to lead a heart to the king. You would surely go down if you did that.

Instead you should cash the A-K of clubs, return to your hand with a trump, cash the A-K of diamonds, discarding two hearts, and then lead a heart.

East wins with the ace but is forced to yield a ruff and discard — and you wind by making the contract because you established sufficient faith in the integrity of your fellow man.

Murphy Charged With Murder

TORONTO (CP) — Police charged James Murphy, 35, with non-capital murder Friday about 30 minutes after a coroner's jury ruled that his wife, Maybelle, died March 3, 1971, " . . . from suffocation caused by the accident of James Walter Murphy."

The jury made the judgement even though Coroner Donald Bent in his charge to the jury said they could not "in all conscience speculate or elaborate in the area by what means" the woman came to her death.

The five-man jury, deliberated four hours and said it found "from the evidence submitted obvious signs of a struggle, both in the apartment and on the body."

The jury's verdict also said: "In our opinion suffocation was caused by Mr. Murphy's actions in a way which did not have detectable evidence for the examining pathologist."

Murphy, who was taken to police cells after the decision, justified he was sitting on the couch in the apartment as his mother in the same building where the couple lived when asked was struck by his wife "with something" as he got up to leave.

He said he lost consciousness and when he came to, his eyesight was blurred. He said asked his wife was lying on the floor.

G. Leslie Pyllet, Murphy's lawyer, said Friday he intends to apply to an Ontario Supreme Court judge today to get Murphy released on bail.

The lawyer said outside the coroner's court that Murphy was victimized at the inquest by "character assassination" by hearsay evidence which would not be allowed by a criminal court.

Dr. Bunt, the coroner, said in his charge to the jury it was not the jury's responsibility to speculate as the cause of death.

Dr. Bent said further, Mrs. Murphy died of heart failure from a cause unknown."

Brilliant Ottawa Girl Found Dead at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Police are investigating the death of Joyce Lu of Ottawa, a 19-year-old straight A freshman music student at Harvard University's Radcliffe College.

Police said the body was discovered beneath three inches of snow near next to the college's Holmes Hall music conservatory Thursday night.

They said a friend of Miss Lu said she seemed upset when he last talked to her. He said he had been looking for her since morning.

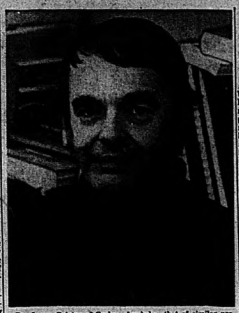
She was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lu of Ottawa.

Friends in Ottawa said Friday the brilliant 18-year-old appointly found her university courses boring.

Miss Lu had a 96-per-cent scholastic average in her final year at an Ottawa collegiate last year—highest in the Ottawa area.

Her principal at the school, J. Wright Neal, said Friday he talked with her during a study break last week and said she seemed depressed because of the lack of challenge in the Harvard course.

Miss Lu was a first-year science student majoring in applied mathematics but taking music courses as well.



"During her high school years here we didn't have a thing to offer her," Mr. Neal said.

"She was just too brilliant. To go to Harvard University and complain that you don't find it challenging enough is, to me, an indication of just how brilliant she was."

No Decision On Ad Ban

VANCOUVER (CP) — Decision was reserved Friday in a test case launched by seven firms challenging the validity of British Columbia government legislation banning the advertising of liquor and tobacco.

Mr. Justice E. R. Hinkson of the Supreme Court, concluding four days of technical legal argument, said he still had problems to consider in relation to the case and it would be some time before he reached a decision.

Dr. James Gripton of Carleton University's school of social work says day care in Canada for pre-school children is in limbo. The standard is far below that of similar programs elsewhere, including the Soviet Union and China, he says. (CP Photo)

Educationists 'Lost Our Nerve'

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Educationists have brought on themselves much of the difficulty currently facing education, says the co-ordinator of the Canadian Studies Foundation.

We have abdicated our authority and lost our nerve," Dr. George Tomkins told Friday's opening session of a two-day conference of history teachers at the University of Western Ontario.

"What I am saying is that we as teachers . . . have too easily embraced the anti-intellectual fashions of the day and indulged in a faddish presentism or a pathetic search for relevance and thus helped to deny our students their cultural heritage."

Dr. Tomkins tied his concern for anti-intellectualism to a trend against cultural standards, particularly as reflected in current entertainment which provides, he said, unparalleled vulgarity.

"It is a strange fact that so many of those concerned with the quality of life in the material sphere turn a blind eye to the problem of quality in the cultural sphere.

"The result is a passive acceptance of destructive trends — indeed of anti - intellectual anti-cultural trends that can only, if unchecked, have consequences for our society as severe as those arising from atmospheric or water pollution.

"The question is whether we are in danger of general brutalization and debasement of our citizenry such as appears to have occurred in ancient Rome."

Davis Has Praise For Newspapers

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis of Ontario said Friday the federal government's information service years to have fallen "somewhat short" of its objectives, and he has no intention of establishing a similar central information office in the province.

Mr. Davis, in an off-the-cuff speech to the Ontario Provincial Press Association, also said his government would avoid "at all cost the appearance of news manipulation.

"Speaking personally, I would not be very receptive, and I emphasize the not, to the idea of establishing some central information office in Ontario along the lines of the federal government with Information Canada."

Mr. Davis said he believes in the traditional "adversary relationship" between government and the news media.

"At times, it is wasteful and pointless, as are many contrivations. But at other times, it affords both sides an opportunity to re-examine their positions and, perhaps, even their subconscious prejudices."

The premier said people are bombarded daily with information by radio and television. Newspapers play a unique role, frequently overlooked, of giving people a "sort of mental breathing space" when they can mull over what they read and draw their own conclusions.

Newspapers have become more responsible in recent years and the expansion by the Toronto dailies of letters-to-the-editor columns into full-page features was an attempt to provide a sense of participation for their readers.

The premier described the members of the Ontario legislative press gallery as journalists of "very high calibre," not subject to pressures to manage news.

"I should add here that I'm delighted that your co-opera tive, The Canadian Press, now has a three-man bureau at Queen's Park covering both the legislature and the other activities of government."

Thomson newspapers in Ontario are now providing more coverage.

"This is a healthy development because, frankly there is a great deal going on and I think it makes it very difficult for one person, no matter how hard he or she tries to cope with, and do an adequate job, of covering Queen's Park in the 1970s."

Ecology Adherents Asked Not to Criticize

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — Premier William Davis officially opened the $746-million nuclear power station here Friday hailing it as another "first" for Canada in advanced technology, but cautioning those with "understandable passion" for ecology not to criticize it.

"What we are really talking about is balance in our approach to environmental problems," he said. "I fully believe that plants such as this, the one under construction in Bruce (Bruce peninsula on Georgian Bay) and others . . . will afford us that environmental balance."

He said nuclear stations eliminate air pollution and have lower fuelling costs than coal fired plant.

During a recent month, Mr. Davis said, the Pickering plant had a power output that exceeded any other nuclear plant in the world, "and that's with two of its units still to become operational.

Donald Macdonald, federal minister of energy, mines and resources, said the Pickering nuclear station "will provide enough power for two million homes, a power equal to that made-in-Canada power which is not dependent on importation of other fuel."

Mr. Macdonald chose the occasion to announce that Canada has sold a joint uranium stockpile worth $60 million to undisclosed Spanish purchasers.

"This day is a substantial demonstration of the success with which Canadians can have in the world of science and its translation to commercial enterprise."

Ontario Departments Renamed

TORONTO (CP) — Rene Brunelle, former minister of the department of lands and forests, Friday was named minister of community and family services which replaces the temporary department of housing and social services.

Confusing? Well, maybe.

Along with the new department name change for Mr. Brunelle, Mr. Davis said Eric Winkler will be known as the minister of consumer and commercial relations.

Formerly, the post was known as financial and commercial affairs and under a temporary set-up was called ministry of public protection.

Robert White will head the ministry of industry and tourism, replacing the old ministry of trade and development and the recommended ministry of trade and industry.

In addition, the Ontario Municipal Board and the Assessment Review Board, formerly under the department of municipal affairs, are being made the department of the attorney-general.

Medicare Said Answer To Suits

NEW YORK (CP) — A Canadian medical-legal expert Friday blamed the soaring number of malpractice suits in the United States on the "great society syndrome" and suggested a national health care system as a possible solution.

Lorne Rozovsky, legal counsel of the Nova Scotia hospital insurance commission, told a federally-funded committee studying the incidence of malpractice suits launched against U.S. doctors and hospitals that Americans are not as inclined as other people to accept life's upsets and miseries.

"Where there is even a small chance of redress, they are motivated to take action to right a wrong," he said.

It was this desire, he said, which made America a great society, but as with all philosophies, "there are invariably negative side effects."

The committee was told by an earlier witness Incidence of malpractice suits had climbed 219 per cent since 1966.

Rozovsky added that while Canadians shared the same mentality, they didn't be more conservative and to accept the unfortunate incidents of life more readily.

He said there is more scope for suing the medical community in the U.S. through such avenues as contingency suits, under which a lawyer takes a percentage of any award he wins for his client rather than charging a retainer.

Three Die in Toronto Affray

Slain Detective's Eyes Given Ontario Eyebank

TORONTO (CP) — The violent death of Toronto detective Michael Irwin Sunday may result in renewed eyesight for someone, somewhere in Ontario.

Shortly after he died on the operating table with a bullet in his head from a man blasting away with a semi-automatic .22-calibre rifle, his widow, Barbara, a mother of four, signed consent forms for the removal of the cornea for transplants.

"It was his request that this be done," said Inspector Jack Webster, investigating the shooting incident which also resulted in the death of detective Douglas Sinclair, 44, father of one, and later the death of the gunman, identified by police as Lewis William Alexander Fines, 53, father of four and a welfare recipient.

It's "a very deep tragedy . . . two men's lives snuffed out like that . . ." said Police Chief Harold Adamson, at the scene of the shooting in northeast Toronto moments after it occurred.

"It emphasizes the dangers that police officers face at all times," he said, noting that policemen's deaths while on duty are "more frequent, not in Toronto, but across Canada . . . it's a sad situation."

The two detectives, along with a constable, went to a Don Mills apartment building after receiving reports that a man had fired a pellet rifle at guests attending a party and also was shooting at cars and signs along the Don Valley Parkway, 300 feet behind the building.

When they arrived at the fourth floor and started down the corridor, a man stepped out of a doorway with what appeared to be a pellet gun.

"When they were about 20 feet from the apartment," said Inspector Charles Webb, "the man pointed the semi-automatic rifle at them and started shooting.

"The first shot hit Irwin in the head and another shot, hit Sinclair in the chest. It was fatal."

Constable Sam Fox, 26, ducked into a doorway as seven more shots slammed into the walls.

The gunman ran down the stairs and Constable Fox gave chase to the underground parking garage where the gunman disappeared. Constable Fox returned to aid the fallen officers.

While at the side of the fallen men, Constable Fox investigated a noise at the exit stairs at the end of the fourth-floor hallway, found the gunman, and asked the man to drop the weapon.

The man turned the muzzle towards Constable Fox, but before he could fire, Constable Fox pumped three shots into his chest, killing him on the spot.

Israelis Battling Lebanon Guerrillas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli troops and tanks battled Palestinian Arab guerrillas in southeast Lebanon today for the fourth day despite a UN Security Council demand that the Israelis withdraw, the guerrilla command reported.

The Palestinians said fighting continued around Hebbariye and Rachaya Foukhar, the two chief villages in the Arkoub region, which the guerrillas control.

Israeli fighter planes were providing an air umbrella over the area, but there was no report that they had resumed bombing and strafing. The guerrillas said their anti-aircraft guns were in action.

Israeli sources in Tel Aviv admitted that action was continuing inside Lebanon but gave no details of today's operations.

A commonique said one Israeli soldier had been wounded, and a spokesman reported "about 20 terrorists" killed in ground fighting.

Witnesses on the Lebanese side of the border said they spotted 36 Israeli armored vehicles moving through Hebbariye. They reported 13 houses in the village had been blown up.

Machine-gun fire went on throughout the night and today Israeli batteries in positions in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria opened up on the wooded slopes around Rachaya Foukhar, they said.

Palestinian guerrillas on the scene claimed to have mined exit roads in the area, and Arab radio reports said the guerrillas were bringing in reinforcements from Syria.

Security Council Demands Israel Withdraw Forces

UNITED NATIONS (Reuter) — The Security Council by unanimous vote today demanded that Israel call a halt to military action against Lebanon and "forthwith withdraw all its military forces from Lebanese territory."

The resolution, an interim measure pending further debate on the tense situation on the Israel-Lebanon border, was jointly sponsored by Britain, France, Italy and Belgium at an emergency session called by Lebanon after Israeli forces had struck at border villages on three successive days.

Nixon Back In U.S.

"Who that with the fat guy?"

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuter)—President Nixon and his wife arrived back in the United States today from their China trip and spent a few hours resting in the home of the U.S. military commander, Gen. Robert Ruegg, before leaving for Washington.

The president was due to remain in Anchorage less than nine hours. The Nixons will arrive in Washington about 9 p.m. EST tonight.

Tuesday morning, the president is due to brief leaders of Congress on his trip, but there has not yet been any announcement as to when he will make a public statement.

At one stage on the eight-hour flight from Shanghai, Mrs. Nixon talked to a pool reporter and said that she thought "a great deal was accomplished" by the president's trip.

At a press briefing, presidential adviser Henry Kissinger said the two governments would establish a "central point" in some third country where they

Deaf to Get Printing Telephones

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — More than 200 deaf persons were told Saturday they soon will have available an electronic device that will enable telephone calls to be immediately translated into print on a teletype machine.

Doris MacKillop of the Canadian Hearing Society at a meeting of the Ontario Council of the Deaf the new system will be like flashing light to indicate that the telephone in the deaf person's home is ringing.

In sign language, the audience was told that the deaf person then would lift the receiver and put it on a box like apparatus, similar to a conference telephone used here, which in turn would transmit the spoken word from the telephone to the teletype machine that would transcribe the message on paper.

61 West Virginians Die as Dam Breaks

MAN, W. Va. (AP) — National Guard troops and hundreds of volunteers set out today in search of an estimated 400 missing persons, victims of flooding that left 61 known dead and wiped out whole communities.

Meanwhile, attention began to focus on the cause of a break in an earthen dam which precipitated the flood in Buffalo Creek below Saturday morning. Waters from an 18-acre lake were unleashed.

Ben Tudor, general superintendent of the Buffalo Mining Co., said the state had denied the company permission on many occasions to send some of the slag and sludge which had accumulated in the firm's lake into valley streams, relieving pressure on the dam.

"They were too concerned about the trout downstream," Tudor said. "If either had to be the people or the trout and now both are gone."

Authorities said they expected to find many more bodies as bulldozers began searching the remains of 14 Appalachian coal camps along the 20-mile hollow.

National Guard troops made it the last 2½ miles to the end of the hollow early today; guardsmen said only two of 37 houses remained in that area. The onrushing water stripped the land down to bedrock.

Gov. Arch Moore estimated that 4,000 of the Buffalo Creek area's 7,800 residents were left homeless.

Many residents of the hollow acknowledged they had been warned this last week but the dam might break. But they said similar warnings had been issued in previous periods of heavy rain.

Deputy Sheriff Otto Mutters said Joyce Dasovish, a vice-president of Pittson Co., a holding company for Clinchfield Valley Coal Co., told him Saturday morning: "Everything's okay."

Less than two hours later the dam crumbled, Mutters said.

Technicians Back on Job

However, there was a note of discussion at Toronto International Airport. Montreal's Dorval field and in Halifax where workers decided Sunday to remain off the job until results of voting by the 2,200 members across the country are made known, perhaps next Monday.

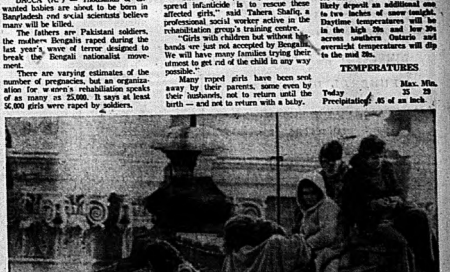
Death Faces Unwanted Babies Of 25,000 Raped Bengal Girls

DACCA (AP) — Thousands of unwanted babies are about to be born in Bangladesh and social scientists believe many will be killed.



The fathers are Pakistani soldiers, the mothers Bengalis raped during the last year's wave of terror designed to break the Bengali nationalist movement.

There are varying estimates of the number of pregnancies, but an organization for women's rehabilitation speaks of as many as 25,000. It says at least 56,000 girls were raped by soldiers.

"The only way to prevent widespread infanticide is to rescue these affected girls," said Tahera Shafiq, a professional social worker active in the rehabilitation group's training centre.

"Girls with children but without husbands are just not accepted by Bengalis. We will have many families trying their utmost to get rid of the child in any way possible."

Many raped girls have been sent away by their parents, some even by their husbands, not to return until the birth — and not to return with a baby.

Kennedy Assails Britain

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Senator Edward Kennedy unleashed a bitter attack on the British government today, labelling the killing of 13 Roman Catholics in Londonderry as Britain's My Lai and calling for the immediate withdrawal of its troops from Ulster.

The Massachusetts senator's criticism came as a congressional subcommittee opened hearings on a resolution, cosponsored by Kennedy and another Democrat, Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, calling for a British pullout, an end to internment without trial, the dissolution of Northern Ireland's Parliament and the eventual unification of Ireland.

Kennedy, who often has been outspoken against British actions in Northern Ireland, said the United States can no longer stand by and do nothing in the face of daily killing and brutality.

"For hundreds of years, Ireland has seemed an incurable plague on the conscience of Britain, destined to bring constant turmoil to unending generations of British and Irish people and their leaders," he said.

Three Die in Toronto Affray

Slain Detective's Eyes Given Ontario Eyebank

TORONTO (CP) — The violent death of Toronto detective Michael Irwin Sunday may result in renewed eyesight for someone, somewhere in Ontario.

Shortly after he died on the operating table with a bullet in his head from a man blasting away with a semi-automatic .22-calibre rifle, his widow, Barbara, a mother of four, signed consent forms for the removal of the cornea for transplants.

"It was his request that this be done," said Inspector Jack Webster, investigating the shooting incident which also resulted in the death of detective Douglas Sinclair, 44, father of one, and later the death of the gunman, identified by police as Lewis William Alexander Fines, 53, father of four and a welfare recipient.

It's "a very deep tragedy . . . two men's lives snuffed out like that . . ." said Police Chief Harold Adamson, at the scene of the shooting in northeast Toronto moments after it occurred.

"It emphasizes the dangers that police officers face at all times," he said, noting that policemen's deaths while on duty are "more frequent, not in Toronto, but across Canada . . . it's a sad situation."

The two detectives, along with a constable, went to a Don Mills apartment building after receiving reports that a man had fired a pellet rifle at guests attending a party and also was shooting at cars and signs along the Don Valley Parkway, 300 feet behind the building.

When they arrived at the fourth floor and started down the corridor, a man stepped out of a doorway with what appeared to be a pellet gun.

"When they were about 20 feet from the apartment," said Inspector Charles Webb, "the man pointed the semi-automatic rifle at them and started shooting.

"The first shot hit Irwin in the head and another shot, hit Sinclair in the chest. It was fatal."

Constable Sam Fox, 26, ducked into a doorway as seven more shots slammed into the walls.

The gunman ran down the stairs and Constable Fox gave chase to the underground parking garage where the gunman disappeared. Constable Fox returned to aid the fallen officers.

While at the side of the fallen men, Constable Fox investigated a noise at the exit stairs at the end of the fourth-floor hallway, found the gunman, and asked the man to drop the weapon.

The man turned the muzzle towards Constable Fox, but before he could fire, Constable Fox pumped three shots into his chest, killing him on the spot.

Israelis Battling Lebanon Guerrillas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli troops and tanks battled Palestinian Arab guerrillas in southeast Lebanon today for the fourth day despite a UN Security Council demand that the Israelis withdraw, the guerrilla command reported.

The Palestinians said fighting continued around Hebbariye and Rachaya Foukhar, the two chief villages in the Arkoub region, which the guerrillas control.

Israeli fighter planes were providing an air umbrella over the area, but there was no report that they had resumed bombing and strafing. The guerrillas said their anti-aircraft guns were in action.

Israeli sources in Tel Aviv admitted that action was continuing inside Lebanon but gave no details of today's operations.

A commonique said one Israeli soldier had been wounded, and a spokesman reported "about 20 terrorists" killed in ground fighting.

Witnesses on the Lebanese side of the border said they spotted 36 Israeli armored vehicles moving through Hebbariye. They reported 13 houses in the village had been blown up.

Machine-gun fire went on throughout the night and today Israeli batteries in positions in the occupied Golan Heights of Syria opened up on the wooded slopes around Rachaya Foukhar, they said.

Palestinian guerrillas on the scene claimed to have mined exit roads in the area, and Arab radio reports said the guerrillas were bringing in reinforcements from Syria.

Security Council Demands Israel Withdraw Forces

UNITED NATIONS (Reuter) — The Security Council by unanimous vote today demanded that Israel call a halt to military action against Lebanon and "forthwith withdraw all its military forces from Lebanese territory."

The resolution, an interim measure pending further debate on the tense situation on the Israel-Lebanon border, was jointly sponsored by Britain, France, Italy and Belgium at an emergency session called by Lebanon after Israeli forces had struck at border villages on three successive days.

Two Charged in Aldershot Bombing

ALDERSHOT, England (CP) — Two men appeared in court today and were ordered held in custody until Friday on charges arising from the bombing of an officers' mess at the British Army base here in which seven persons died.

Francis Finbar Kissane, 33, London, was accused in magistrates court of conspiring to cause an explosion.

Both men face a joint charge of conspiring to pervert the course of justice by falsely producing a driving licence.

The two men, Irish building workers, are both married and have lived in London for some time.

The explosion last Tuesday in the army headquarters of this military town 45 miles from London destroyed the officers' mess and killed five women, a gardener and an army chaplain.

Detectives leading a manhunt for the bombers said they were pursuing a gang of five or six and expected more arrests to follow.

In the Irish Republic, police said all 18 republican extremists detained after the Aldershot blast last week were released.

Charges of belonging to an illegal organization have been laid against four of the arrested men.

System, Not Computer Blamed for UIC Ills

Les Grills, MP Hastings, believes the Unemployment Insurance Commission's computer centre in Belleville has come in for some undeserved criticism.

He says he intends emphasizing the fact at this week's session of Progressive Conservative parliamentarians.

The centre has been under fire in recent months in the controversy over UIC failure to pay unemployment benefits on time.

But, indicates Mr. Grills, the centre itself is often the victim of a "shotgun" system which renders its proper functioning "extremely difficult."

What he hopes to do is to airest to fellow Conservative MPs the importance for putting the current controversy, where it involves the computer centre, in proper perspective — something which has been blurred in the heat of criticism of the UIC, Mr. Grills feels.

"Unfortunately, there has been mass confusion on this issue of unemployment insurance benefits," said Mr. Grills today.

Therefore, Opposition criticism of the government's failure to establish a system that would expedite benefits payments is legitimate.

"However, it's my observation that (when) . . . criticism is made, it is frequently it's not reported that the actual operation of the computer centre in Belleville, is not the target," says Mr. Grills.

Opposition criticism is levelled at a government policy which "has a very chaotic implementation, has made it extremely difficult for the computer centre to do its job. I feel this would be the case no matter who were to be operating the computer — and no matter in which community it was located."

Although Opposition MPs may have been differentiating in their criticism a "certain amount of critical flak" has resulted in "unfavorable publicity" for Belleville and the operation of the centre "which is not deserved."

Mr. Grills says he will discuss the problem this Wednesday with fellow Conservative MPs at the party's weekly caucus.

"I will ask that, even though we have made this differentiation, the target of our criticism has been blurred in reporting our position," said Mr. Grills.

He also other MPs, said Mr. Grills, he had been "besieged" with complaints about delays in payments of UIC benefits. But his "personal observation" is that "the computer centre in Belleville has been a "useful factor in our better-than-average unemployment situation. The decision to locate here was (based) on strict computer criteria and so far has been borne out," concluded Mr. Grills.

TWEED (Special) — The Ontario department of lands and forests office at Tweed has announced that the Outlet Provincial Park in Prince Edward county will be extended by approximately 300 acres.

The additional acreage will be used to extend existing facilities at the popular Lake Ontario park.

Negotiations are also underway for the purchase of more land in the area between the Outlet and Sandbanks Provincial Park in Hallowell township.

James Keenan, director of lands and recreation area branch of the department of lands and forests said the additional land will round out the department's holdings to provide an expansion program to get uder way.

Mr. Keenan said the need for additional camping area in Prince Edward has been recognized for some time with Outlet park experiencing continued increase in the number of campers seeking accommodation.

Grant Allows Facelift Of Old Brighton House

BRIGHTON (Staff) — One of Brighton's foremost landmarks, the old Proctor house, will be receiving a facelift as a result of a $25,000 winter works incentive grant.

The grant, awarded to SOHO (Save Our Heritage Organization) by the department of manpower and immigration, will enable the group to fix up the roof, repair faulty brick walls, replace broken windows and restore interior plaster work before embarking on a complete exterior and interior repainting.

Organization spokesman a n, Mrs. Jane Pope, said work began at the Proctor house site this morning and that job openings in the repair program, to last until May 31, are available through the Trenton offices of Canada Manpower.

The house was completed in 1867 after three years of construction, to provide a sprawling residence for the Proctor family . . . a leading Brighton family with land and shipping interests at the time.

Mrs. Pope said the grant was is no way given to the Brighton organization to embark on a historical restoration project. Rather, the house is to be improved to a standard which will prevent it from deteriorating further.

SOHO, an organization formed by interested parties here, to save the house from demolition, intends to launch a fund - raising drive for room by room restoration.

The group was chartered in November, when the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority expressed desire to tear down the building and construct new authority administrative offices on the site . . . a proposal that sparked considerable concern here.

The LTRCA has agreed to sell the house and approximately one acre of ground surrounding it to SOHO following its pledge to restore the 3½ - storey homestead. The authority has received a provincial government grant to cover expenses of a land survey and the transfer of ownership of the property.

U.S., China To Set Up Contact

both have representatives, and discussions about bilateral trade and cultural exchanges—both agreed to in a communique issued Sunday—would be held there. Others appeared one likely choice, since Canada has full diplomatic relations with China.

As expected, there was no change in the opposing views of the U.S. and China on Vietnam.

"This was the week that changed the world . . . the Chinese and American people hold the future of the world in their hands," Nixon said at the final banquet Sunday night with Premier Chou En-lai in Shanghai.

Nixon and Chou summed up their talks and separate discussions by State Secretary William Rogers and Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei in the 1,726-word communique.

The communique set forth statements of position from each side summing up their differing positions on Taiwan, Indochina, Japan and Korea; expressed mutual adherence to certain general principles of international conduct, and announced agreement to expand relations in various fields "to broaden the understanding between the two peoples."

Nixon at the banquet Sunday night noted that the communique showed areas of disagreement as well as agreement.

"But what we have said is that communique is not nearly as important as what we will do in the years ahead to build a bridge across 16,000 miles and 22 years of hostility which have divided us in the past," the president said.

"What we have said today is that we shall build that bridge."

In furtherance of this goal, the two governments said they would facilitate "people-to-people contacts and exchanges" in such fields as science, technology, culture, sports and journalism.

They also agreed to "facilitate the progressive development of trade between their two countries," and to "stay in contact through various channels, including the sending of a senior U.S. representative to Peking from time to time for concrete consultations. . . ."

With regard to Taiwan, which the Chinese termed "the crucial question obstructing the normalization of relations between China and the United States," the U.S. said it acknowledged the position of both the Communist and Nationalist regimes that "there is but one China and that Taiwan is a part of China."

The U.S. "reaffirms its interest in a peaceful settlement of the Taiwan question by the Chinese themselves," the communique said. "With this prospect in mind, it affirms the ultimate objective of the withdrawal of all U.S. forces and military installations from Taiwan. In the meantime, it will progressively reduce its forces and military installations on Taiwan as the tension in the area diminishes."

The U.S. has 3,200 soldiers and airmen on Taiwan.

Youngster Steals Area Dog Show

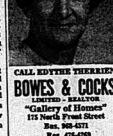
Topping all 95 dogs registered in the show was 10-month old Tessa, female wirehaired Fox Terrier from Tayaan Kennels, owned by George Cornforth, R.R. 3, Brockville.



The puppy is one of the first litter from an English stud imported by Mr. Cornforth. Judge Mrs. Eva Whitmore, of Thornhill, who used to breed Wire Haired Terriers herself, said she was deeply impressed with the pup's coat and conformation.

Brenda Shillington from Trenton was judged the best junior handler by Gayle Mordeen Pierce of Kingston. Miss Shillington showed a female English setter bred in her parents' kennel.

The show, a mid-year event for the kennel club, attracted dogs and their breeders from as far away as Ottawa and Toronto. The Belleville Club's big event is its October show that brings in breeders from all over North America.

Survey with Prizes Planned

A little piece of paper with a prize for someone may be sent soon as a passport to a holiday for a number of Belleville people.

Or it might win the family a color television set, or a camera.

A "blap" popping out of mailers delivered to 12,000 city households this week is Eaton's mail order store's attention-getting gimmick that will kick off a month-long survey here.

The magenta colored enclosure, when taken to Eaton's Front St. order office and matched with five shapes on a chart, entitles its bearer to one of five prizes. They are a color TV, a $25 Eaton's gift certificate, an AM-FM radio, an instamatic camera, or two to four day's free hotel accommodation for two in one of five cities — Miami Beach, Palm Beach, New Orleans, Reno or Las Vegas.

Purpose of the "blap" promotion is to persuade Belleville residents to answer a short series of questions. The answers carry significance for motivational researchers at Eaton's Toronto headquarters who have been selected to participation in the survey are Sarnia, Woodstock, Barrie, Timmins and Belleville. The 12,000 mailers going out here will be mailed at the rate of 2,000 a day starting the middle of this week.

Experience has shown that about 40 per cent of the recipients will go to the order office to claim their prizes, said Sheila Conway, catalogue sales promotion manager for Eaton's in Ontario and Quebec. The 60 per cent of the prizes left over will be given for with Eaton's opening to the local press and radio personalities to do the drawing. All prizes will be exhibited in the mail order office window.

Bottles Bombard United Church

Littering and throwing away of empty pop and beer bottles has long been a complaint to pollution-conscious citizens.

Sometime before Sunday morning, someone decided to serve their litter indoors. They threw four empty soda bottles through four plate glass windows at Tabernacle United Church. Damage has been estimated at $25.00.

It would appear that the "free accomodation (or 15 per cent off any $100 purchase, instead) makes up the largest percentage of the prizes. In Sarnia, 20,580 mailers were sent out, and 4,000 people are nearing at the order office there indicated they would take the free accommodation sometime within the coming year. About 1,000 of these can be expected to go through with their plans, Mr. Conway said.

Eaton's used to operate a "limited line department store in Belleville. But its present policy calls for only full line department stores and it is operating stores of no fewer than 100,000 square feet — too large to be put into Belleville.

So the emphasis here is on "in home convenience shopping", the familiar catalogue.

"We are in a service business, not a marketing business," said Mr. Conway. "We merchandise a page."

The half-dozen questions print-citizens will be asked to answer will tell motivation researchers how recently and frequently their customers used the catalogue and the monetary value of their purchases.

Realism Needed

Brotherhood Week has been celebrated in Belleville and it was interesting to see some of the newest residents — from Tibet —participating. Gonam Samang and Sangey Samang presented the awards to the winners of the elementary school poster contest.

While brotherhood is the noblest ideal of man, not just for a day or a week but for all time, we still cannot ignore the baser instincts of the human race which manifest themselves in violence, discrimination and other aberrations.

Man must concern himself with the practical steps necessary to make him a more agreeable species. We know for example in areas where human beings are at odds with one another the reasons may be found in part at least in social factors such as housing and living conditions. We said once that the "troubles" in the working-class districts of Belfast and Londonderry are in part due to the fact that people of volatile temperament live in crowded tenements — as we put it, in tinder-dry proximity, areas moreover where there are no parks and few recreational outlets.

Various scientific authorities have been warning of the perils of overcrowding, and of course, over-population; the latest is Dr. Harding Le Riche of the University of Toronto who also cited Ulster as an example in a general warning about over-population. He could also have mentioned the Negro ghettos in the United States; while cases of mass rioting, looting and burning seem to be on the wane there, they still remain hotbeds of tension and despair. For example, there was the case recently of an elderly Negro woman in Baltimore, deaf and partially blind she was pictured sitting by a furnace which she had been fuelling with torn up flooring. Cold weather and fear of robbers had prevented her from cashing two welfare cheques. For a time she had been placed with relatives but returned to her own "home" when she found their plight as harsh as hers.

The concept of brotherhood then may pale in the light of cold reality. In parts of Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan Indians and Metis may be found living in equally deplorable conditions. If we can take concrete steps at our own comparatively affluent level, whether through community programs, service clubs, churches or whatever, to alleviate such conditions, then we will be doing our part to achieve some measure of real brotherhood.

Recreation Projects

Graham Deline, project supervisor for the federal Opportunities for Youth Program, has emphasized that any local autonomy in the carrying out of projects such as the Picton to Algonquin Park trail.

Reportedly in financial difficulties with the project and without any guarantee of further grants, the supporters of Canada Mainprize artificial James Stavely regarding possible establishment of an association to fund and manage the work has merit.

There is such a tendency nowadays to depend on the government for assistance that it is almost forgotten that those concerned in the project can be their own best friends. In other words, let us not forget the value of private enterprise.

Meanwhile we draw attention to another project for young people now being planned by Trent University students Alexis Clark and Chantal Tie Yen Quee. The girls are seeking public support for their scheme so they may qualify for backing under the Opportunities for Youth program.

Prince Edward County lends itself perfectly to such an initiative. It is already a centre of the tourist industry, yet remains quiet and unspoiled. If bicycle trail routes can be established it will add another dimension to the county's summer attractions, as well as encourage a return to more leisurely ways of transportation.

We hope the plan will attract government support and in doing so provide employment for young people in this area. The letter from Miss Clark and Miss Tie Yen Quee, who is part Chinese, shows a concern for the outdoors, for recreational needs and for most of all for people. They are to be commended.

Poor Example for Visiting Americans

Parliament's Opening Takes on an Unruly Image

By FARMER TESSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA — The opening of the third session of our 28th Parliament, and the opening of the fourth session, provided a number of firsts in our history.

They were, quite frankly, the sort of firsts we can do without. They emphasized the often unedifying spectacle taking place in our political and social structures, in Canada that is rapidly and hardly be recognizable to our forebears.

I refer to such items as: Opposition MPs refusing to go to the Senate Chamber to hear the speech from the throne which closed the third session as a protest against the government for not carrying on normal business of the House prior to the prorogation; the absence of radio and television coverage of the colorful ceremony of prorogation due to the strike of CBC technicians and the refusal of the private network employees to cross the picket line; the presence of two separate groups of pickets on Parliament Hill as the Governor-General arrived — the CBC technicians and the electricians' union who were disgruntled or disrupted air travel.

The general air of unrest and resentment that marked the proceedings, both in and outside the parliament buildings, could hardly have gone unnoticed by the Senate Chamber for the speech from the throne which closed the third session as a protest against the government for not carrying on normal business of the House prior to the prorogation; the absence of Opposition MPs refusing to go to the Senate Chamber to hear the speech from the throne which closed the third session as a protest against the government for not carrying on normal business of the House prior to the prorogation; the absence of

It was just as well the Queen wasn't scheduled to open this session or members of the anti-monarchist league would have been on hand with their pickets, too.

While the proceedings were not carried live nor filmed for later viewing on the networks, there was no lack of publicity about the speech from the throne itself. Well over 100 other members of the press media told the story through newspapers and private radio.

Through co-operation of the prime minister's office, the press gets its first look at the throne speech. It was made available in the Parliamentary Press Gallery about 9:15 in the morning. To obtain a copy, each reporter has to sign a form agreeing not to release any details until the Governor-General starts to read it about 11 o'clock.

In addition, the press is given a background briefing by two ranking members of the prime minister's staff. The two briefings are also strict. No tape recorders are allowed in the briefing room; no statements or comments are to be attributed to anyone, and, in effect, the two men conducting the briefing are not to be identified.

The briefing lasted about an hour, starting with a general statement of government intentions, followed by dozens of questions on specific points. The answers are often deliberately vague, as in the case of a reporter trying to find out the exact details of coming legislation. But the briefing is of value in giving more insight into the government's general plans than can be found in the usually high-flown and grandiose prose of the speech itself.

Accompanying the text of the speech, which is provided in printed form to each official, are passages on alternate pages, a la Hansard, which are referred to in the speech. In this case the list contained 29 items of legislation which the government hopes to bring in during this session. But reporters are warned that the list may not be complete, additional bills may be introduced at any time.

Of course, no one seriously believes that all 29 items can possibly be dealt with in the course of the session, which the government hardly hopes will be ended by July 1, or before Parliament is dissolved for an election. With the throne speech debate itself taking up six days, with departmental spending estimates to be tabled and discussed, with a budget to be brought in, the Commons will be lucky if it can process half a dozen of the more controversial pieces of legislation in the short time allotted.

Ironically, one of the items in the speech reads, in part: "It is a matter of concern to the government that at this moment many Canadians will be unable to receive the national broadcasting service. . . The government proposes therefore that the CBC be authorized to extend its services in a comprehensive fashion."

With the publicly-owned network's microphones and cameras silent and dark during one of the important news events of the year, many Canadians will say "Amen" to that statement.

Plea for A More Representative Government

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Our government is set up to cater to three levels, no different from the feudal system of Europe in the Middle Ages. So we still carry on: the king on top, now it is the Prime Minister, followed by his cabinet. Next came the noblemen surrounded by their knights, today it is the capitalists and at last came the peasant and this is where we come in, only today they call us the working class.

We keep this country going, we are the heart of the country and yet we are the ones who suffer.

Canada's deficit keeps increasing every year and to the Government it is a sign of good economy; to us it is a poor indictment of people and judgment. Even as our taxes keep going up so do our deficits. No wonder if we buy what other countries scrap — our Sea Mid-Canada, Pine Tree Line radar installations were already obsolete before completion, but they bought the Bomarc as a topper; the Bonaventure from England after they declared it scrap and unseaworthy.

Do we need this kind of people to spend our money? Pay more taxes every year to repair their blunders? Then they ask us to buy savings bonds, so they can do it all over again. For gratitude you pay tax on the interest you receive. When they borrow that dollar last bit so much of its spending power you incur a loss again.

I always hear the comment, the trade unions are getting out of hand. What is the guideline? Our 8 per cent wage guideline or the examples of our government, 33 to 50 per cent increase for themselves?

With regard to the latest strike by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at the major airports, we are not in the class of people who can afford to go south. We have to save our money for the threat of unemployment and retirement. Don't laugh, you may still be working now—so were many others at one point. I know, I just came back from Sudbury and Coppercliff, 2,000 men from Inco won't need any flights for some time. Then the people say "I wonder why".

Mailman Answers 'Canuck'

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

To answer again the simple question "assuming letter carriers were paid for a mail delivery not made on Friday, what was the objection to doing it on Saturday?" I will state for a second time, "As for the Saturday delivery I wonder if Johnny Canuck and other taxpayers would have minded paying overtime for mail delivery? I would not have minded the overtime a bit!"

One point Johnny Canuck failed to assume was that a number of letter carriers made it in to work Friday, and they sorted the mail for their routes. This is part of their duties. I put in the other duties of the letter carriers by point out the fact that delivering the mail is the final duty of the letter carrier. Having reported for work, these letter carriers fell under an article in our contract which states: "Where an employee is not notified beforehand not to report for duty, an employee reporting for work at his scheduled starting time shall be paid for the entire shift even when work is not available to his normal assignment. In such circumstances, the employee may be required to perform other available work." The letter carriers did perform other work by helping to sort the routes left vacant by letter carriers who were not able to make it in. After sorting the extra routes management sent them home.

Because Saturday is a letter carrier's regularly scheduled day off, he is entitled to time and one-half if he works. Look again Johnny, the simple answer was there!

Two men are employed to supervise the letter carriers and there are twenty-eight letter carriers. If Johnny Canuck was one of these supervisors, could he find the simple answer to his simple question in my first letter?

We have planned an opportunities for youth project to be carried out this summer in the Prince Edward County area and are looking for your support.

The project will involve the planning of bicycle routes throughout Prince Edward Isle, area. The routes will be planned with a mind to scenery, historic and recreational sites, convenience of services and accommodation for the biker.

Local high school students will also be employed for the summer months.

We feel that the benefits of such a project are numerous. The routes could be constructively used by not only the cyclists and tourists of the area, but such organizations as the YMCA, children's camps and the various institutions for the handicapped.

We believe that the present widespread interest in physical fitness and soaring bicycle sales seem to indicate a growing need for a project of this type. In the light of these considerations we are asking for your support.

If you feel that the community would benefit from this project, we would greatly appreciate a letter of support.

Youth Project Bicycle Route Plan For Prince Edward County

Politicians and Computers

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

On Feb. 23 you noted editorially that Mr. David Lewis is "long on criticism and cant and short on ideas how to cure the ills for which he blames the government". Well, Mr. Lewis apparently is not alone in this capacity. At the Tory annual general meeting held in Belleville All Hallo, MP for Wellington distinguished himself with some inane and uncalled for remarks.

No doubt, Mr. Hales, seeking an impressionistic, and lacking anything constructive to say decided the current policy of computers had to serve the party line best.

Mr. Hales is quoted as saying "Belleville has a very black name throughout Ontario" and "the computer is the symbol of the UIC as the problem. What exactly does Mr. Hales know about computers anyway? Is he not aware that most billing today is done by computers? Has the member never received an incorrect account from any of the credit-ors — the phone company, the hydro, the insurance company or any of the other thousands of businesses that bill by means of a computer? Has he not then indeed he is an exception.

I doubt if the computer at the UIC is any different or any more inefficient than any other being used today — it certainly is handling a much bigger load than most.

It is strange that Mr. Hales just breezes into Belleville full of capcorn and windy political rhetoric. Where has he been in the House of Commons all this time? I cannot recall any breathtaking speeches on the subject of unemployment, or more to the point, any positive suggestions as to cures emanating from Mr. Hales. He feels to give the city a bad name but has not uttered comments from vote hungry politicians who don't even have any connection with the UIC computer will do so.

Perhaps Mr. Hales should talk about the AVRO Arrow fiasco and tell us how the government of the day got the whole country a bad name by scrapping the finest aircraft of its type in the world in order to buy inferior American plane. But then, this was described at the time by the Tory government as a courageous piece of leadership". The Tory Party of 1973 would called it by a different name.

BANCROFT — This North Hastings village with a population of approximately 2,200 has requested the Ontario Water Resources Commission to install a sewage works project at an estimated cost of $1,342,-735.

The OWRC will take over the existing sanitary sewers and the sewage treatment facility, construct additional sewers and build a new treatment plant to provide secondary treatment.

Of the total capital cost, the province will provide a 50 per cent subsidy or $665,359 of the estimated gross cost of the new works. Bancroft ratepayers will pay an estimated service rate of 53 cents per 1,000 gallons of sewage treated, together with a frontage rate and connection charge.

Six Swimmers Get Bronze Cross

Six swimmers were awarded the Bronze Cross yesterday at the Y after completing the Royal Life Saving Society requirements.

Those were Andrew Hooper, Scott Watson, Carol Thicke, Susan Thompson, Kathy Wood and Peter Leach.

Three others failed to complete the 11-week course.

Joanne Tugnett instructed the course, which is ranked as one better than the bronze medallion. The bronze medallion is the requirement for lifeguarding a public pool.

The examiner for the course was Norm Passant of CFB Trenton.

Well Spoken Quartet

Ameliasburg Girl Speaking Finalist

Lisa Vincent, a student at Kente Public School in Ameliasburg, topped all other contestants in the elementary section of the Oral Communications Festival held Saturday afternoon at Sir John A. Macdonald School in Belleville.

Both her topic, "horses," and her articulation were good, the judges said, in declaring her best among the seven participants from school zone 3, wrestling from Leeds and Grenville to Peterborough counties. Miss Vincent will now go on to compete in the provincial finals in Toronto.

Second place winner was Joe Dalrymple from Central Public School, Bowmanville, representing Northumberland and Durham county. Third prize winner was Byrn Chamberlain, from Bayridge Public School, Kingston, representing Frontenac county.

Saturday was the second day of the festival. Secondary School contestants gave their speeches Friday.

Judges for the elementary section were Sister Mary Fleurette of Nicholson Catholic College; Lewis Bird, retired teacher from Peterborough and W. B. Doddesley, Kingston, a representative from the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association.

J. Robert Burnett, vice principal of Sir John A. Macdonald School was chairman of the festival this year, and organization was in charge of Mrs. Burnett, educational assistant with the Hastings county board of education. Miss Sharleen Wenstaff, a secretary with the board, was timer.

The Final Word

Lisa Vincent from Kente School in Ameliasburg topped the roster of elementary school contestants at the Oral Communications Festival at Sir John A. Macdonald School Saturday to earn the right to go on to the provincial finals. Runner-up was Joe Dalrymple of Bowmanville who spoke on Alexander Graham Bell and brought a prop along to illustrate his talk.

Restaurant Damaged

TRENTON (Staff) — An early morning fire gutted parts of a drive-in restaurant here today, forcing operators of the premises to keep the operation closed until repairs can be carried out.

Fire department spokesman say the blaze began in an office at the A and W Drive-in on Dundas St. East, possibly starting in a waste paper basket in the small room.

No estimate of damage is available.

Trenton Fire Department dispatched two engines and 16 volunteers to the scene for about 90 minutes for a fire-fight that saved the restaurant from complete destruction.

Injuries Minor In Two Crashes

TWEED (Special) — Madoc detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police investigated two accidents over the week-end. Personal injuries in both were minor.

The Leveck car was damaged to the extent of $500 and the Creasy car to the extent of $300.

A car driven by Linda Diane McInroy of Peterborough struck the iron bridge on the old Marmora Road south of Highway 7 at 1:27 a.m. Sunday morning. Miss McInroy and her three passengers were treated for minor injuries at Belleville General Hospital and released. The car sustained $700 damages.

— DEALER ENQUIRIES INVITED —

The Experts Say

Art Frauds Evident In Widespread Areas

By SUSAN BECKER

OTTAWA (CP) — Use common sense and caution in shopping for a good picture.

That's the advice aimed at average consumers here before turning up in Canada, Mary Taylor, curator of drawings for the National Gallery of Canada, says she thinks the incidences are fairly widespread.

They mainly involve prints as opposed to paintings because fraudulent prints are easier to produce and harder to trace.

The examples she has seen from the Ottawa area—all under $2—in each case were advertised as a print by a famous artist such as Matisse, Picasso or Chagall. They were, in fact, reproductions of prints by these artists. On most, the artist's signature had been carefully forged in pencil.

"To my knowledge, the expert forgers are only dealing with big names because the profit is in any commodity," Dr. Taylor says.

"It is difficult to nail a dealer who advertises a print by a given artist because of the ambiguous way that the word print is used.

"Strictly speaking, a print by an artist is a work of art which has been taken from the actual plate made by the artist's hand and printed either by the artist himself or under his direct supervision.

"We tend to use the word print more loosely and incorrectly to describe any work of art which is a mechanical production of an artist's work. The word 'reproduction' is more apt.

"However, under these conditions a shady dealer can advertise a photo-mechanical reproduction as a print and usually get away with it."

Dr. Taylor says dealers or organizations are trying to police the market as well as they can. The American Association of Art Dealers circulates among museums a publication listing recent thefts and giving information on forgeries.

She herself, offers these tips for prospective buyers:

—Go to reputable art dealers. Be critical in shopping and take time. Don't hesitate to ask questions.

—Don't expect to get a famous artist's work at a bargain price. If offered a "genuine" Picasso print for $20, there is probably something wrong. If it has a signature, there is definitely something wrong. Authentic Picasso prints may run from $500 to $2,000.

Persons have been known to remove reproductions of famous artists' work from good art books, mount them, pencil in a signature and offer them for sale.

—Do not hesitate to demand that the print be taken out of its frame to allow examination of the back of it. Frequently "prints" have been manufactured by reputable firms to be sold as reproductions and the publisher's name will be printed on the back.

Take a magnifying glass when shopping. Look at the print carefully if it purports to be an original.

A minute screen pattern in the color or line sense—something—would be seen in newspaper photographs or comic book fare—is a pretty sure indication it was made by photo-mechanical reproduction.

However, the magnifying glass test is not foolproof since there are methods of silk screen reproduction that do not show the grid pattern.

Beware of something that looks like a water-color but has pencilled numbers in the lower right corner, such as 4-75.

These numbers, which appear on genuine print editions, indicate the number of the particular impression out of the number of the total edition. Since a water-color is a unique object, it will not bear these numbers.

Chinese Influence

Suede Top Handbag

TORONTO (CP) — Spring handbags range from suede to crinkle to smooth patent.

"Suede is the top handbag leather for spring," says Beth Hammond, director of the Leather Bureau of Canada. "But smooth leather is coming on strong."

In Toronto, John Hori likes this butter-soft leather, especially with the new shirred look. However, there is still much continued interest in the shiny crinkly look.

And for a young spring, Mr. Hori has introduced handbags to carry out the two main spring themes, the nautical look and the Chinese influence. These are over-shoulder suede bags, either long or wide oblongs. They carry the nautical theme in an applied gused anchor or stylized boat in contrast colors or go Eastern with an appliqued Chinese character, also in contrast colors as brown or wheat-color suede.

"Soft, soft, soft," says Suzanne Cornell of Classic Handbags. "Bags have no seaming construction and have neat hardware." She believes it will be a bright color spring, with white extremely important. Early spring will set in pale pastels. Mrs. Cornell particularly likes suede for spring, especially in pale colors.

In Montreal, there's also spring fashion agreement among the three leading handbag manufacturers—Cornet, Mastercraft and Bernard. Sharps continue sell only to firm without rigidity. Bags are small to large but never extremely large, according to Mastercraft. There's the long or longuette as it's being called, as well as the oblong, the round and the square.

The adjustable strap strap style is perhaps still the most popular. However, the fun feed bags continue their popularity for the younger set. The scrunch pouch is becoming a favorite with everyone.

There's a return to the clutch envelope, toni Montreal and Toronto handbag manufacturers say. This style hasn't been around for a long time. Whether it will sell well with the rash of purse snatching that has hit so many cities remains to be seen. Carried under the arm, it is easier to grab from behind than the strap style.

Suede is popular for spring in a fine napped look for dressy wear, less highly buffed for casual occasions. But there is increasing demand for the smooth, soft nappa leather with a polished finish and natural look.

The suede leather handbags include black, white and navy but also has the gamut of the brown family, including tan, russet, gold and a bright red.

White is important in both nappa and crinkle patent bags. But suede leads in the range of colors, with pale sand, chamois, biscuit, camel and gold as forerunners for early spring, followed by copper, russet, apricot, lilac, yellow and pink. Suede will also be in denim blue. This is a big denim spring.

Continues Search For Relatives

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Myrna Hanf has found two uncles and now she's looking for an aunt.

Mrs. Hanf's father, Merton Adams, was one of four children placed in foster homes in the 1930s by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Adams. They lived in Northampton, Mass., at the time.

"My grandmother was very ill and they had no money. My grandmother had the children in the state hospital and had no choice but to let them go into foster homes."

Mrs. Hanf's father, who now lives in Yarmouth, N.S., ran away from his foster home and was reunited with his parents.

Mrs. Hanf says she used to write her grandfather about his dispersed family.

"He wasn't sure where they were, and he said 'You'd never find them.' I thought wouldn't it be nice if we knew where some of my family are, so I began investigating."

Mrs. Hanf found her uncles last spring, and has visited them. Elliott, 51, lives in Concord, Mass., and Ernest, 61, lives in Grafton, Mass.

Mrs. Hanf believes her aunt is also somewhere in Massachusetts.

"A Dr. Morris Kaplan is going to send to find her soon. Later I'm getting a letter with a list of 30 agencies I intend to write to. Also I have the head supervisor of welfare and the social supervisor of adoption at the Boston state house looking for her.

"It hasn't been easy. It's a lot of emotional strain, but I would like to see my family happy."

University Women's Club Tours College

At the February meeting, held at Loyalist College, the Belleville and District University Women's Club was privileged to hear Mr. H. Butterill head of the College's extension division, outline that institution's role.

The college has four main divisions: technology, applied arts and business, retraining, and extension. There are 650 day students, 400 trainees and 2,000 extension students enrolled at the present time.

The role of the college is threefold : to fill the needs of the community — which for Loyalist is Hastings County, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, and half of Northumberland County — to provide courses of types useful in local industries, and to fill the needs of graduates of secondary schools other than in a university way.

To do this all members of staff are work oriented — that is, the staff member teaching art is an artist. All courses have a commonsense approach and are geared to teaching students how to apply their knowledge to practical situations. As a result of the tie-in with local industry and the work-orientation aspect, 85 per cent of last year's graduates are employed.

The college is financed by the provincial government — the larger the enrollment the larger the grant, and is governed by a Board of Governors — half appointed locally, the other half appointed by the province.

After his candid and interesting discourse Mr. Butterill answered questions before escorting the group on a tour of the college itself.

Table Cookery At Dinner for Two

By ALICE DENHOFF

If there's an elusive bachelor in your life or a husband due for a pretty surprise it's time to play a romantic dinner for two. Combine the soft flicker of candlelight with the flicker of chafing dish cookery and strong men go weak.

The ploy has been tried and true since the dawn of the century. That's when table cookery really came into its own, and many a maiden dazzled her mustachioed beau with a display of cooking skill. It still works. It really does.

In the battle of the sexes, the chafing dish is a potent weapon. The intimacy of dinner for two, beautifully prepared and served just for him, absolutely delights any male.

So now down to the specifics, leading off with:

CHICKEN ROMANTICA

1 large chicken breast, boned
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

2-Ways Wonderful

Warm, wonderful for skating, skiing, walking, weekends!

Outwit winter weather cleverly. Knit zip-front, bulky jacket with snug-fitting hood or smart collar; like 2 strands knitting worsted. Pattern 7356; sizes 32-M; 35-38 incl.

Seventy-five cents (coins) for each pattern (no stamps, please) — add 15 cents for each pattern for first - class mailing and special handling — to Alice Brooks, care of The Intelligencer, Needlecraft Dept., 60 Front St. W., Toronto 1, Ontario. Ontario residents add 4 cents sales tax. Print plainly pattern number, name, address.

1 celery stalk, cut diagonally
1 green onion, sliced
1 can (8¼ ounces) sliced pineapple, drained and cut into pieces
½ cup water
1 chicken bouillon cube
½ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
½ teaspoon parsley flakes
2 teaspoons cornstarch
½ small avocado, sliced
1 pimiento, diced
Cooked rice

Remove skin from chicken and cut in half, then cut each half in 10 or 12 strips.

Assemble other ingredients on tray.

Melt butter in blazer directly over flame. Add strips of chicken; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook, stirring often, until chicken loses color, about 5 minutes. Add celery, onion, pineapple, water, bouillon cube, thyme and parsley.

Bring to a boil and cook 10 minutes or until chicken is almost tender. Place over boiling water in bain-marie. (This is the lower pan of Chafing dish or double boiler.)

Blend together cornstarch and one tablespoon water; stir into blazer and cook until thickened. Add avocado and pimiento. Serve over rice. Serves two.

BREADSPREAD FOR TWO

1 can (8 ounces) oysters, drained
4 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon anchovy paste
4 thin slices buttered toast

Dry oysters well on paper towel. Beat eggs with salt and pepper. Melt butter in blazer, bain-marie. Blend in anchovy paste. Stir in eggs and when they begin to set, push to edges of pan. Heat oysters in center and by then the eggs should be done. Cover oysters with eggs. Serve on toast. This serves two, of course.

PEACHES CHANTILLY

½ PEACH HALVES, CANNED OR FRESH
Vanilla ice cream
Whipped cream
4 tablespoons raspberry jelly
4 tablespoons Grand Marnier or orange flavored liqueur, divided

Arrange peach halves and ice cream in two sherbet glasses. Top with whipped cream; place in freezer. Melt raspberry jelly in blazer of chafing dish directly over flame. Blend in tablespoons orange liqueur and heat until bubbly.

Heat remaining one tablespoon liqueur and stir into raspberry sauce.

Ladle over peaches and ice cream. Serves with wafers, if desired. Serves two with a heavy dessert.

Libraries, Magazines Supply Ideas

By DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: Could you help me out with some ideas about an Easter assembly for our school which grades 7 and 8 organize to grade six?

The choir sing it, few numbers but I want more pupil participation than that.—Mind A Puzzle.

Dear Mind: There are brief plays for children's choirs available through your library and the teachers' magazines always feature ideas for special occasions.

A great deal depends on the talents your youngsters have been showing. I'm sensitive to "Skits and Games", along with some songs to write for some.

Dear Doris: My husband, 65 is continually coughing because of his smoking. In the midst of telling an incident to friends he will have a coughing spell and it is one e listening just have to sit and wait until he finishes.

Some months ago he cut down cigarettes but now has so many hacking coughs in evening, night and morning. It is interrupted, breaks down with his smokes. The doctor says he now has some trouble and suspects that his allergy is tobacco. The cough is sickening to me. — Mo-Peace.

Dear No Peace: Tobacco smoke might well be the allergy which triggers his spells.

The hang - up keeps because of the shocking he is exerting over himself about the smoking but until he really quits he won't get very far.

Could it be that the doctor does not realize the seriousness of his smoking problem? Others have quit after a lifetime of smoking. So can he. I'm sending my 36-cent leaflet "Why Smoke?" which has a few tricks in it for those who honestly want to stop. Believe me, the improvement in health and spirits is worth it. Show him this column.

Dear Doris: I get so depressed at times because my husband thinks sex is the only important thing in a marriage, and suspects that I think it is a backchaser. I help with the housework, the farm but can never do anything to his satisfaction.

During the winter he sits and thinks and won't talk to me no matter how I try. He contradicts me at all times, even when disagreeing the subject. If I didn't have an inferiority complex before, he has done his level best to instill it in me now. Insecure.

Dear Insecure: Even the most poised of us are vulnerable when it comes to soaking up the belittling efforts of the person we live with. It would take months, probably years, for you to get back your good opinion of yourself.

You do need love, not just the physical kind but the love which promotes understanding and confidence and support for your ideas. And compassion.

Practically always when I hear of such a mixed-up husband and father, there is some kind of insecurity in his background — usually.

A marital counsellor could help you discover your own worth and gain some peace of mind. Your children are lesting by you for the security they need. Your husband himself will find a change in you since you think things through and achieve the type of behavior which will express your own worthy self.

(Please make letters as brief as possible — not more than two pages. And remember that stamped envelope.)

Ann Landers

It's The Thought That Counts

Dear Ann Landers: I need some advice for next Valentine's Day. I am ten years old and was not expecting any problems bad enough to write to you about for at least another three years, but here is one already and I hope you will help me. It's this boy named Eddie. He sent me a valentine. It came four days after Valentine's Day. I forgave him for that because the mail system in Chicago is not very good and even big people's mail sits around the post office a lot longer than it should.

I noticed that the valentine Eddie sent me was the one that somebody had sent to him. He erased his own name and put mine on it. At first I thought, "Oh well, it's the thought that counts," but after a while I got to thinking it was pretty cheap of him. He could have spent a dime on me. It wouldn't have killed him.

Next year should I send Eddie a valentine? Or should I wait and see what he does? If he sends me another used valentine should I say "thank you" or should I send it back?—Edith Mae.

Dear Edith Mae: No matter what kind of a valentine he sends you, say "thank you." After all, it is the thought that counts.

Dear Ann Landers: We are eight Chicago secretaries who believe you are better equipped to answer this question than anyone in the world: Where does concern for other people's problems end and sticking your nose in someone else's business begin?

In this office, for example, there are at least ten people who are constantly in a state of uproar about things that should not concern them. Compassion, to be sure, is a noble virtue, but what sometimes masquerades as compassion is just plain nosiness or, worse yet, interference. What with these self-appointed vigilantes, the self-appointed custodians of other people's morals?

We can't believe that only our office is like this. Can it be that the world is full of such types? You'd know, Ann. Please tell us. —The Chicago Eight.

Dear Eight: Nosiness is a universal malady. The reason is clear. It's easier (and less painful) to sit in judgment of other people than to go to work on the areas in our own lives that need improvement. About 25 per cent of the people who write to me

Strikes In CBC Spread

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nearly 600 television technicians—the majority in Montreal—walked off the job in Quebec and New Brunswick Sunday in the latest round of rotating strikes against the CBC.

The technicians—300 in Montreal, 35 in Quebec City and 34 in Moncton, N.B.—joined 33 others in Calgary, who have not worked for about two weeks because of a local dispute with management.

Mediation talks between the publicly-owned corporation and the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians were to resume today in Montreal. The talks began Thursday but were not held on the weekend. Rotating strikes started five weeks ago.

Saturday, 102 radio technicians in Montreal, 16 in Quebec City and seven in Chicoutimi, Que., returned to work. The Montreal and Quebec City technicians had walked out the day before, while their counterparts in Chicoutimi had been out since Thursday.

Taj Mahal Builder's Diamond Is Given to Liz by Burton

BUDAPEST (Reuter) — Richard Burton divulged the secret of what he gave his wife Elizabeth Taylor for her 40th birthday Sunday—a huge carved diamond inscribed with a promise of everlasting love.

"I would have liked to buy the Taj Mahal for Elizabeth," he said at a news conference, "but it would have cost too much to transport it. . . ."

Instead, he said he had bought a diamond carved in 1621 by Shah Jehan, who had the Taj Mahal built as a tomb for his favorite wife, who died in 1629.

Burton, looking relaxed but slightly tired after a Hungarian gypsy party in a candle-lit Budapest wine cellar, declined to reveal the value of the gift.

Everyone would find out, he said, at the end of the year, when he will give an equivalent amount to a British charity.

Gananoque Fire Loss A Million

GANANOQUE, Ont. (CP) — Representatives of the Ontario fire marshal's office were to begin today an investigation into a $1-million fire in the business section of this town 18 miles east of Kingston.

Gananoque Fire Chief Russell Hampton said the fire began at 2:30 p.m. Saturday following an explosion at the rear of a beauty salon.

The fire destroyed a pharmacy, gift shop, the beauty salon and the local headquarters of the Masonic Lodge and the Order of the Eastern Star.

Eighty firemen, mostly volunteers, battled for three hours to bring the blaze under control.

One fireman was treated for a minor cut and an elderly man escaped from the fire required treatment for shock and smoke inhalation. There were no other injuries.

Tradeau Is Called 'Most Reactionary'

OSHAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau is a "reactionary," whose economic policies have created unnecessarily high levels of unemployment, New Democratic Party leader David Lewis said here Sunday.

"Pierre Trudeau is the most conservative, indeed the most reactionary prime minister in many a year," said Mr. Lewis, guest speaker at the NDP nomination meeting of the Oshawa-Whitby riding. Local member Ed Broadbent was re-nominated.

Mr. Trudeau had projected a false image as a "man of change" during the 1967 election and had then pursued old-line policies which had led to very high unemployment.

"There is no need for it (the economy) to be this bad," he said.

Mr. Lewis said he was bitter about a recent comment by Mr. Trudeau that the opposition, for political reasons, wished the economy was worse.

"Only a man that never had to scramble to pay the rent can say that the economy is now good," Mr. Lewis said.

He said Mr. Trudeau had "betrayed" such groups as the Indians, Eskimos and Metis who had an unemployment level of "70 per cent."

Sacred Officials Under Fire

HAMILTON (CP) — Members of the Ontario wing of the Canadian Social Credit party at a meeting here Saturday approved a motion of non-confidence in their president and vice-president.

Dr. James MacGillivray of Collingwood is president and Syd Hamelin, Hamilton, is vice-president. They were criticized by members for a decision by the federal executive to expel from the national party anyone belonging to the right-wing Edmund Burke Society.

They were accused of holding unannounced meetings at which no minutes were kept.

Nixon Phones Graham

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham said Saturday that President Nixon called him from Peking Friday night.

"I suppose it was the first time the words 'God' and 'prayer' had been used in a communication between China and America in many years," said Graham from his motel near Cape Kennedy.

"Mr. Nixon said he was thinking about my wife Ruth and the fact that she was born and reared in China," Graham said.

"The president often calls me but to have him call me from Peking was unexpected. It was a thrill I shall never forget."

Filion Wins Pair

KINGSTON (CP) — Harness driver Herve Filion increased his 1972 win total to 37 with two victories at Provincial Downs here Sunday afternoon.

Filion won with Johnny Amber and Dominion Lad in the 10-race card which had a combined handle of $53,238 — a record for Kingston.

The world-driving champion from Lachute, Que., just missed making the winners' circle on four other occasions, finishing second each time.

Saints Alive!

Quinte Secondary School gave the final nudge to their Bay of Quinte COSSA hockey title by trouncing Centre Hastings 8-2 Saturday.

The Saints had earned the right to represent Belleville by virtue of their victory in six-team tournament held early in January. Monday had remained as the final challenger to their right to compete in the COSSA championships slated for Peterborough this Friday.

Kevin Joslyne paced the win over Madoc with four goals, while Rob Foster and Wally Delnard netted two each and Grant Goegan one.

No Joy for McAvoy

Oshawa's Len McAvoy is thwarted by Bill Cormier's sliding save in Sunday night's Eastern Ontario Junior B playoff game at the Belleville Memorial Arena. The Bobcat goalie's antics weren't enough to prevent Oshawa from taking a 6-3 overtime win to force a seventh and deciding game Thursday. Belleville forwards Mark Woodward and Terry Meagher get ready to help Cormier clear the rebound of McAvoy's scoring attempt.

Packed House Sees Bobcats Suffer Setback in Overtime

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Oshawa came up with a gutty comeback effort Sunday night to score a 6-3 overtime victory that forced Belleville into a seventh and deciding game in their Eastern Ontario Junior B semi-final series.

The Crushmen comeback spoiled what would have been a perfect night for Belleville centre Brian Cousins, who potted three goals before a near-capacity crowd at the Memorial Arena.

The game drew a crowd of 1675 paid admissions. "Except for Pony Night (where children are admitted free) I've never seen a crowd like that for a Junior "B" game in Belleville. The biggest that I can remember was about 1200," re-called team manager Jim "Spike" Mathews.

The Bobcats held a 2-0 lead until past the mid-point of the game and appeared to be well on their way towards ousting Oshawa from the series.

Cousins had scored the only goal of the first period when his low shot skimmed between Mark Logan's pads. The Oshawa netminder kept his team within range in the opening 20 minutes by turning aside 16 shots including a labelled point drive by Terry Meagher and Jeff Howard's partially-screened shot from 15 feet out.

In the middle period it was Cousins again beating Logan from the slot to give his team what appeared to be a commanding 2-0 lead. Oshawa bounced back at the 14.36 mark, however, when Gary Bone picked up an errant clearing effort by Bobcat defenceman Doug Perry. Bone's perfectly - placed shot from the blue line beat Bill Cormier low to his glove side.

The Crushmen then took command, with team captain Larry Hopkins getting a pair of markers within 40 seconds. His second goal, at 15.05, came on a rare checking lapse by Belleville's Dave Smith, who was trapped in the Oshawa end. Hopkins collected a perfect pass from Chuck Lukss under a full head of steam that allowed him to circle the Belleville defence and beat Cormier from close in.

BRIAN COUSINS

"We went into a shell after we got the lead, there's no doubt about that," admitted Belleville coach Moe Hunter. "We just weren't skating."

Oshawa appeared able to maintain their 3-2 lead until Tom Yohn threaded the needle with a pass that sent Cousins into the clear with just over three minutes left to play. The rookie centre ripped a shot into the bottom right hand corner to send the game into overtime. He conceded: "Yes, I was nervous. It was the first breakaway that I've scored on this year."

The Bobcats, inspired by the late goal held most of the early play in the overtime period, but were unable to put the puck behind Logan. The Oshawa goalie was the standout of the game, facing 46 shots while his mates could muster only 27 shots on Cormier.

Gary Armstrong counted the winning goal when his shot deflected into the net off defenceman John Mulvihill's skate. Tom Newton upped the count to 5-3 before Chris Bone scored into an empty Belleville net after Cormier had been lifted for a sixth attacker.

Hunter praised his third line of Rod Palmer, Rob Foster and Bill Jackett. "They didn't score but Oshawa drew four penalties against them so they must have been skating pretty well."

Rosebush Leads Dukes

The Dukes took a 1-0 final series lead in Northern Electric hockey with a 5-2 opening game triumph over the Good Guys yesterday.

Rick Rosebush fired three goals to lead the attack for the Dukes and he was helped out by John Brunette and Randy Longhurst. Terry Casselman set up two Dukes' goals.

Scoring the only goals for the Good Guys were Gary Rutherford and Dwight Rathwell.

Next game in the best-of-three final series is next Sunday at 11 a.m.

Third Straight for Hayes

Title Based on Piece of Toast

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

A piece of toast and cup of coffee doesn't sound like a breakfast of champions, but they were vital ingredients for Ron Hayes Saturday in winning his third Ontario weightlifting title in as many tries.

It was half a pound over limit last night, the 17-year-old Apollo Barbell Club member explained his scanty pre-contest meal. "Just Tuesday I weighed 126 — three pounds over."

If he had to starve himself the week before Saturday's 60 - entry Metro Secondary School contest, Hayes intensified his considerable appetite for titles and records by handily winning the bantamweight class with a three - lift total of 559 pounds, 305 pounds more than his nearest rival.

Hayes, who only took up weightlifting in September, 1969, has now won a provincial teenage title in the three championships he has entered.

In 1970, he took the 114-pound (flyweight) class honors. In his first contest as a 123-pound competitor, Hayes won the provincial teenage title at Elliott Lake last March.

Saturday's third consecutive title performance included a Canadian teenage record clean-and-jerk of 225 pounds, nearly double Hayes' bodyweight.

The record followed a mediocre start. Hayes hoisted a 145-pound press, then missed his remaining two tries at 160. He snatched 170 on his second attempt, before missing his last try at increasing it. And after getting in a 215-pound opening clean - and - jerk, Hayes missed at 230.

However, instead of following the usual procedure and repeating the weight he missed, Hayes instead jumped to 235 on his final attempt.

"I knew I already had the title wrapped up and I wanted to try for the record," Hayes explained, after his last lift of the day broke the national teenage bantamweight mark of 232 pounds established by Vancouver's Doug Robertson in 1969.

His winning 559-pound total was 14 pounds below his personal best set two weeks ago, but slashes at adding another record - to his long list of weightlifting medals appeared to make up for it. Hayes has one more chance — the Ontario Senior Championships in Sarnia — to achieve his next goal; a 275 total that would qualify him for his first appearance in a Canadian Senior Championship, being held this May in St. John's Newfoundland.

Coach Ken Carr-Braint is getting used to records from his club's most successful "little" lifter. "Ron set some 31 records last year," Carr-Braint beamed. "He's got a great future."

The highlight of 1971 for Hayes was winning a silver medal at Saskatoon's Canada Games. He and Saturday's other Ontario champions over-sweat word on whether their performances rate them as Canadian teenage titlists. All provinces hold teenage competitions simultaneously and telegraph results to the National Association.

Heavyweight winner Rein Tirrul, 19, of Elliott Lake, established the only other Canadian teenage record at Saturday's Belleville contest, hoisting a 345 - pound clean and jerk in his winning 745-pound total. The host Apollo Club's Richie Bly, 15, the only other 242-pound class entry, totalled 475, breaking his personal previous best by 25 pounds.

Toronto's Jeff Ellerby took middle heavyweight honors with 658. Light - heavyweight champion was Grant Mathew of Ottawa, with a 745 total. Third place in the 181 - pound class went to Belleville's Fred Bly.

Ron Fraser of Sarnia won a tight middleweight battle compiling a three-lift total of 645 pounds ahead of Woodstock's Bob Tuffnail and Belleville's Gary Ferguson, both at 630. Tuffnail won runner-up honors because of lower body weight.

John Robillard, Ottawa, was top flyweight with a 375 total and Elliott Lake's Terry Hadlow broke the provincial pat-weight (98-pound) record by 15 pounds, winning with a 329 total. Belleville's Dean Fitzgerald was third at 295.

Can You Beat That?

No teenage 123-pound weightlifter in Canada has beaten Ron Hayes' 235-pound clean-and-jerk, his final lift during Saturday's Ontario Teenage Championships at Moira Secondary School. In addition to establishing a Canadian record, the 17-year-old Apollo Barbell member won his third straight provincial teenage title.

Parent Misses Signing

MIAMI (AP) — Goalie Bernie Parent of Toronto Maple Leafs still hasn't signed, but officials for the World Hockey Association's Screaming Eagles said Sunday they have an "ironclad" five-year agreement with the National Hockey League star for "in excess of $100,000 per year."

The Miami club summoned reporters for a "formal signing" ceremony here, but when the news conference started a contract was nowhere in sight.

General manager Les Patrick of the Screaming Eagles said: "Parent has agreed to a five-year agreement in excess of $100,000 per year, but he hasn't signed a standard World Hockey Association contract yet. He'll sign a standard WHA contract at the end of the NHL season."

Parent's lawyer, Howard Casper of Philadelphia, agreed.

"We have a guarantee," said Casper. "Bernie will be paid regardless of whether he starts here, finishes here or whether the World Hockey league is a success or a failure. In fact, Bernie will be able to retire after five years and be close to a millionaire."

Parent generally regarded as among the best of the top young goalies in the NHL, became the first NHL player to publicly acknowledge that he planned to jump to the maverick WHA. The 12-team WHA is scheduled to start play next fall.

It Seems to Fit

Toronto's Bernie Parent, right, with the aid of Roger Bacon, tries a Screaming Eagles jersy for size after arriving at Miami, Fla., Sunday. Parent has not yet signed but officials for the World Hockey Association's Screaming Eagles said they have an "iron clad" five - year agreement with the National Hockey League star for "in excess of $100,000 per year." Hornets Oust Oaks In Four Straight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The magic number was nine for Galt Hornets as they buzzed to a semi-final playoff position by defeating Oakville Oaks 4-0 in their Ontario Hockey Association Senior A best-of-seven series.

Saturday, the Hornets stung the Oaks 9-3 in Galt and, like pudding and the proof, were returned to opposition ice Sunday to administer a 9-4 drubbing before 1,000 fans.

In other weekend games, Orillia Terriers bombed over Woodstock Royals 6-1 and Kingston Aces dealt a 6-2 loss to Barrie Flyers. The Terriers now are 3-1 while the Aces stand 1-1 in their quarter-final series.

In the semi-final playoff, Galt takes on the winner of the Woodstock-Orillia quarter-final series, still to be decided.

In that series Saturday in Orillia, Clare Alexander, who threatened to leave the team last Friday over a pay dispute, had a change of heart and led the Terriers with three goals. George Vail, Garry Marsh and Mike Draper each scored once.

Wayne Weller collected the Woodstock goal before about 1,000 fans while the Terriers outshot the Royals 39-28. Royals' forward Gerry Harrigan was carried from the ice in the third period after he was hit accidentally by a stick. The severity of his injury was not immediately known.

The fourth game of the series will be in Woodstock Tuesday night.

The two teams were tied 1-1 after the first period and Kingston took a 2-2 lead at the end of the second before 3,042 fans.

Referee Earned Pay In Quebec Contest

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Referee Jack Bowman would probably scorn forgetting the events of Sunday night's Quebec Junior Hockey League game in Quebec City between the Remparts and the Sherbrooke Beavers.

He must have been tired after the game. He doled out nine game misconducts, five majors and 15 minors, and had to halt the game at one point at 15:31 of the second period because the crowd, incensed over the penalties, kept the ice well-littered with a constant barrage of debris.

When the air had cleared, Quebec had eked out a 5-4 win.

In other games Sunday, Laval Nationals nipped Verdun Maple Leafs 5-4 in overtime, Trois-Rivieres beat St. Jerome Alouettes by the same score, Shawinigan Bruins trounced Sorel Black Hawks 9-4 and Cornwall Royals defeated Drummondville Rangers 5-1.

Miss Coughlan Makes Waves For Canada

BREMEN, West Germany (CP-AP) — Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont., picked up a second place for Canada's best showing in an international swimming meet here Saturday.

Miss Coughlan finished second in the women's 100-metre freestyle in 60.51. Enid Regtha of Holland won the event in 59.54 and Hennie Buitelaar, also of Holland was third in 60.53.

Sylvia Dockerill of Vancouver was fourth in the women's 100-metre breaststroke in 1:18.52.

The times set by Miss Coughlan and Miss Dockerill in their events bettered the Canadian native records but they will not be numbered in the record book because the pool here is only 25 metres long instead of the official 50 metres.

Canada finished third in the women's 4,100-metre relay in 4:26.35. The Dutch team was first in 4:23.40 and West Germany second in 4:23.20.

Miss Coughlan scored another third Sunday in the 200-metre breaststroke with a time of 2:59.35.

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (CP-AP) — Alexandre Bodouvor scored four goals and two assists Saturday to lead a powerful Russian collegiate hockey squad to a bruising 9-3 win Saturday over Canada in the first of nine games scheduled during the World University Winter Games.

Canada bounced back from the defeat to whip the United States 9-6 in a game Sunday.

The Russians held the Canadians scoreless during the first period while taking a 2-0 lead on goals by Alexei Mishin and Yuri Lebedev and took a fast 4-0 lead when Bodouvor tallied twice within 30 seconds during the opening three minutes of the second period.

Egers Makes Mistake Testing Ed's Memory

By IAN MacLAREN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Memories run deep in the National Hockey League and Ed Giacomin didn't have to be an elephant to have total recall Sunday night.

The last time New York Rangers played St. Louis Blues, centre-man-mate Jack Egers tripped three goals past Giacomin in a 6-5 St. Louis win.

"When we were skating around before the game," Giacomin said Sunday after blanking the Blues 2-0, "Egers said to me, 'that's good tonight? I hope it's you.'

In other games, Philadelphia Flyers tripped Detroit Red Wings 3-1 to tighten their standings in the battle for fourth in the West while the Wings failed to make any headway in Eastern Canada. California Seals tied 4-4 with Buffalo Sabres, Montreal Canadiens rallied to a 5-3 win over Pittsburgh Penguins and Chicago Black Hawks tied Vancouver Canucks 3-3.

The Canucks were hitless 7-for-7 during the Chicago power play. Leafs who moved into a fourth-place tie in the East with Detroit, 61 points for Montreal. Elsewhere, Pittsburgh ranged 5-2 over Philadelphia, Boston Bruins downed Los Angeles Kings 5-4, Chicago blanked California 3-0 and St. Louis nipped Minnesota North Stars 3-2.

It was Giacomin's first shut out of the season. He turned aside 28 shots "and I don't think Egers had any of them." Giacomin was wrong. Egers, who hails from Hacconsack, home town of Sudbury, had three shots.

The 32-year-old veteran goaltender, who registered eight shutouts last year and along with Gilles Villemure won the Vezina Trophy, was surprised he started the game.

"I had just finished three straight games and could have played the last one so I thought maybe he'd be playing three straight, too. It's a guessing game and I've guess wrong lots of times."

Bruce MacGregor's 17th goal of the season, his first at home in two months, and Vic Hadfield's 41st tally an open net with 40 seconds remaining signalled the offence.

Ranger Jean Ratelle assisted on Hadfield's score to extend his point-scoring string to 11 games and his 4 club record. It lifted his season's point total to 75 to behind leader Phil Esposito of Boston.

The Bruins' playmaker picked up a goal and two assists against Los Angeles Saturday night.

Left winger Mike Partisent's third goal of the season midway through the second period at 4:51 and Ratelle's 5-0 the only goalscorer Doug Favell held the Sabres even against California with the help of an earlier protested goal by Buffalo.

Derek Seals argued the second Buffalo goal, by Danny Lawson, but referee Wally Harris ruled that rookie goaltender Gilles Meloche remained back, behind the goalline to grab the puck.

Pete Mahovlich scored twice in the third period, one late on a penalty shot, to break a 3-3 tie with nine seconds remaining, to pull the Canadiens from a 3-1 second-period deficit.

It gave the youngest Mahovlich brother Frank got his third carrier in the game—six goals in the last four Montreal games and a season's total of 31.

Pete's 28th, an unassisted score early in the third to tie the game, appeared to take the sting out of the Pittsburgh attack but Yvon Cournoyer's 33rd of the year on a Montreal power play provided the winner.

The Black Hawks netted Bill White's goal with less than three minutes to go in the game to pull out a 3-3 tie against the surprisingly aggressive Vancouver club.

The Canucks, who just couldn't get anything going the previous night against Toronto, moved ahead 2-0 and had a 3-1 lead going into the last period before Dennis Hull closed the gap at the 1:34 mark.

The Hawks just missed getting the winner in the closing seconds when defencemen Pat Stapleton's 10-footer went over rookie goaltender Ed Dyck's shoulder and bounced off the goalpost.

ED GIACOMIN

It was the Wings' first loss at home in 10 games and only their second in 19 games at the Olympia. The setback also prevented Detroit from breaking a fourth-place deadlock with Toronto.

Defenceman Jim Watson's score at 16:19 of the third period pulled the hometown Flyers even against Los Angeles Saturday night.

Esposito scored a goal and added two assists in Boston's 5-4 victory over Los Angeles Kings on Saturday. He now has 52 goals and 55 assists for a total of 107 points, one better than Jean Ratelle of New York Rangers with 102.

Sir John A. Burns Up Track

TRENTON (Staff) — At least five records tabbed for breaking the trip to Trenton weekend as they established new indoor records at the annual Trenton Invitational High School track meet held at the CFB Trenton recreation hangar Saturday.

Sir John A. MacDonald high school from Toronto walked off with top team honors by compiling 91 points as opposed to 49 for second place Orillia and 36 for Orillia, the third place finishers. There were a total of six schools in the competition.

Highlight of the meet was the high jump duel featuring Canadian High school juvenile record-holder Frank Curtis of Orillia and teammate Doug Reid. Both athletes cleared the mark of six feet, but Reid was given the first place nod on the basis of fewer misses. Curtis' record breakers included M. Daniels (Sir John A. MacDonald) with a 4.6 clocking in the junior 40-yard dash, B. Davison (Orillia) with a junior high jump mark of 5'9½"; J. Sheridan (O'Neill High School) with a 1:12.7 in the junior 600-yards; A. Senkowski (Sir Thomas A. Stewart) in a 5.35.6 midget mile effort.

Lancers Suffer Lost Weekend

A weekend excursion to Cornwall and Ottawa by the Loyalist Lancers proved unproductive as they lost all four games played: two in basketball and two in hockey in Ontario Colleges Athletic Association play.

After 13 consecutive losses this season, Cornwall's St. Lawrence Roadrunners basketball team finally won a game, a 77-40 triumph over Loyalist Saturday.

Jim Rorison pumped in 21 points to lead the Roadrunner attack with John Meyers getting 13, John Graham, 12 and Sandy Cameron, 10. Ed Gosper posted 15 points for the losing Lancers.

Mike Layer fired four goals and set up another to lead the Cat assault on Belleville. Serge Prudhomme scored a hat trick for Algonquin along with singles by Dave Olive, Brian DeRino, Mike Vechola and Keith McKinnon. The speedy McKinnon also set up four Ottawa goals.

Bullets Can't Find Home

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baltimore Bullets have no home court advantage at their other "home." the University of Maryland's Cole Field House.

The most vociferous of the 11,885 fans there Sunday were clearly rooting for New York as the Knicks edged the Bullets 97-95 in an overtime point to help the Knicks put the game away.

The victory insured the Knicks a playoff berth and left them 3½ games behind first-place Boston in the Atlanta Division. Baltimore's lead in the Central Division was trimmed to three games over Atlanta.

The first event title in the 11th annual Bay of Quinte Men's Bonspiel ended in favor to home Sunday when Gib Booth's CFB Trenton four-some won the 48-rink event.

Election in Offing

Opposition Hunts Cavities

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative political wisdom has it that governments are defeated by their own mistakes.

And since the Commons resumed sitting Feb. 14, the Opposition has been drilling with new vigor at the government's visible, invisible and imagined cavities.

So far it hasn't turned up anything guaranteed to topple the government, such as the Pacific scandal that knocked out Sir John A. Macdonald in 1873, or the pipeline issue that finished Louis St. Laurent in 1957.

But by the end of last week opposition strategists clearly thought they were on a smoother road than the government benches to ground some chewy ammunition to start sniffing for a new administration.

Health Services Questioned

SANDY LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Silvia Linklater's life on the Indian Deer Lake Indian reserve in northwestern Ontario was ravaged by tuberculosis and was finished by pneumonia during a December influenza epidemic.

Few outside the reserve knew it existed, other than as a fiddler in a sanatorium. But in death, the 34-year-old Indian woman has become the focal point of a crusade for better federal health services in the Canadian North launched by the Union of Ontario Indians.

Mrs. Linklater's death the day before Christmas was unveiled quietly last week at a two-day inquest by a predominantly Indian coroner's jury here.

The jury found the range and calibre of health services available to Mrs. Linklater and the other 1,500 Deer Lake reserve residents wanting in almost every respect.

Federal health and welfare department officials now weigh the implications of the jury's verdicts, most of which affects medical services available elsewhere in the North.

Band Chief Jacob Fiddler, who knew Mrs. Linklater all her life, summed up the feelings of his people in a statement to the inquest Friday.

The barrel-chested 57-year-old chief said through a translater: "We must prevent this tragedy from repeating itself by making improvements.

"This is the reason I requested the inquest—to bring out some of the things the Indian people must tolerate. Perhaps that must result in us-ness."

The union reported that three persons had died during the Indian outbreak. However, Coroner W. G. Robinson of Dryden, Ont., said one of the deaths was a proven heart attack and the body of the third person had been buried before an autopsy could be performed.

The inquest jury—five Indian men and one white woman—was advised in the death of Mrs. Linklater. It refused to call for federal inquiry into health services in its recommendations, though Crown Attorney Ted Acton of Kenora had invited the jurors to consider ask- ing "a broader inquiry by a public body more suitable than a inquest."

Instead, the jurors called for improvements in health services at Sandy Lake and its satellite communities, a permanent general practitioner, better housing for nurse's aides, and three nurses.

Moonman Was Near Breakdown

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin the second man to set foot on the moon, in a book quoted as saying the pressure of his role as a public figure after his historic flight forced him to undergo psychiatric help for a breakdown.

"It has been kept somewhat a secret, but the fact of the matter is that I was on my way to having a good old American psychic breakdown," he says in an interview published Sunday by the Los Angeles Times.

"I realized it and asked for help," the 43-year-old former astronaut says. "I needed a long stop to look inside myself.

"There is a sort of stigma attached to mental illness of any sort and because so much was at stake—for the space program, the air force, myself and my family—it was kept secret. I no longer agree."

Aldrin, who left the National Aeronautics and Space Administration a year ago to return to the Air Force, was on the July 20 Apollo 11 mission in which Neil Armstrong became the first man in history to step on the moon and Aldrin the second.

Tug Is Missing In B.C. Storm

VANCOUVER (CP) — An ocean-going tug and its five-man crew were missing, a maritorial was killed by a falling tree, 20 others were marooned by ailders, 1,400-ton freighter was grounded and transportation and communication were disrupted as gales and southern British Columbia was battered by one of the worst storms of the winter.

Ships and land parties searched the seas and beaches in the Point Roberts, Wash. area south of Vancouver Sunday night under the light of flares dropped by aircraft for the tug Hans Stralis and its crew.

There was no sign of the tug itself, but one empty inflatable lifecraft from the vessel was found in the waters of Georgia Strait.

The two empty barges the tug was towing to Vancouver from Seattle were found earlier in the strait.

Kapsheesan is for Riverton Stralis Ltd. of Vancouver, which owns the Haro Stralis, said the tug was last heard from in a routine radio report about 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

There was no indication of trouble, although seas were reported rough. The tug did not give its exact location, but was believed to be about three to four miles southwest of Point Roberts.

The 61-foot tug, powered by a 165-horsepower engine, is steel-hulled. The spokesman said it was built to withstand rough seas, but he acknowledged, "we have a problem."

The only confirmed fatality of the storm was a Vancouver Island woman whose car was stopped by a fallen tree near Ladysmith. He got out of his car and was struck by another falling tree. His name was not released.

The gale which screamed over Vancouver Island and Georgia Strait had gusts of more than 75 miles an hour and forced an anchored Liberian freighter on to rocks in Victoria harbor.

The 4,000-ton Van Ocean was pulled free early today and taken in tow by three tugs to Esquimalt. A spokesman for the search and rescue centre in Victoria said damage in the vessel had not been ascertained, but it did not appear to be losing oil.

Telephone and power lines were down throughout the southern part of the island, a wading shop roof was blown off and trailers were overturned.

In the B.C. interior heavy snowfalls paralyzed road and rail traffic.

Twenty motorists were trapped between snow slides on the Trans-Canada Highway east of Revelstoke in southeastern B.C. Snowplows were expected to reach them today.

The mainline of Canadian National Railways was blocked by a slide in the Fraser Canyon which trapped an eastbound freight train. It was not known whether the train was derailed by the slide, a spokesman for the railway said. Passenger traffic was re-routed on CP Rail track.

Ball Says China Trip 'Mistake'

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Former undersecretary of state George Ball said Sunday that President Nixon's summit in China was a mistake and that if things gained from the meetings it was the Chinese.

He said the American agreement ultimately to withdraw its troops from Taiwan could be viewed by other countries as a weakening of the U.S. commitment to its allies.

Ball, who served as the state department's No. 2 man during the Lyndon Johnson administration, made his remarks in a television interview.

The former diplomat said the United States gained nothing from the meetings that it couldn't have won in lower-level talks.

Birds Miss All-Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Pirates and Baltimore Orioles hardly resemble championship teams these days.

The world champion Pirates played their first Astro-spaced game and Don Leppert's team beat one skippered by Dave Ricketts 12-8, taking advantage of eight errors.

The Orioles, meanwhile, have other problems. Even though 20-game winner Dave McNally showed up in Florida for a workout after signing Saturday for an estimated $105,000, the list of missing Birds resembles an all-star team.

The most prominent holdout is Mike Cuellar, McNally's fellow southpaw and 20-game winner, who is reported holding out in Puerto Rico for $80,000 some $8,000 more than the Orioles have offered.

Although not doc officially until Wednesday, the rest of the unsigned Orioles include infielders Brooks Robinson, Boog Powell, Dave Johnson, Bobby Grich and Jerry Da Vanon and outfielders Paul Blair, Don Buford, Merv Rettenmund, Don Baylor and Rich Coggins.

"Never in the history of baseball have so many been so reluctant to play for so much," grumbled Frank Cashen, the team's executive vice-president.

The last Pirates news came when Dock Ellis who had arm trouble late last season and didn't pitch after the World Series opener, worked two scoreless innings.

Pitchers made most of the news in other camps.

Manager Charlie Fox of San Francisco said Giant pitchers are in their best early spring condition "in my memory." Cincinnati's Sparky Anderson termed his mound staff "25-30 per cent stronger" than in 1970, when the Reds won the National League pennant.

Anderson said he hopes to pick five starters from among Don Gullett, Gary Nolan, Wayne Simpson, Jim Merritt, Ross Grimsley, Jim McGlothlin and Jack Billingham.

"I hope it's going to be a close three-way battle because tough decision to make and a lot of luck.

Newly-acquired Rick Wise and former Cincinnati star Jim Maloney each spent five min-utes throwing batting practice to Johnny Bench.

Victory Sweet

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — How sweet it was.

"It's just wonderful to beat Jack," said Lee Trevino of Tom Weiskopf told that legendary man Nicklaus. "You'll go down as the greatest golfer ever . . . and today I beat you."

Weiskopf and Nicklaus turned Jackie Gleason's Inverrary Classic into a $200,000 Ohio State University alumni tournament. Tom was the best of the old Buckeyes Sunday, closing with a 68 for a 10-under-par 278 total.

His paycheque: $52,000.

Nicklaus bungled a two-footer at the 18th hole and rimmed out a 15-foot putt trying for a tying birdie on the 19th, settling for a final round 67 and 279.

Jack's consolation: $29,640.

"My dad's a railroad man," said Weiskopf. "It takes him five years to make what I earned today. I'm a very lucky guy who's finally grown up a little at the age of 29."

Famine Over?

SASKATOON (CP) — Eastern risks enter this afternoon's opening round of the Canadian women's curling championship with more national experience and a hope that one of the six representatives will snap an eight-year famine.

The only eastern triumph in the 11-year history of the championship came in 1963 when Mabel DeWare of Moncton, N.B., skipped New Brunswick's national honors in Saint John, N.B.

Orient Creates Soccer Uproar

LONDON (AP) — Orient, an unfashionable Second Division team, grabbed the last-minute winning goal Saturday to topple Chelsea 3-2 in the biggest upset of the fifth round in the English Football Association Cup.

Barrie Fairbrother scored the goal that sent the whole of East London into a frenzy of excitement. Chelsea had led 2-0 at one stage in the first half.

Other teams fighting through the quarter-finals of the big knockout tournament were Leeds, Tottenham, Middlesbrough and Stoke from the First Division and Birmingham City from the Second Division.

Derby and defending champion Arsenal battled to a 2-2 draw and Manchester United had to survive a scoreless first half against Chelsea before Second Division Middlesbrough. Those two games will be replayed next week.

With a goal by David Webb in the 77th minute and another by Peter Osgood eight minutes later, Chelsea had appeared well on their way to a comfortable victory. But a goal by George Heslop cut Chelsea's lead to one minute before half-time, and 30,000 fans who packed into Orient's tiny ground roared their heroes on in the second half.

Then Bullock evened the score in the 55th minute. Chelsea then began playing keep-away for the final seconds ticking away, two Orient men broke through with only Ron Harris to stop them. They swept past the Chelsea star and Fairbrother drilled the winning goal.

Nobby Stiles, one of England's World Cup heroes in 1966, helped Middlesbrough to force a draw against his old team. Mick Bloodsworth set up a defensive barrier and even Bobby Charlton's customary shooting failed to break it down.

Charlie George, hero of Arsenal's triumph in the Cup last season, scored two goals, one in each half. But Derby leveled the scores twice: first with a penalty by Alan Hinds in the 46th minute and then with a header by Alan Durban two minutes from the end. A crowd of 40,000 watched a bitterly fought game.

Leeds United, 7-to-2 favorites for the Cup, strolled comfortably past Second Division Carlisle United, their third straight by a crowd of players for the first goal in the 15th minute, after Carlisle had headed a high ball down for him. Giles made it 2-0, again from a headed pass by Jones, six minutes from the end.

Huddersfield Town scored the three goals in 17 minutes in the second half that gave Hull Kingston United and shattered the hopes of Bobby Moore and his men.

Tottenham Hotspur reached the quarter-finals with a 3-0 victory at Everton on goals by Scottish international Alan Gilzean and England World Cup star Martin Peters.

Stoke City's convincing 4-1 ride over Second Division Hull City started with Jimmy Greenhoff's goal in the last minute of the first half.

Next in the standings were are Leeds with 39 points, Derby with 38 and Arsenal and Liverpool with 37 each. Leeds, Derby and Arsenal all have one match in hand.

Wolverhampton Wanderers' Emerson Leo Humphreys holds the record with a last-minute penalty against Jim McCalliog in the 2-2 draw with Ipswich Town. Ken Hibbitt netted the Wanderers' other goal and Mick Bellitt scored twice for Ipswich.

Taiwan Newspapers Blast Communique

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Taiwan newspapers today blasted the communique issued by President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai, and Japanese papers called it another blow to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

The Taipei stock market took another drive. Many Chinese on the disposal island indicated to reporters they feared the war was opening for Peking to take them over.

The Soviet press made no direct criticism of the Chinese-American summit meeting. But Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, plainly showed the Kremlin's displeasure and mingled by reprinting a comment from the U.S. Communist party's Daily World.

"Instead of strengthening peace and security in Asia and the entire world," it said, "the agreement between Maoists and the U.S.A. will ever more sharpen tensions."

Taiwan's newspapers were bitter over Nixon's pledge that U.S. forces would ultimately be withdrawn from the National-ist-held island and by his statement that Taiwan is part of China, a position they never questioned as long as the United States was backing Chiang Kai-shek's claim that his was the only legitimate government of both the mainland and Taiwan.

Japan Says Taiwan Belongs to China

TOKYO (Reuter) — Premier Eisaku Sato told parliament today that Taiwan belongs to the People's Republic of China.

Observers said it was the first time he had made such a clear statement of Japanese thinking on the territorial issue.

Sato, commenting on President Nixon's visit to China and the communique on his talks with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, told a questioner: "In the United Nations, the People's Republic represents China.

"Based on this situation we can say Taiwan is part of the People's Republic of China. It is a natural assertion that Communist mainland and Taiwan are inseparable and it is not a question a third country argues."

Japan maintains an embassy on Taipei but does not have diplomatic relations with Peking.

Strike to Cut Use of Coal

LONDON (Reuter) — The dispositive power shown by striking miners in a 51-a-week test of strength ca l d paradoxically, shocks the life expectancy of Britain's coal industry.

Bitterness and humiliation after an unprecedented showdown with a Conservative government administration are likely to spread up the ore and coal industry's workforce of 287,000 to move to topple old king coal from his throne.

With the clarity of hindsight, miners and coal chiefs in their transport into Britain's biggest post-war industrial crisis may decide that the country can no longer afford the high price of coal.

Unofficial estimates suggest that the management's last pay offer and the eight-per-cent wage ceiling that conservative government has sought to enforce on public-sector industries at the core of last-ditch tionary policy.

Coal miners had long regarded themselves as the forgotten men of British industry. Many workers received as little as £9 ($40) a week doing dirty, hard and dangerous jobs deep below ground-level.

For nearly six weeks the coal industry with its government behind it stood firm. But strikers' mass picketing proved successful in blocking coal supplies to electricity power stations. Power cuts, production reductions and blackouts had to be imposed which almost overnight threatened to bring British industry to its knees.

The final agreement is for a 16-month period. Strike-delayed November 1, it will add more than £90 million annually to the Coal Board's wages bill.

Capillaries Relax Cause Hot Flashes

By G. C. THORSTEINSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thorsteinson: Can you explain exactly what is taking place in a woman's body when she is having a hot flash? The warm feeling, the sweats, but no fever or chills.

Also what is your opinion of taking hormone pills by mouth as against taking injections?—Mrs. S. E. W.

Flexibility of the small capillaries—the very small and minute branches of blood vessels—is under control of the nervous system. That means the automatic, rather than the conscious action of the nervous system.

Well, some folks have a particularly flexible mechanism which causes a comfortable instability. That's why some women are more sensitive to changes with hot flashes in menopause, as well as, to some extent, in summer time.

What happens physically is that these tiny capillaries relax and more blood flows through them, and there's a feeling of warmth over the surface of the body, even though there is no fever. It's an additional flow of blood close to the surface, although the blood temperature does not change.

The entire body, you see, is not at the same temperature. You can read blood temperature by sticking a thermometer under your tongue or you can get a reading about one degree different with a rectal thermometer. You are getting a reading inside the body, as it were.

But hold the thermometer in your hand and the reading will come anywhere near that other reading. Your flesh is cooler at the surface—and that's why a sudden rush of blood to the surface makes you feel warm although you don't have a fever.

At menopause, the changes in hormone levels can upset your nervous system. Hence the hot flushes, which bother some women more than others. There's no way of predicting who will have them.

Incidentally, a blush is an example of the same sort of thing happening.

Taking hormones in the form of pills by mouth or injection? It's more convenient by mouth. Some physicians prefer to give them by injection. Personally, I prefer by mouth and—I suppose the reasons why I assume patients like to feel they are getting more attention if they have injections. Of course, I'm not opposed to a patient is taking either too much or too little pills by mouth. Whatever is the surer control of dosage. With proper dosage, estrogen is effective by either route.

Dear Dr. Thorsteinson: I would like to make a donation to a foundation doing research on the hereditary disease of diabetes, as a memorial to a departed friend, but don't know of a. Could you give me this information?—L. F. H.

I am not familiar with such an organization as you describe, but contributions for diabetes research would be welcomed either through a local chapter or the national headquarters, Canadian Diabetes Association, 1491 Yonge St., Toronto 7.

Dear Dr. Thorsteinson: Could minerals in drinking water contribute to bursitis?—M. G.

No.

Foreign Control Carbs Seen Weak

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Ontario Democrat Leader David Lewis said Saturday that the accessing agency of control foreign ownership will not give ugh take-overs will not give real protection against U.S. domination of the economy.

He said a cabinet document leaked to the press in Ottawa shows the government intends to water down its foreign ownership guidelines governing takeovers officially.

Mr. Lewis was addressing a meeting in U.S. Senate, representative Peter Peterson. His remarks were released to the news media in advance.

Opening lead—four of clubs.

This deal occurred in a team of four championship some 20 years ago. The bidding went as shown—believe it or not—and the names of the participants are handed as well.

Stayman's two club bid—with the two jumps to game and a prayer—was undoubtedly influenced by the vulnerability, but even so it seems excessively adventuresome. However, nothing dreadful ensued and Goldsmith wound up collecting five notrump for 660 points.

Apparently, the West player covers is a dangerously short-sighted policy, because they usually prove a gigantic impact than a few big tabs.

Lewis Says Pressure Saves Pact

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Public pressure is the form of lobbying that has helped protect the federal government and its members the auto pact, Conservative MP Stanley Haidasz told the Canada-United States joint sports committee Monday.

Mr. Lewis said Sunday David Lewis said Sunday.

He said a meeting which recommended Oshawa-Whitby MP Ed Broadbent as the NDP candidate in the next federal election the government shifted its bargaining stance as a result of the public pressure.

In December, federal negotiators told Washington officials they were willing to give up the safeguards designed to protect the smaller Canadian automotive industry, Mr. Lewis said.

They backed off somewhat last month under public pressure, he said, and informed the Americans that they could only agree to ignore the safeguards temporarily, not eliminate them.

Every temporarily ignoring the safeguards is "unacceptable," Mr. Lewis said.

The write-in campaign was organized by Mr. Broadbent, municipal officials and the United Auto Workers union, and covered Oakville, St. Catharines, Windsor and Ste. Therese, Que., all auto manufacturing centres.

PT Advocates Oppose Trend

OSHAWA (CP) — Physical and health education specialists from across Ontario will ask Education Minister Thomas Wells to stop an apparent trend toward making physical education instruction optional in schools.

Lloyd White, chairman of the annual conference of the Ontario Association for the Supervision of Physical and Health Education, said physical education has become optional in many schools after Grade 10.

The 132 delegates attending a two-day conference that ended Saturday also formed a committee to suggest changes in the physical education curriculum in elementary schools. The subject is under review by the education department.

Strike Favored

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of 4,200 Toronto outside workers voted almost unanimously Sunday in favor of strike action if they are unable to reach a new collective agreement.

A spokesman for Local 43, Canadian Union of Public Employees, which represents the workers, said the union's negotiation committee would wait for a conciliation report before taking strike action.

The workers involved include those on garbage collection, ambulances, snow removal, sewage treatment and recreation services as well as many other outside jobs.

Negotiations to replace the two-year contract that expired Dec. 31 have been going on since early November. The old contract provided for wages of $3.28 an hour or $143.39 a week. Mr. Doyle said the local wants a one-year contract with a $20 weekly raise.

Strike Slows Construction

TORONTO (CP) — The strike of more than 600 craftmen is contributing to a crisis in the construction business, says the president.

William McLaren said Sunday the men who install the reinforcing steel in concrete went on strike more than six weeks ago, and since then more than 6,000 men have been idled.

This represents 30 to 35 per cent of all union members in Toronto, and more men are being laid off daily, he said.

"We estimate . . . in excess of $250,000 a day is being lost in wages."

Mr. McLaren said the strike, by local 721 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, has stopped work on more than 50 building projects in Metropolitan Toronto.

Living Quarters Are Sought For Homeless Coal Miners

MAN, W. Va. (AP) — With 16 Appalachian coal camps in flood-devastated ruin, relief agencies began in earnest today for the job of finding living quarters for the thousands of homeless from Buffalo Creek hollow.

Many persons still were reported missing in the wake of Saturday's flood and the death toll stood today at 67.

More than 4,000 persons were left homeless following the flood, caused when tons of water broke through a mining company dam and spilled through the hollow.

National Guard troops manning bulldozers and other heavy equipment, continued to sift debris in search of bodies and survivors.

Officials reported Monday night they had recruited for 128 surveyors from this community of Lorado who had escaped the flood by scaling a hill to another town.

Paris Police Rout Students

PARIS (Reuter) — A two-hour march by about 20,000 left-ist militants, aimed at recapturing "the spirit of 1968"—the year of widespread student and left wing unrest—ended in a mad Monday night when the marchers lost their way in northeastern Paris and police dispersed the remnants in a street-to-street battle.

About 500 of the demonstrators barricaded streets and set fire to a car as the march broke up in a right-bank working class district.

British Parliamentarians Would Probe Massachusetts

LONDON (AP) — Parliamentarians greeted Senator Edward Kennedy's criticism of British Northern Ireland policy by proposing a British investigation of race relations in Massachusetts.

A motion introduced Monday night by several Conservative and Labor legislators called on the House of Commons committee on racial problems to make the investigation.

The motion was a response to a speech by Kennedy to a congressional subcommittee calling for the withdrawal of British troops from Northern Ireland and terming the killing of 13 Roman Catholic civilians in London-derry Sunday as "a British My Lai massacre."

First Budget Draft Read

By Lenny Williamson
Staff Reporter

Cost of education in Hastings county in 1972 will probably be up 11.4 per cent over 1971, if the board of education approves the budget previewed last night.

Administration presented a $22,679,761 estimated budget, up $2,326,830 from 1971's $20,352,931.

It's another tight budget, with $1,009,300 in requests pared from the total before the first draft was presented to the board.

Because the 1972 grant regulations from the department of education have not yet been received and revenue and tax requirements cannot be calculated, trustees were not asked to approve the budget. They sent administrators back to their desks to prepare reports on some expenditures, such as purchase of portables and a bus, and some program cuts, in maintenance and special education.

The amount the board is allowed to spend in 1972 is based on ordinary operating expenditures of $598 for each elementary pupil and $1,120 for each secondary pupil.

These amounts are larger than the 1971 elementary rates by $28 for elementary pupils and $77 for secondary pupils.

But the per pupil expenditure permitted to the Hastings board is still lower than the maximum provincial guidelines of $640 for elementary pupils and $1,141 for secondary pupils.

"Our board has been incurring expenditures at a level lower than the provincial guidelines," said the introduction to the draft budget. "The department has placed limits on the speed with which a board such as ours can catch up to those guidelines."

Hastings is expected to catch up to the ceilings in the secondary school panel in 1973 and in the elementary in 1974.

Britain May Revive Old Law

BELFAST (AP) — Gunmen believed to be assassination squads from the Irish Republican Army critically wounded Ulster Protestant Northern Ireland Monday night while the British government considered resurrecting a 30-year-old law to keep terrorists out of its own backyard.

One move, Home Secretary Reginald Maudling told Parliament, could be the reviving of a 1939 law enabling dangerous persons to be expelled or banned from entering the country.

Heading the Last Lineup

Mrs. Julia Eley waits for Belleville motor vehicle licence bureau to open today — deadline for 1972 registrations. Four PCs Launch Attack On Bilingualism Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Four English-speaking Conservatives dominated the Commons Monday with a series of attacks on the government's approach to bilingualism that foreshadowed sharp election campaigns.

The four—Ambrose H. Peddle (Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador), Douglas Alkenbrack (Frontenac-Lennox and Addington), J. Patrick Nowlan (Annapolis Valley) and Walter Dinsdale (Brandon-Souris)—spoke during throne speech debate on government policies, which winds up its eight-day sittings today.

Mr. Alkenbrack, arguing that the Trudeau government has been unjust to "unilingual English-speaking public servants," said the official languages program has already been corrupted and has become outright French-Canadianism."

Lebanese Army Moves Into Guerrilla Area

BEIRUT (CP) — The Lebanese army moved into the stronghold of the Palestinian Arab guerrillas in southeast Lebanon Monday, raising the prospect that it would check guerrilla raids across the border into Israel.

"This time we intend to occupy the guerrilla positions and keep them," said a Lebanese colonel.

The Lebanese troops advanced in the wake of withdrawing Israeli forces who claimed they killed about 50 guerrillas and wounded nearly 100 in four days of air and ground attacks that left the Palestinians' stronghold in the Arkoub region "in complete disarray."

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Teachers Corp. issued an ultimatum to Education Minister Francois Cloutier giving him ten days to reply to its complaints concerning working conditions.

Nixon Says His Talks in China Have Sown Seeds for Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Monday night on his return from his visit to mainland China that his week-long talks with Chinese leaders sowed the seeds for "a more orderly structure for peace" without secret deals undercutting any ally.

He sought to soothe conservative fretting about his pledge to ultimately withdraw all United States troops from Taiwan—an effort being continued today in a meeting with congressional leaders.

"We did not bring back any written or unwritten agreement that will guarantee peace in our time," Nixon said in televised remarks shortly after he concluded his 12-day, 20,395-mile trip to China.

But, he told several thousand persons jammed into a hangar at Andrews Air Force Base for welcome-home ceremonies: "We made some necessary and important beginnings."

Nixon delivers a more-detailed private report today at a mid-morning meeting with congressional leaders, then meets with his cabinet.

Even as he flew home from China and what he called a "week of intensive talks at the highest level," several congressional leaders praised his journey. Among the warm endorsements was one from a longtime administration critic, Senator Edward Kennedy.

But some conservatives in Nixon's own Republican party fretted about his pledge to ultimately withdraw U.S. troops from Taiwan.

Nixon sought in his airport speech to reassure them that the communique pledge would not undermine the Nationalist Chinese regime of Chiang Kai-shek.

"The communique restated "established policy" toward Taiwan, he said, adding: "We will not negotiate the fate of other nations behind their backs, and we did not do so in Peking. There were no secret deals of any kind."

The president cited his agreements with Premier Chou En-lai to broaden trade, to develop cultural, educational and journalistic exchanges and to expand contact between the two governments.

"We have done this," he said, "without giving up any United States commitment to any other country."

Taiwan 'Can't Forgive' Nixon

TAIPEI (AP) — Nationalist China's premier and its National Assembly accused President Nixon today of selling out old friends and said Chiang Kai-shek's government cannot forgive him for negotiating with mainland China.

"The Chinese Communist regime is a rebel group which has no right to represent the people of mainland China," said a resolution adopted by the assembly. "The people and government of the Republic of China cannot forgive the negotiations which President Nixon has conducted with them."

The assembly was elected in 1946, before Chiang was expelled from the mainland, and meets every six years to re-elect him president.

The resolution joined the foreign ministry in warning that Chiang's government will consider "null and void" any agreement reached between Nixon and the Communists concerning the Nationalists.

Premier C. K. Yen—without mentioning Nixon by name—accused the president of betraying his own principles and his Nationalist friends by bargaining with the regime in Peking.

School Administration Costs Are Broken Down

Administration costs for Hastings county's public school system were broken down Monday night for trustees to reveal that the administration cost will cost them 1.75 per cent of the 1973 budget—1.39 per cent.

During the last year, trustees have called for an explanation of how much they were paying for the director and superintendents and how much for business administration. Department of education formulas have pumped the academic administration in with teaching staff costs in the past.

Instructional administration will cost the board $396,457 in 1973, 1.75 per cent of the $22,679,761 operating budget. This covers the salaries, fringe benefits, travel allowances, supplies and equipment for a staff of 34. The staff includes the director of education, six supervisors/consultants, eight educational assistants and nine secretaries.

The cost in 1971 was $357,851.

But, noted director of education Eric Runacres, the staff has decreased over the years when the board was formed in 1969. It employed ten supervisors and the complement was reduced to eight in 1970. The number of educational assistants has been cut from 14 a year ago to eight this year.

Business administration will cost $363,493, accounting for 1.6 per cent of the total budget.

The staff of 34.5 includes the five business officials, seven people in finance, seven in accounting, five on the payroll, four in charge of purchasing, 7.5 in purchasing and four in the plant department.

Also include in the business administration budget is $9,500 for a newsletter and an unspecified sum for an honorarium for retired director of education L. A. Kells who has taken charge of establishing an archives.

School office administration will cost $668,221, or 2.95 per cent of the budget. This provides clerical services to all secondary and elementary schools. There are 49 secretaries in the secondary schools and 19 full-time and 13 part-time in the elementary schools.

City Hall Flag Policy Changed

The flag atop Belleville's century-old city hall will in the future be flown at half staff for shorter periods in honor of deceased.

In the past the policy has been to fly the city flag at half staff from the time of death until after the funeral.

But apparently this policy results in problems, especially at night and on weekends.

In the future the policy will be to lower the flag only on the day of the funeral, specifically for former members of council, committees and city employees.

Arson the Cause?

Firefighters battled for more than two hours to control a blaze which gutted a frame building at the corner of Victoria and Pinnacle Streets shortly after 10 p.m. yesterday. A passerby, Michael Jesup of Maitland Drive, spotted youths in back of the building as flames exploded. Three firemen were slightly injured.

Distinguished Salvationists To Be Welcomed to City

Former chief secretary for all Salvation Army operations in Finland and recently appointed second in command to The Salvation Army in Canada, Col. Jarl Wahlstrom, with Mrs. Wahlstrom will be a visitor in Belleville this week.

Col. and Mrs. Wahlstrom will be accorded a welcome salute at the Belleville Citadel on Wednesday, March 1 at 8 p.m.

Co m missioner Clarence Wiseman, Territorial Commander from National Headquarters in Toronto, will preside over the event, supported by Lt.-Colonel Harold Sharp, Divisional Commander at Belleville.

Salvationists from the 17 Salvation Army centres in the Mid-Ontario Division will be in attendance with music to be provided by the Kingston Citadel Band, the Peterborough Temple Songsters Brigade and the Belleville Citadel Male Voice Quartet. The public is invited to attend.

Son of early-day officer parents, Finnish-born Jarl Wahlstrom graduated from the Salvation Army's International Training College in London, England in 1938.

His early assignments were in the field of evangelism followed by military and chaplaincy services with the Finnish forces during World War II.

Following the war he served in important headquarters and youth - oriented appointments and in 1969 was named Divisional Commander for Finland's Northern Division. For five years he was principal of the officers' training college in Helsinki and in 1998 was elevated to the administrative officer of Chief Secretary (second in command) post which post Col and Mrs. Wahlstrom came to Canada.

A noted song writer and composer, he was awarded the decoration of Knight of the Order of the Finnish Lion, 1964 for distinguished service on behalf of the youth of Finland.

Police Budget Tops $1 Million This Year

Operation of the city police department will cost more than a million dollars this year.

That is the amount of the 1973 police budget presented to council yesterday by the city police commission.

The budget calls for a total expenditure of $1,011,345, with revenue items of just over $50,000 leaves $961,968 to be raised by municipal levy.

Biggest item on the 1972 budget is the cost of salaries which this year jumps to $721,476 from $641,125 paid out in this category last year.

Vehicle supplies and repairs will cost $40,640, up from $37,238 last year; $30,300 for maintenance and repairs; $22,916 for staff benefits; $32,963 for workmen's compensation and pensions, $12,615 debt charges, $36,063 for contingencies and $12,939 for the contingency fund.

The police budget was approved by council with little discussion, but Alderman Ben Ketcheson had a couple of questions.

He recognized that council had little to say about the police budget, but asked if the pension would be where the city was going to find the money.

"It's a million dollar budget," he said.

He wanted to know what was included in the police budget revenue item of $45,000 and also inquired about the $3,000 contingency fund.

In reply, Mayor J. Russell Scott said the revenue item included rent for the police station courtroom which was paid by the province.

The contingency fund was necessary to provide for the employment of special constables sent to the city to investigate and deal with specific charges.

Commenting on the estimated $40,640 cost for vehicle supplies and repairs, the mayor said the police commission had fully investigated rental costs for vehicles as opposed to outright purchase.

He said it had been shown purchasing the vehicle was far better from an economic viewpoint.

New police cruisers to be purchased this year will be painted yellow for better visibility, instead of the present blue and white.

Yellow police vehicles were more visible and had a deterrent value in law enforcement, the mayor said.

Fire Helps with Demolition

An eyewitness report indicates arson as the cause of a two - hour blaze which thoroughly gutted one of Belleville's early brick buildings at the corner of Victoria and Pinnacle Streets, and slightly injured three Belleville firemen.

Michael Jesup of Maitland Drive, was driving a companion home shortly before 10 p.m. last night, when he spotted flames in the old building, which was due to be demolished by Tracey and Sons.

Mr. Jesup said he could see "a fair-sized boy" standing next to the burning building and later observed "tracks where they were standing."

Stopping his car, the Thurlow Township resident attempted to start the parked dump truck, which was sitting next to the yellow and brown, frame building.

Firemen were hard - pressed to control the blaze in the tinder-dry building, constructed in the 1870s, for the Bank of Upper Canada. No sooner did they quench certain portions of the burning upstairs than flames would erupt moments later.

Only by constant concentration on these recurring flame points, were the firemen able to bring the fire under control.

Owners of the property, on which local contractor Maurice H. Rollins has a purchase option, said the building was not insured. For the past several weeks, Tracey and Sons have been dismantling the former brick Ontario Hydro maintenance shops which are attached to the old frame structure. They had not begun demolition of the wooden building.

Fire Chief Leo Culhane this morning speculated on Jesup's statement. "The wood was dry, but they must have had something to get it going so fast, if the flames went as fast as he said."

One unidentified fireman suffered slight burns to his right hand, but appeared he was not serious enough to require medical attention. Fireman Edward Wessels of 111 Maple Drive is recovering from a strained back, while he suffered during the fire. Another firefighter, Robert Lloyd, of 82 Bertram Boulevard, was taken to Belleville General Hospital for removal of a cinder in his eye.

Mr. Dinsdale criticized Prime Minister Trudeau for calling British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett a bigot two weeks ago, saying Mr. Bennett had merely pointed out that if bilingual qualifications were going to be a major requirement of being hired as federal employees, naturally westerners would be discriminated against.

In an interview later, Mr. Stanfield said the government bilingualism policy may be an issue in some constituencies.

But Mr. Stanfield, who has taken great pains to learn French and who yearns to increase the three-seat Conservative representation in Quebec said that "it will certainly not be an issue as far as the party is concerned."

—Split to some extent they reflected the feelings of many people that the Liberals are not living up to their promises that bilingual English-Canadians in the public service would not be injured as the service became more bilingual and representative, he said.

George Hees (Prince Edward-Hastings) said the government is eroding historical symbols by removing the RCMP symbol from cars and buildings.

English-speaking Canadians were just as proud of the symbols of their history as French-Canadians were of theirs, said Mr. Hees.

"We respect your symbols," he said in the prime minister "Stop eroding ours."

Licence Lineup Annual Experience

A mounting demand for 1972 motor vehicle licence plates appeared headed into a crowded house stretch in Belleville today.

All 1971 registrations expire at midnight tonight.

Demand had been building in the final days at the Belleville licence bureau as the deadline neared.

First of today's applicants for licence renewals was outside the Front Street bureau by 8 a.m. — an hour before the office opened.

Mrs Julia Eley, of Ameliasburg village, rose early and drove into Belleville, in order to beat what she believed would be a last - minute rush.

She was the head of a small swarm of applicants that had formed by the time the bureau doors opened at 9 a.m.

Licences have been available since late 1971 and purchases have been fairly steady — totalling more than 13,000, an increase of close to 1,000 over last year.

Demand, however, has been mounting as the deadline nears.

A lineup marched through the licence office most of the day, taking an average halfhour wait to get a registration processed, estimated Mr. Olsen.

Demand pressure today seemed to have eased from yesterday.

By mid-morning one office worker said applicants were steadily seeking licences although the crowd was "nothing like yesterday."

Bail Reform

In court in Picton last week Mr. Justice Henderson is reported to have issued a stern warning to the Press against any divulgence of details surrounding the release on bail of a man charged with the shooting death of his wife.

Perhaps the Press in turn may be permitted a stern warning to the people of this country and the government, not to mention the judiciary, of the possible consequences of new and increasingly permissive legislation in Canada.

The case with which prisoners are paroled these days is perhaps the most controversial aspect of such legislation: to-date, but it may now have been superseded by the new Bail Reform Act.

Meanwhile the rehabilitation of prisoners remains one of the most compelling social needs of our day. As was explained in a recent article in this newspaper, Canada has one of the highest per capita imprisonment rates of any country in the world and the recidivism rate for inmates is more than 80 per cent. With a view to lowering the rate of rehabilitation, a new program being initiated in Belleville will be watched with interest. It entails the use of responsible citizens to supervise prisoners who have returned to the community on parole. Currently there is one such volunteer and it is anticipated more will come forward. This is an imaginative idea and one that deserves success. At the same time the record of the parole system in Canada has afforded some misgivings of late and necessary caution as to who is allowed to go free must be stringent.

Peking Interlude

It has been an extraordinary week in Peking. There were platitudes galore from both President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai, but the very fact the two leaders were able to get together on such cordial terms, and not forgetting Mr. Nixon's chat with Chairman Mao, bodes well for international relations. This, we feel, must transcend whatever rancor remains and reflection may be placed on the talks, such as the concept that the whole thing was planned with the re-election of President Nixon in mind.

An end substantially to 20 years of hostility between the two big powers cannot be regarded as anything else but a signal triumph. What follows of course will be of equal significance as the future of Taiwan for example, and the United States still has responsibilities toward its friends there. There are areas such as this where old alliances and principles cannot be compromised, but still has the opportunity as part of both the U.S. and China to ensure that where differences remain they do not lead to war. A start however toward better relations has been made.

Feb. 29

Well here we are on that extra day of the (leap) year and for one thing it affords us a last opportunity to obtain our car plates. It also means we are just a day away from March and while we shall remember to beware "the ides of March" and maybe more storms to come it is good to know that Spring is just around the corner.

There have been April days after all that have brought temperatures in the high seventies, some of the best weather of the year in fact. Meanwhile there is artistry and the enjoyment it confers with it in the remaining days of winter. Driving about there are many scenes of rare beauty, even amid seemingly harsh landscapes compounded by grey skies. Such an area, as we have pointed out before, is the older waterfront section of the city that is Foster ward.

Amid the liquid atmosphere of the city's maritime life: the harbor scene, Prince Edward county across the bay and the sun going down behind a litany of bare tree tops and hydro wires, there is a spirituality that goes beyond the mere physical scene.

Another beauty there still remains one harsh element which promises to become worse unless government imposes proper controls. We refer to the noise and improper operation of snowmobiles. Many formerly quiet rural neighborhoods are being ruined by the noise of these machines, while rural roads are used by some as snowmobile drag strips.

What Four Years Have Done

Party Faithful Ponder Trudeau Charisma 1972-Style

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — A clutch of Liberal backbenchers hunched over their coffee in the Centre Block's crowded fifth floor cafeteria were pondering the big question of the oncoming election.

Not when it is to be called, because the Liberal headquarters says the party is all set, even if its basic secret hearts are still full with nobody ever is as ready as they could or should be.

Not who will win it, because they seem convinced that they will perform narrowly if ever with a minority, but by enough to govern.

It seemed infectious: a plague almost resulting in a sort of national state of fey-mindedness like the victims seemed to enjoy the affliction, called Trudeaumania.

No question about its awesome potency last time.

And the big question is how long did it last, and if it still lingers what now are its mnemeric powers?

He was prime minister in the last 30 or more years glowed with such charisma as he did in the 1958 election campaign when people lined up, in the often almost worshipping hundreds and sometimes thousands just to wave at him, or twice-blessed, shake his hand.

And no prime minister in the 105 years since Confederation ever made it so big as he did with that awesome sweep of 208 seats in the Commons seats, without liquidating the Liberals and the New Democrats.

Then, no prime minister in Canadian political history fell so far so fast, finally to be renounced by his own party and humiliated by losing by a hurtfully embarrassing margin the vote to succeed himself as party leader.

Could it happen, is it in fact in the process of happening to Pierre Trudeau?

Charisma: sets us the Oxford dictionary, "divine grace. Handsome as the classic head on the Greek coin. Beauty of purple, brimming with joie de vivre. Trendy but then again, we have only the pictures.

At what four years have done, as years and the savage pressures of responsibility do to all prime ministers.

Face deep-lined. Hair shaggier far down over his collar. Voice flat. Perhaps tired. Temper, shortlined to the sharp edge, sometimes, of four-letter word fame. His longer casual, but given to lecturing, often dreary.

Can still turn on the charm, but it appears to take an effort. No more the spontaneous shy grin of a bashful boy.

So can this prime minister, already described by four years of heavy mileage, skip from supermarket to shopping plaza to city council, wave, smile, laugh, really say nothing much but still with all who behold in his spell?

Will the teen-boppers still flip and their mothers sigh?

If the Liberal backbenchers could be sure, they would not look so pensive.

James Bay Project Encounters Problems

Ottawa Journal

The one certainty about the proposed James Bay power development about which there is no quarrel is the colossal scope of the undertaking.

Consider these facts:

The project will take 10 years to complete and cost perhaps $10 billion.

Five major rivers will have to be dammed. The "development" area covers 80,000 square miles, roughly the size of Great Britain. It is populated by 4,000 Cree Indians, 50 Eskimos and 200 whites.

The power house in the complex has a planned capacity of $12,800 megawatts and will generate 85.3 billion kilowatts of power annually, more than one quarter of all the power now generated in Canada.

The creation of the reservoirs will require the cutting of 1,200 million feet of wood. That is as much that selling it will be spread over 10 years to avoid a price slump.

The project was launched nine months ago by the Bourassa government. Construction is due to start in the spring and the reason for the rush is obvious. Premier Bourassa has not yet announced his election promises but 100,000 jobs and James Bay power prospects of creating 125,000 to 140,000 at its peak.

Yet daily the project becomes more encumbered with revelations of engineering difficulties, unknown ecological side-effects, more favorable forecasts on the costs of developing nuclear power, and fears that financier James Bay would exert upward pressure on the Canadian dollar and double the Quebec net funded debt over the next decade.

The main argument of a joint federal-provincial study released last week was that there is inadequate date. It urged further study.

Instead, the Quebec government pushes ahead. Some $50 million in road contracts have been let and sales and financing arrangements are being negotiated.

Quebec's power needs are not expressing that this project could not be delayed until all the facts are in. The stakes are too high.

Toronto Students Respond To Minister's Anti-smoking Pitch

From The Toronto Star

Almost 100 students at Winston Churchill Collegiate, Lawrence Ave. E., pinned on Support Smoking buttons recently after a week-long anti-smoking program.

The buttons were handed out by Rev. John Corban, pastor of North York's Bransen Heights, and director of the hospital's five-day stop-smoking plan. It was the first time he had taken the program into a school and he was astonished at the results.

It began a week ago Monday when Corban was invited to speak at the school assembly. "We were having an anti-pollution day and figured smoking is a form of pollution," said Liz Macpherson, one of the program organizers.

Corban showed the students a film revealing what happens inside the body when a person smokes.

The movie showed us the gory details," said Brian Barton 16, "and I didn't want that happening to me." He has been smoking since he was 12, he said.

Tom Campbell, 14, a two-year smoker, agreed. Once he made the decision "it wasn't that hard, although I got thirsty at 3 a.m."

Forty-two per cent of those who voted cast ballots Dec. 6 against the $25-million project to alter the core area of Kitchener by replacing the buildings which now house the farmers' market and city hall. We believe their opposition is sincere. We believe that the most part Kitchener people, who are entitled to their own opinions about what is best for their own community. The Record has said editorially that it agrees with the 58 per cent of the electorate who voted for the project but we have held our news columns wide open to free expression of opinion on both sides of the controversy over the Dickenson plan.

Even if we believe that the merits of the plan outweigh the demerits, we have given at least as much space to the views of those opposed as we have to those in favor.

It is not so easy to detect sincerity in a series of articles given frontpage treatment in the Toronto Globe and Mail. They go to great lengths to suggest that The Record has been hiding something. Our own readers, a little bored with the amount of wordage allotted to both sides might have felt that The Record had not hidden enough.

Commons Off To A Dull Start

Ottawa Journal

The first business day of the new session was wearing to participants and audience alike. Barely a Children's Hour, the week's equally divided between questioners and repliers.

The "confrontation" between Prime Minister and Opposition Leader was one between two dull performers reading "at" his nuds but their own followers were hardly listening.

Whatever has happened to what was called "House of Commons theatre" in the days Mr. Diefenbaker came closest to it. He was talking to the Commons "at" his fellow MPs and much of it came from his head rather than his note sheets. The problem is that he too often becomes a professor.

Alas, guests in the distinguished visitors gallery included a group of Scouts and Georgemen from Washington up to talk over Canada-American affairs and see our system work. They were disappointed. They were dreamed, dismay-eyed. For an hour and 13 minutes they watched Question Hour reduced to noisily and childishly abused and half-ignored Members, wondering why they had heard tell that this is the shining hour and strength of our system is compared to theirs.

Churchill may be right, the Parliamentary system may be better than any other. But it is going to be hard to see it as the debates are concerned — and they are supposed to be the heart of the system.

Gordon Dubroy's Phenomenal Memory

Commons Clerk Assistant Knows Each MP's Name

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — Each year thousands of visitors pour into the galleries in the House of Commons to watch and listen to our parliamentarians in action. But only a comparative few are fortunate enough to be present when one of the Commons' most amazing feats takes place.

I am referring to the taking of a formal division, or vote, in the house and the man who presides over this ritual demonstrates a near-magical memory worthy of the finest of stage performers.

He is Gordon Dubroy, the 41 year-old clerk assistant of the Commons who has been called on to call the names of MPs for many years, as they stand to be recorded as votes, with unerring, error. His particular skill came in for some brief attention just before the Christmas break when Speaker Lucien Lamoureux informed members that Mr. Dubroy had reached a milestone in his distinguished career.

"He has just completed calling the 1,000th division of his career. All honorable members and all visitors to our gallery this day have had the experience of watching Mr. Dubroy on these occasions have been not only impressed, but astonished, by his ability to perform this very difficult exercise in so flawless a manner," Mr. Lamoureux observed.

Mr. Dubroy tells me that the 1,000 division—the number has increased since then—is a record for a clerk in the Canadian Commons. In earlier years if he was called on for 30 or 40 divisions in a session, this would be normal. But more recent sessions have seen him called on to take at least 100 votes as MPs have grown accustomed to demanding that members stand up to be counted on a wide variety of issues.

Mr. Dubroy has a list of MPs in front of him, but he never refers to it. He simply stands at his clerks' desk in the clerks' table and calls out the name of each MP as the latter rises briefly in his place to have his vote recorded—or not recorded.

For English-speaking members he calls out "Mr. Smith," "Mr. Brown" or whatever. For French-speaking, he uses the honorific "Monsieur." When two MPs have the same surname, he correctly identifies each one by adding the name of his riding so as to eliminate any confusion.

He experienced his toughest time in 1957 and 1958 when the Conservatives came into power and there was a very large turnover of members with many first and unfamiliar names and names. But with some diligent study of the list and of the Commons' seating plan prior to the opening day of the new Parliament in 1958 he got through this with hardly an error.

"I have gone to sleep on my feet once or twice, and sometimes my eyes run ahead of my tongue and I have skipped a member," he admits, but Mr. Dubroy says proudly and justifiably.

It is truly a remarkable display of memory and one that visitors to the Commons' galleries should watch with interest any time they happen to be present when a formal vote is taken.

Parliament is a strange place, as former prime minister John Diefenbaker has pointed out many times. To strangers and visitors, the name-calling, the loud shouts of approval that often exchanged between opposition members and the government benches, the jeers and boos of the opposition parties, suggest the scene is one of chaos.

But there is a good deal of truth in the cliche that much of the daily sitting is over, members who were at each others throats in the House chamber good friends again and enjoy a drink in the members' lounge.

This was never better demonstrated than recently when all parties joined in sincere congratulations and best wishes to Prime Minister Trudeau on having become a father.

Only minutes later, the bedlam began as the government for a variety of real or imagined sins.

It was topped off when one Conservative, Jack Horner, referred to a Liberal MP and United Church minister, Murray McBride, as an ass.

Despite this unparliamentary language and an expression that would have been caught by the presiding officer with a demand for a retraction. But then, Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, a linguist of the streets, is not going to dampen and kill, as now fairly commonplace and Prime Minister Trudeau's nonsense, a session which has hardly calculated to set a good example.

Mackasey Says UIC's Main Problem Has Been Communication

The following article, of special interest to Belleville residents, reprinted from The Financial Post.

By JOHN SCREIBER

Several years ago, Bryce Mackasey and his Labor Department set out to develop one of the best unemployment insurance programs in the world.

At the moment, few people believe they succeeded.

During the past three months, the Unemployment Insurance Commission has been battered by increasingly violent criticism. Apparently widespread delays in the payment of benefits to the unemployed have led critics to charge the UIC is suffering the worst case of administrative bungling since the Passport Office's celebrated computerized blunders a few years ago.

Mackasey, now Manpower minister, has begun to fight back.

"I don't want to see a good system wrecked," he says.

In defending the UIC, Mackasey has his work cut out for him. There is a plausible defense but it lacks the emotional punch the safety oil well are angry over the apparent runarounds some unemployed have had.

It is interesting that the UIC is now helping to wage up a publicity campaign for its Claimant Assistance Program. Mackasey had suggested this before Christmas, but the idea was not positively received (the UIC, after all, had other problems).

CAP is a sound and humanitarian program through which thousands have been aided to help themselves in getting new jobs. The case histories just might provide the emotional antidote to all the tales of hardship caused by delayed payments.

The main problem is communication," says Mackasey, adding: "and we haven't had fair shake from the press."

Had the UIC communicated more aggressively with the people in the first place, a good deal of controversy might never have arisen.

The new unemployment insurance program differs substantially from the previous one which was in effect until last June 25. Some of the essential differences still are not understood.

For example, the waiting period under the previous act was one week. Now the unemployed person waits two weeks before he qualifies for benefits.

This additional week may have led some individuals to conclude the UIC was delaying benefits.

At the end of the waiting period, the claimant then mails in the first of the series of report cards necessary to keep himself in the benefits stream. Until now, that card triggered a two-week payment, which arrived at the end of the fourth week of layoff (possibly at the beginning of the fifth).

Four weeks of layoff without a cheque looks like a delay to a UIC claimant, no matter that technically there is no delay.

Technically again, the claimant who is first broke can always go to his local welfare office, get fast money there, and assign his UIC cheque to welfare. But not surprisingly, the welfare offices have been cool to this idea.

Mackasey is somewhat bitter at that. He figures the increased UIC benefits they've been doubled and are available to more persons — are saving welfare agencies $80 million this year. They could have returned the favor.

In the end, Mackasey has ordered shortcuts to get cheques into claimants' hands a week earlier. A practical solution.

Then the new unemployment insurance act also takes a different tack toward delays pay and severance pay a claimant may get when he is laid off. These payments technically are earnings and will reduce or delay his benefits at first. This was not so with the previous act and is proving a source of confusion and frustration.

Misunderstanding of these points appears to explain the incredulous reaction when the UIC recently reviewed 400,000 claims — at Mackasey's order — and found only 5,000 to be delayed.

UIC Chairman Des Roches asks FP's:

"The commission is achieving its normal target of 8 decision rendered on more than 98 per cent of all claims within three weeks from receipt of application.

"It is estimated that two per cent of all claims become problem cases but many are still corrected within the period before a first payment is legally due.

The UIC and Mackasey have been admitting fault on these 5,000 claims, however. Some 2,000 of them were found to be more than two weeks late, and the others were slipping into the same limbo when the claims review was made.

(Among the corrective measures Mackasey has introduced to uncover claims that, for some fault of the UIC, are overlooked.)

Many of the 5,000 delayed claims, Mackasey says, are victims of changeover in UIC practices from the old to the new act.

Under some circumstances, it is still to the claimant's advantage to collect benefits under the terms of the old act. This will be rare after the end of March and will vanish entirely July 1, when the new act will have been in force a year.

What it meant, however, was that UIC has had to pay some claimants under the old act but others under one of two systems under the new act.

The two systems under the new act are payment by computer and manual payment. This happened because there were last-minute amendments in the new act that held up the computer programming.

Thus, the new act became effective June 27 but the necessary computer program was not ready until November, 1971. New claims now are going directly into the computer, but 25 per cent of all new act claims still are handled manually.

To cut a long story short, the UIC has had to juggle three payment systems. The 5,000 delayed claims all are claims that got into the wrong stream and then fell between the cracks when the UIC attempted to direct them to the correct stream.

Learning that is small comfort to the aggrieved unemployed. In fairness to the UIC, however, it is a wonder that so few claims were delayed, considering the staggering volume of paperwork that flows through the system.

It is possible the entire snarl could have been avoided if the UIC had delayed the new program for six months, using the time to write computer programs, train staff and familiarize the public with the plan.

Mackasey admits he had that choice but thinks he did the right thing by starting the new liberalized program as soon as possible.

By launching the program at midyear, he gave many seasonally employed Canadians the opportunity to qualify for much higher benefits before the winter jobless peak hit. Delaying the program would have pitched many onto welfare.

The problem of delayed UIC benefits peaked in December and January for several reasons:

— The seasonal rise in unemployment.

— A major changeover in UIC paperwork at the beginning of the year.

The UIC always takes on extra staff as the winter jobless peak sets in. Last December, these people found themselves, like the claimants, dealing with unfamiliar forms and systems.

For example, the benefits now are taxable. This means the claimants must show their income tax exemptions (for dependents) on their application forms and the UIC must calculate the deductions before the cheques go out.

Not every Canadian knows his exemptions.

The exemptions are one of a maximum of 47 items of information that must be on the application form. Any omission immediately delays the claim.

And claimants who tried to phone the UIC offices frequently got busy signals. The UIC now has added 140 phones (a 65 per cent increase) and 300 more persons to deal with inquiries to relieve this bottleneck.

Mackasey grumbles that the UIC's telephone problem has been overstated.

"We had one guy who boasted he tried 77 times to phone the UIC," he says. "When he got through, he had nothing to say."

Employers also have new forms to fill out. Not all of the 400,000 employers the UIC deals with have been as prompt as the law requires.

However, Mackasey figures that time is on his side now. The three payment systems are being whittled down to one, and both claimants and the UIC are becoming more adept at handling the new paperwork.

And corrective measures have been taken, including:

— Special trouble-shooting units have been set up in the UIC's district offices and in its five regional offices. Among other chores these will handle inquiries concerning delayed payments. These units will also get for review weekly lists of claim applications awaiting decisions.

— Additional computer programs have been written, principations becoming lost among three payment streams.

— New procedures have been worked out so that district offices don't close files until they are sure payment (where applicable) has been made.

What's to be learned from this episode?

Mackasey mutters ruefully about the power of the press:

"We fell down in not stressing the positive features of the plan. We got off on the wrong foot with the press."

— And head office learns have been disinclined to check the whole UIC system in search of other weak links.

Roger Forchuk talks here with students of Hillcrest Community School, asking what they would like to see in recreational activities. The Y is moving into the community, providing programming for pre-teens and teens. Mr. Forchuk will administrate the program, operating out of the school and local community centre.

Y Moving Into Hillcrest

A tentacle of the YMCA is being extended into the Hillcrest community to begin programming there this week.

It is an effort on the part of the Y to decentralize its services to some extent, and move into the community rather than the community having to come to it.

Roger Forchuk, a political science student at Guelph University, has been employed by the Y to research the idea of setting up a recreational facility in the community and then run it.

Mr. Forchuk explained "The Y has always wanted to get into the community with projects like this but never had the funds."

Now through the help of a local initiative project, the Y has the money.

Seventy-five per cent of Mr. Forchuk's pay is being sponsored by the federal program, the remainder by the Y.

After what Mr. Forchuk described as an "exceptionally enthusiastic" welcome from the ratepayers association in Hillcrest, work began.

The first undertaking was to find out what kind of facility the community needed and wanted.

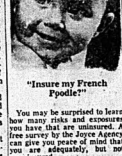
Recognizing the project was to be geared to youngsters, Mr. Forchuk toured Hillcrest Public School talking to them, asking for ideas and suggestions.

Further questioning was done in the King George Public School where some of the older children attend.

The Hillcrest Community is situated north of the Canadian National Railways property, bounded on the west side by the Cannifton Road and stretches east to the city limits.

At the moment a park is being developed by the city in the area, and a small community centre exists for the use of residents.

This centre and the school are the only facilities available for recreational purposes.



A minimum age of 10 has been set for participants, with one night for pre-teens, another for older people.

As well as the program in the community, the Y has made its pool available at no cost to the community.

Saturday afternoon swimming will be free but participants will have to provide their own transportation to the Y on Victoria Ave.

The Y will also be contributing some equipment for use in the Hillcrest program.

During the program Mr. Forchuk hopes the older youngsters will absorb some leadership training and when he leaves the community in May, they will "keep the thing going."

You may be surprised to learn how many risks and exposures you have that are uninsured. A visit by the Joyce Agency can give you peace of mind that you are adequately, but not over-insured.

Young Militant Women Cautioned

TORONTO (CP) — Laura Sabia, veteran crusader for women's rights, criticized a young militant feminist Monday night, for saying women want control of their bodies.

"Responsibility to make the decision as to what you do with your body—that's another matter," she told a member of the Toronto Women's Caucus during a question period following a seminar entitled Women s struggles in 1972.

Mrs. Sabia, who has an opposite radio program in St. Catharines, said she is appalled at the attitudes of some of the women who telephone her. Their thinking has not moved past 1930.

"The majority of the women around you—disbbey really want are things we're fighting for?" she asked.

"The challenge (to convert men) is three—be militant," she told the audience of mostly young women.

Doris Grant of the Ontario Women s Abortion Law Repeal Group reminded the audience that under Canadian law a woman is liable to two years imprisonment for obtaining an abortion.

She said nowhere in the law does it state that all hospitals must establish abortion committees and "it is consistently a third of the hospitals in Canada na-

Will Take Action on Status Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau assured a delegation from the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Monday that his government intends to take action on at least parts of the royal commission report on the status of women.

"We may not deal with all of the recommendations but we will not hide under the dust of the report," he replied to a federation brief that said the women hoped the report would not gather dust in some corner of an Ottawa office.

To back up his assurance that the government "wouldn't try to evade its responsibilities," Mr. Trudeau pointed to legislation arising from other royal commissions, including the one on bilingualism and the one on tax reform.

The federation's brief complained about "waste of human resources" in that the government service did not use "to the fullest, the skills and abilities of women in the public service."

Mr. Trudeau appeared to add fuel to the delegation's arguments when he said that since 1968, it had appointed only 118 women to boards and other agencies by order-in-council. In the same time it made a total of 1,389 appointments.

He admitted "that isn't a good track record."

But he invited them to compare the Ottawa record with other governments and private industry. He suggested Ottawa would look good in comparison.

The delegation must exert pressure on the provincial and local level.

Several other cabinet ministers replied to the brief.

Labor Minister Martin O'Connell said the amendments to the Canada Labor Code in the present session of Parliament would ban discrimination on the basis of sex or marital status.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said married women now can get passports in their maiden names if they so wish with no reference to their married status.

Health Minister John Munro said the $4 million Ottawa contributes towards day-care centres under the Canada Assistance Act had resulted in 60 such centres being established.

Airline Stewardess Most Watchable

MIAMI, Fla. (Reuter) — Among the most watchable women in the world are Princess Grace of Monaco, Empress Farah Dibah of Iran, Margie Miller, actress Candice Bergen.

"Margie Miller? Yep, she's among the most watchable women selected by the International Society of Girl Watchers.

Margie is a 22-year-old airline stewardess who lives in a small Miami apartment with another stewardess, Barbara Weeks. Margie has blue eyes, blonde hair and a wide smile.

Why was she selected?

"I don't know," she said. "One of my passengers nominated me but I don't know why it was."

She flies now to Los Angeles from Miami. Sometimes she does publicity work for her employer. Her picture has been widely used in airline advertisements with the caption "I'm Margie. Fly me."

She disagrees, she said, with the women's lib's opposition to the ads but otherwise agrees generally with the liberationists. And how does it feel to be named among the world's most watchable?

Used Stamps Help Save A Leper's Life

BY DORIS CLARK

Open your eyes and seek another human being in need — a little time, a little friendliness, a little company, a little work. Be it ever so humble, somewhere, close at hand, or on a far-away person for whom you can do something. Perhaps it will be an elderly neighbor or a child. Or else a cause that needs your time or workers. Don't lose heart, even if you must wait a bit before finding the right thing, even if you must make several attempts. — Albert Schweitzer.

A really simple way to share with others is to clip used postage stamps from letters you receive. Leave half an inch around the stamps so you don't damage it.

Soak the lot, a pound of used stamps can help to buy a wheelchair for a victim crippled by leprosy. Toc Alpha. The youth movement fighting drugs, requests us to send stamps to: Leprosy Mission of Canada, 10 Adelaide, Box 454 Toronto, Ontario. — Editor to Toc Alphacats.

Dear Doris: I often think your column and the many lives joined by it make a channel of peace, the most useful thing one can do with one's life. Will you please contact you for your list of pen pal clubs.

I have a few very close pals for whom I thank God daily; but I'm willing to write to write to someone in another country in the same position in which I find myself.

I am 33, a widow with five children ranging from 8 years to 16 years. I have always been interested in Australia and New Zealand. I am single, particularly lonely myself, but I know there must be many others in similar plight. I am lonely and would welcome letters.

Please send me required envelope and 20 cents. — Pen Happy.

Dear Pen Happy: Good for you! We have all too few people who enjoy writing letters, yet we can reach across the world in friendship if we know how to put words on paper.

The pen pal club I run is perfectly legal (entitled "How To Get More Mail.") Into a number of books in the U.S.A., Canada and the U.S.A. Several of the multiple you to name the country, the well as the age and sex of the pen pal you would like to contact.

There are also services for young people under 14 who want to write to others their own age in far-off countries.

Dear Doris: Even my husband reads your column and he doesn't bother to read any of the other so-called women's columns.

I am fascinated by people — such as Mother Shipton, Jeanne Dixon and so on, yet at times feel a bit afraid: What if the are right? It seems a bit wrong to know what the future holds in store. What do you think about the whole subject? Keep Up The Good Work!

Dear Keep: Bewildering. Isn't it? We are so accustomed to the scientific approach in which we've been taught to believe anything which does not touch one of our five senses directly that anything else seems a bit eerie.

Yet if we hark back to the time of Christ, we can find a number examples of mind-reading and foretelling the future—among a number of other miracles.

I have a friend who has suggested that we are not supposed to know the future. If we were, God would reveal it to us. I can't take it on faith.

At the same time, I doubt that we have ever been prevented from discovering new and wonderful things about this world of ours. I am told there are at least 33 universities across the world which now have departments studying various phenomena which you might classify in this way.

Seems to me it is exciting to feel there is more to the human mind and to this universe than we now know.

Political Action Group Needs More Women

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — There's a search on for women ready to be politically active.

A call is out from The Women's Movement for Political Action for the full-time participation of women in all parts of the country.

The WMPA is the result of a meeting of a group of women who got together as a result of a general feeling that nothing much is going to happen to improve women's lot unless women do it.

Kay Macpherson, long-time activist in the Voice of Women, says it was a group of individuals whose collective viewpoints is not completely feminist, though there were some feminists among them.

"There have been many feminist groups people ever since the beginning of the status of women commission and how much is going to happen unless women do something.

"We finally decided we might as well get a group together."

They have talked to politicians about practical aspects such as the availability of seats to run for and have decided party platforms are not the prospect of any of them running a new woman candidate is shaking.

"We are independently appealing to women to push their way into the mainstream, but not strictly from a feminist point of view.

"We have to try to get much more concern at the level of women that they are half the population and they are not down, and don't have time a little more action was taken.

"We may try running a trial woman, even across parties, to find out if women will lend support to a candidate to get more women in the House of Commons."

She says they aren't interested in a one-issue campaign.

"Canadian women won't accept an anti-male platform. But we don't want to support just any woman if she supports the current male-oriented setup. She must have a clear picture for women's rights and for such areas as the status of women, day-care centres, law, etc.

"Nor do we want to restrict any of it to 'women's affairs.' Women are concerned with all aspects of life.

"We feel women haven't taken enough responsibility.

"What we have to do, I think, at the moment is see how many people there are and maybe have another meeting or have someone act. OK. I'll be the guinea pig for this one.

The next federal election is the sort of deadline. We may possibly run candidates in ridings without hope of winning, just to see what sort of support they get."

Mrs. Macpherson says she is now a woman giving some thought to the possibility of running, as are others who have been approached.

She says the group has no illusions as to questions of financing campaigns.

"The idea could fall flat on its face — that's not an issue. We certainly couldn't hire airplanes. It's the sort of thing that's done now. But after all, the whole idea of running for a campaign in one constituency.

A release from the group says they will also consider forming a shadow cabinet of Canadian women to analyse and criticize government policy.

Ann Landers

Reader Sends Poem On the Other Woman

Dear Ann Landers: I was intrigued by the letter from the "Other Woman who signed herself "Patience." She was wondering the Wife — what she thought of the words, "I know quality when I see it—and Lady, he's got it.

What about her quality? What can be said for a female who would sneak around with a married man and let him spend Christmas Eve with her when his own family needs his physical presence and help and pay cheque?

I ran across a poem recently that says it far better than I can. Will you print it please? The author is Judith Viorst.

The Other Woman
The Other Woman
Never smells of Ajax or furniture polish.
She was bored with Bob Dylan
Ever before we had heard of him.
She's a good sport about things like flat tires and hot water.
Because it's easier to be a good sport
When you're not married.
The Other Woman
Never has any tired blood.
She can name the best hotels in Acapulco
As readily as we can name the best detergents.
She wears chiffon peignoirs instead of a corduroy bathrobe.
Because it's easier to try harder
When you're not married.
The Other Woman spends her money on real furs
While we spend ours on obstetricians.
She knows how to make a husband feel wanted.
Because it's easier to want a husband
When you're not married.
—Plagged In And Tuned Out

Dear Plagged: Thank you for your contribution. I received thousands of superb letters from women who offered to reply to Patience, but yours was best.

Dear Ann Landers: What is wrong with a man who has to use swear words in every sentence? It's "hell" this and "damn" that—every time he opens his mouth it's some kind of obscenity. He can't even ask a friend "How are you?" It has to be, "How in the hell are you!"

Dear Disgusted: Some men use profanity as a substitute for vocabulary. Others do it to impress their peers. Still others are unaware that they are doing it. Tell your husband to clean up his mouth. If he won't do it for you, he should do it for himself.

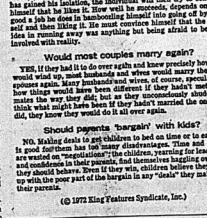
Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds healing of tissues injured, inflamed tissues.



One hemorrhoidectomy specialist reports another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Most were observed in cases of long standing, and quite importantly of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

The secret is combined with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new cells. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection, which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with applicator). Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Mirror of Your Mind by JOHN CONWELL
Does a loner crave isolation?

NO, despite a loner's claims that he wants to be alone. One he has gained his isolation, the individual will try to convince himself that he likes it. How well he succeeds, depends on how good a job he does in bamboozling himself into going off by himself and then liking it. He must convince himself that the main idea in running away was anything but being afraid to become involved with reality.

Would most couples marry again?
YES, if they had it to do over again and knew precisely how they would wind up, most husbands and wives would marry the same spouses again. Interestingly, when they actually speculate on how things would have been different if they hadn't met their mates the way they did, they are more commonly shocked to find out what might have been if they hadn't married the one they did, they know they would do it all over again.

Should parents "bargain" with kids?
NO. Making deals to get children to bed on time or to eat what is good for them has too many disadvantages. Time and energy are wasted on "negotiations" over the children, parents feel frustrated and confused in their parenting, and themselves haggling over how many bites of spinach they must eat before they'll get to go with the other part of the bargain in any "deals" they make with their parents.

New Northwest Fire Station Leads Report Recommendations

The office of the Ontario Fire Marshal says that Belleville is in need of another firehall in the fast developing north end of the city.

The need for a third firehall by 1974 is indicated in a report on a municipal fire protection survey done in Belleville and presented to council yesterday under the name of Fire Marshal M. S. Hurst.

The report recommends that suitable land be set aside this year in the northwest area of the city for the erection of a two-bay fire station to provide accommodation for a triple combination fire truck, an aerial ladder, together with living and training accommodation for firefighters.

The future fire station should be located near Bell Blvd. West, to serve the northwest city area using Bell Blvd., and Sidney Street as the main fire routes.

Also recommended is an increase in the number of firefighting personnel which now includes the chief, deputy chief, a captain, instructor, seven captains, two fire prevention officers, a mechanic and 45 firefighters. The current staff also includes four radio-telephone operators and a female secretary.

Under present department operating conditions, fire personnel on duty average 13 at all times, while the report says proper manning of present first-response apparatus requires 27 firefighters on duty.

Installation of a recording device at the fire hall to record all incoming and outgoing conversations by telephone or radio for alarms of fire and other emergencies, is recommended.

Also recommended is the installation of equipment to control traffic lights in that lights at intersections enroute to a fire can be turned to green in the direction in which fire apparatus is travelling.

There was discussion on the fire marshal's report and it was tabled, pending a report from the city manager.

Mayor D. Russell Scott, commenting on the number of recommendations in the report and the high cost to city taxpayers, said if all were carried out there would be little more in the city than the fire department.

"But some of the recommendations are worthy of consideration," he admitted.

Business Is Picking Up At Taxation Office

With TV slips and filing forms nearly all distributed, calls are coming in at a rate of more than 100 a day with many more people dropping into the Pinnacle - Station Street building for first-hand information. The office has assigned five experts from the assessing department to man counters and another four to handle phone calls.

Staff will increase with demand; expected to reach peak during the first three weeks of March and toward the end of April when the filing deadline draws near.

"The number of inquiries is up 25 per cent over last year," reports department spokesman John Lensen. He notes three main reasons for the increase.

"Most people ask about the change in the old age supplements. Supplementary income is no longer taxable, but it should be included on the income portion of the form and then taken off on the exemption page. In other words, it must be inserted twice on the T1.

"Senior citizens are asking about minimum incomes for tax payment. This year, if taxable income is less than $200 no tax need be paid. That's a change from past years."

Third area of concern deals with newly - introduced tax rates, higher than previous years in the lower income bracket.

Mr. Lensen advises that some families are interchanging filing forms, thereby causing complications at the taxation centre in Ottawa and slowing refunds. Each family member filing a tax return should submit the T1 form he was assigned or be may end up receiving someone else's cheque — and a fat lip.

Corby Layoff Thursday

Corby's Distilleries will lay off approximately 50 men and women Thursday, a move company officials say takes place every year because of seasonal requirements. The casual help does night shift work in the bottling department.

"This layoff is typical of all distilleries," said F. H. Bellstedt, Corby's assistant manager. "We've being doing it for as long as the plant has been here."

He said casual workers, hired each fall to meet "accelerated demands" in the liquor industry, usually work from July to December.

"But this year, due to new packages for 40-ounce bottles and miniatures, we've been particularly busy. As a result, the cutback was delayed three months."

Water on the Waterfront

Bellevillians suddenly can reflect on the change of seasons — in many a roadside pool like this one opposite Wharf Street Debating Club on city's harbor front. Recent mild weather — indicating winter may be losing its grip — is thawing snow and ice deposits along city streets, creating water pockets.

Pollution Prober Presents Evidence to City Council

A half-gallon jug of foul-smelling water passed around for councillors to sniff as evidence at city council yesterday for claims that the Bay of Quinte is polluted.

Belleville resident Clarence Young, who with Armin Krippendorf is heading up a local campaign to bring about a cleanup of the bay, brought the jug of water to council as proof that effluents are being allowed to run into the bay.

Mr. Young's letter, read in council by City Clerk Adam Stalker, said inquiries have established that Union Carbide had no waste treatment facilities until December 1971 when the OWRC apparently ordered the plant to cease discharging wastes.

The letter added that the OWRC is on record with a statement to the effect that this company is still discharging waste into the bay on a smaller scale.

Mr. Young said he was having samples of bay water checked by Joseph Puddister Probe in Toronto and at the OWRC laboratory and when results were known, would make further representations to council.

In the meantime, he asked if city council has had any checks made along the shore to ascertain if any pollution is being caused.

Mr. Young said suspicious flows have been noticed running from other establishments located on the bay shore line, including Belleville General Hospital.

"It seems to me, . . . that there are many known sources of pollution in the city, but for reasons best known to themselves, our civic leaders and members of the industrial and business community choose to ignore them."

With the coming of spring, Mr. Young said it was his intention to seek out and expose every source of pollution and bring it to council.

In answer to a question following the presentation, Mr. Young said the sample of foul smelling water was taken at the Bay of Quinte each of the mornings at the mouth of an outlet running into the bay.

Mr. Young's letter was referred to the city manager for investigation and report back to council.

City Costs Rising In Steady Spiral

The city police budget for 1972 will exceed the million dollar mark but other costs of running the municipality are also continuing their rise spiral.

This was indicated at city council yesterday when the finance - Corby Public Library budget at $64,771, was given first consideration.

The total of this year's operating expenditure for the library is $4,000, over last year's actual costs. The library budget was referred to the council budget committee.

Budget estimates for the various city departments have still to be presented to the city manager but rising wage costs are expected to force increases.

City Engineer are on the last year of a two-year work contract which this year saw the salary of a four-year fireman jump to $9,324 as of Jan. 1, from a wage of $9,461 at the end of 1971. Junior Students to Distribute 30,000 Tabloid Newspapers

Ratepayers in Quinte counties will have a unique opportunity to gain first-hand information about the work of educational institutions later this week when pupils from county elementary schools will begin deliveries of a 12-page promotional newspaper.

The paper, which is being released to mark Education Week, March 6 - 10, was produced by an editorial committee which included representatives from the Hastings County Board of Education, The Hastings and Prince Edward Roman Catholic School Board, The School for the Deaf, and Loyalist College.

Articles outlining the wide variety of programs being offered at many of the schools served by the boards of education and photos showing some of the newest activities being conducted for pupils in this county are featured in the publication.

Head of the editorial committee, Jean Mersereau, Supervisor of Programs for the separate school board says that 30,000 copies of the tabloid newspaper have been printed for distribution.

"We intend to reach all of the ratepayers in this area, if at all possible," Mr. Mersereau explained, "Perhaps, it will encourage people to participate in many of the activities presented during Education Week."

Distribution of the paper is under the direction of Charles Mowatt, principal of V.P. Carswell Public School in Trenton, who is also chairman of the Education Week Committee.

"Each elementary school in the county will be receiving a supply of papers which they will distribute in an area that has been delegated to them," Mr. Mowatt says.

"We hope to be able in each most of the schools in the counties ist his way," he continued, "Ultimately, though, there may well be some slippage. If a ratepayer has not received his copy by the first of next week, he should phone the elementary school in his area to ask for it."

Mr. Mowatt said that the delivery method was chosen because mailing of the paper would have cost at least three cents a copy which would have been too costly for the boards.

L. S. Reid, Superintendent of Schools for the Hastings board of education said that this is the second year in which all the educational systems and institutions in this area have co-operated for education week.

"Each of the groups co-operates on a "per diem" basis," Mr. Reid pointed out. "Obviously, the largest contributor toward the expenses of Education Week has been our own board.

"We have contributed around $1,200 while the separate school board and the other two institutions have contributed smaller amounts."

Mr. Reid commented that only elementary students had been chosen for the distribution process since, in his opinion, they were more likely to carry the papers home with them.

"I guess high school students have become more cynical about education in general," he maintained. "Experience has taught us that high school students are less likely to co-operate on such a venture."

The paper, itself, was designed and prepared by the journalism department at Loyalist College after some initial editing by the publication committee.

Public relations director at the college, Ernst Kreisel, says that a large part of the photographic work was handled by the department which is under the direction of Robert Garrison.

Committee chairman Claude Mersereau hopes that this publication will become a yearly feature of Education Week.

"The entire project will be reviewed by the committee shortly after Education Week in an effort to sort out details of preparation and distribution," he concluded. "By that time we should have had sufficient public comment to properly assess the reaction to our effort."

Fair Board Proposals Opposed by Alderman

Proposals of the Belleville fair board to construct a lounge addition to the fairgrounds grandstand and hopefully erect a new two-storey livestock display building, were questioned at yesterday's regular meeting of city council.

Raising the question was Alderman Ben Corke who said that instead of planning new construction at the fairgrounds the property should be sold and the exhibition relocated on the city.

The alderman said the fairgrounds were not being used to their full potential and suggested the property could be sold for much more than its present worth as an exhibition park for housing or industrial use.

But Alderman Paul Russell, as chairman of the city parks board, disagreed.

He admitted the fairgrounds were not being used to their potential, but strongly disagreed with the idea that they should be sold for either housing or industrial development.

The area must be maintained as a city park, he said.

He added that although the city had a moral responsibility to the fairboard which helped establish the exhibition, it would benefit the city.

It noted that the exhibition property was traded to the city for old fairgrounds property when Bridge Street the site now occupied by American Legion.

Last week representatives of the fair board met with the city parks board to outline their proposal for construction of a lounge the addition of a proposed 150 feet and the erection of a full roof over the existing area.

The proposal of council and parks board would be necessary to allow the improvements, as the property is owned by the parks board.

Alderman Russell said the parks board had made no decision on the request but it directed its director to meet with exhibition officials to full details of their proposa

Phone Service Interrupted

TRENTON (Staff) — Parts of the east side of Trenton were without telephone service for as much as seven hours last night because of a breakdown along one of the main Bell cables in the town.

Bell officials report that repair crews stayed on the job after 2 a.m. yesterday to carry out the required servicing of the line — a process that ended with full restoration of phone service at about 3 a.m. today.

The company stated it received about 40 reports of disruptions from customers the area but otherwise no data on the actual cause of difficulties faced by public repair crews working to bring Trenton Bell operation back to normal.

Rink Ventilation Cost $2,500

The city recreation arena committee will proceed with the installation of winter ventilation for the ice area at the Dick Ellis Rink with the hope that it will also provide a benefit for summer rink programs.

Yesterday, city council accepted a committee recommendation for installation of one exhaust fan and two air inlet louvres at an estimated cost of $2,500.

Installation of winter ventilation at the local rink was the board's council for approval two weeks ago but the board asked for a consulting engineers to bring in a report on the cost of year-round ventilation.

At yesterday's council meeting the report was that summering ventilation for the ice area would require an additional exhaust fan and three inlet louvres, costing $4,000.

Air conditioning of the mezzanine area and change rooms, would cost another $14,000.

But recreation-arena committee members felt that they should proceed only with winter ventilation of the ice area.

The information on air conditioning of the mezzanine area and change rooms will be forwarded to the city council budget committee.

Alderman Ben Corke felt it was false economy to go against the advice of the consulting engineer to save $1,500.

But Alderman Jean Smith pointed out that a second fan and third louvre could be installed later to provide more summer ventilation if it was felt this was needed.

Alderman Robin Jeffrey, chairman of the recreation committee, said it was not felt air conditioning was required for the mezzanine and "accordingly no recommendations were made."

It's a funny item," she said.

Kingston Olympic Bid Falters

TORONTO (CP) — A group of Toronto sailors, feeling that a Kingston bid to play host to the 1976 Summer Olympic Games sailing events is losing favor, have launched a bid of their own to bring the program to Toronto.

Roger Wilson, former secretary of the Canadian Sailing Association and head of the Toronto Olympic Sailing effort, made the initial approach last fall to Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal, centre of the 21st Summer Games.

He said the action was prompted by two developments apparent to some members of the Canadian Yachting Association's organizing committee for the Olympics:

—Ongoing chances, almost certain six months ago, have dwindled considerably because of financing and political considerations;

—A presentation to hold the sailing has been made by Alma, Que., a community on the Saguenay River leading into Lac St. Jean, 200 miles northeast of Montreal.

Wilson and his supporters, all initially staunch supporters of the Kingston site, feel the choice should not fall to Alma by default and that Toronto has a better chance of financing the races.

The cost for Kingston, a figure revised after a $28,000 study, was put at $15 million, an expense the city apparently cannot justify. Provincial government officials are thinking in terms of token aid.

The provincial government rates the Kingston waterfront—particularly sailing facilities—low on priority for $15 million.

The money is more likely to be spent on a bridge to Wolfe Island near Kingston, a CYA official said Monday.

"Our attitude is that if the site choice is up for grabs then Toronto wants a chance," said Wilson. "There are only three or four places in Canada that are suitable for an Olympic contest.

Kingston Mayor E. V. Swain said Monday night he had heard nothing of Kingston's chances as the Olympic sailing site diminishing, either for political or financial reasons.

"My understanding is that there is absolutely no question that Kingston will be the site," Mayor Swain said Premier William Davis had assured the city there would be public support for the Kingston Olympic effort.

"That was in October last year, before the election," he added.

Wilson said the designated site must be prepared to provide facilities by July, 1975.

Boxing Board Quits

WINNIPEG (CP) — The three-man Manitoba Boxing and Wrestling Commission resigned Monday, saying its "hands" the suspensions of most of the participants in last week's controversial fight card here.

The commission sent its resignation to Recreation Minister Larry Desjardins, who last week ordered a full judicial inquiry into the four-fight card that resulted in the death of light-heavyweight boxer Stewart Gray of Toronto and claims by another fighter that he took a dive in his bout against Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo of Toronto.

Chuvalo, his manager Irving Ungerman and trainer Ted McWhinnie were among those suspended indefinitely by the commission.

Deep in Thought

Quebec Foursome Trips Title Defenders

SASKATOON (CP) — Audrey Williamson of Manitoba looked forward to an "interesting challenge" today in a third-round game against Lee Tobin of Quebec in the Canadian women's curling championship.

But the skip of the only undefeated western rink is still concerned about defending champion Vera Pezer of Saskatchewan, who lost 9-7 on an extra end to Quebec in an early upset Monday of the round-robin tournament.

"I don't know anything about Quebec and don't know what strategy the rink will use," said Mrs. Williamson, a member of the Brandon Curling Club.

"The big threat is still Saskatchewan and skip Vera Pezer. I played against her and she's hard to beat."

The Manitoba foursome, which includes third Mabel Mitchell, second Flo Yeo and lead Dru Dickens, defeated Helen Sillman of Ontario 13-8 and Helen Rowe of Nova Scotia 11-3 in the first day's action of the 10-rink competition.

Mrs. Williamson shares the lead with Mrs. Tobin of Montreal, highly-rated Marie Toole of Prince Edward Island and Sue Ann Bartlett of Newfoundland. The rinks have 3-0 records while Saskatchewan and Polly Beeton of Alberta are 1-1.

Sheila McLeod of New Brunswick, Sharon Bettesworth of British Columbia, Mrs. Sillman and Mrs. Rowe are winless.

The fourth round is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. CST. There are no byes in the annual championship, won by Saskatchewan the last three years.

Mrs. Tobin pulled the biggest upset Monday with a brilliant display on the final two ends for her triumph over Miss Pezer, who took the title last year.

Quebec could do nothing right early in the game, and trailed 6-1 after three ends. But Mrs. Tobin started a rally on the fourth end with three points, stole one on the sixth and counted two on each of the 10th and 11th ends.

Ratelle Can't Seem to Win

Statistics released today show that, despite a 12-consecutive game point streak, during which he scored 18 goals and 13 assists, Ratelle trails centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins by one point—109 to 108.

During Ratelle's 12-game point streak was a stretch of eight straight games in which he scored 13 goals—the longest such streak by any player this season. It boosted his goal total to 46, second best in the NHL.

Neither Esposito nor Ratelle will have the opportunity to resume their personal scoring battle tonight. Detroit Red Wings entertain Vancouver Canucks in the lone game scheduled.

Ratelle's 109 points total breaks the New York club record by 21. He is also a member of the second-highest scoring line—both in goals and points—in NHL history.

Along with Rod Gilbert's 91 points and Vic Hadfield's 89, the New York line has combined for 289 scoring points, only 46 fewer than the record 336 collected by Esposito, Ken Hodge and Wayne Cashman with the Bruins last season. That total included 140 goals.

If the New York trio continues its current pace over the Rangers' remaining 16 regular season games, they would finish with 158 goals and 365 points.

While Esposito and Ratelle have stood in the scoring limelight most of the season, a West Division centre has been quietly forging his way into the thick of the battle.

Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers has been, since the halfway point of the season, the West Division's hottest pointgetter with 15 goals and 25 points over 23 games.

Clarke, a 23-year-old native of Flin Flon, Man., now is tied for 11th place in the overall scoring race, and for second place with Stan Mikita and Pit Martin of Chicago Black Hawks among West Division players.

Clarke holds the Philadelphia club record for most goals scored in a season—37—and most points—63—both achieved last season.

The Chicago goaltending combination of Tony Esposito, Gary Smith and Gerry Desjardins continues to lead the Vezina Trophy race with a combined goals-against average of 2.67.

The Hawks lead all NHL shooters in the league, while Esposito's individual mark of eight also tops.

Parent Surprises Ballard

TORONTO (CP) — "I was surprised. I didn't think he would go," was the somewhat disappointed reflection Monday of Harold Ballard, president of Toronto Maple Leafs, in the news that goaltender Bernie Parent had kept an appointment Sunday with Miami Screaming Eagles of the World Hockey Association.

Parent, 26 considered one of the better young goaltenders in the National Hockey League, had been rumored for several weeks to being wooed by the WHA club for next season.

Encouraging the former Philadelphia Flyers' ace was a promised pact of $750,000 over five years, regardless of whether the new team or league got off the ground, and an assortment of other benefits such as a house, car and swimming pool.

Parent made the trip to Miami Sunday, a day off for the Leafs, appeared at a news conference but didn't sign anything and returned in time for a Toronto practice Monday morning.

"I haven't got $750,000," Ballard replied when asked if the Leafs would make some effort to match the Miami offer.

Howard Casper, the Philadelphia lawyer who handled Parent's negotiations with the Screaming Eagles, mentioned several times in recent days Toronto had made no attempt to contact him.

Parent, who confirmed the rumors of his impending move to Miami last Wednesday, went out the same night and blanked Pittsburgh Penguins 2-0.

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Ed Chadwick, a former goalie with Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, was named Monday as chief scout of New York Islanders by Bill Torrey, the expansion team's general manager.

Chadwick, 38, of Fergus, Ont., has been a scout for California Golden Seals of the NHL for the last three seasons.

He was Toronto's regular goalie for three seasons in the mid-1950s, and played briefly for the Bruins in 1966-67. He was a scout for Pittsburgh Penguins in 1968-69, then joined California.

The Islanders and an Atlanta entry join the 14-team NHL lineup in the 1972-73 season.

OAKLAND (AP) — Munson Campbell, vice-president of Calif. Bernie Golden Seals, has resigned from his position with the National Hockey League club.

But a report that Garry Young, general manager of the team, would resign at the end of the season was denied Monday by Young.

"I'm not quitting," Young said. "My main concern now is getting the team into the playoffs."

Seals owner Charles O. Finley said he had no indication that Young would quit, and he added: "I'm very pleased with the job Garry Young is doing."

The Seals were last in the NHL West last season but now are fourth.

Espo Thriving On Expansion

by

PHIL ESPOSITO

SITTING PRETTY on his 138-deep pile of points, Phil Esposito is living proof of the infertility of expansion hockey.

Not that the big Bruin doesn't deserve his title as hockey's greatest point-producer. One look at his display shows Esposito "has" been steadily increasing his production since his days of dueling in Chicago Black Hawk shadows.

The long (not Long) Sault native had 33 goals and 65 points, 77 and 84, and 21 and 44 in his first full three seasons with the Hawks before he set up a hefty 39 goals and 41 assists for 80 points.

That's an average of 14 points per game, or a point-scoring average 66 per cent greater than against the so-called "established" franchises.

SOME ABGUE that the slapshot and other factors have made hockey a more offensive - oriented game in general. But of the six pre-1967 NHL clubs, Detroit's defensive record is the worst, with a respectable 301 goals against in 63 games.

Meanwhile only two post-67 clubs — Philadelphia (133 goals against) and Minnesota (130) — have given up fewer goals than the Red Wings this season.

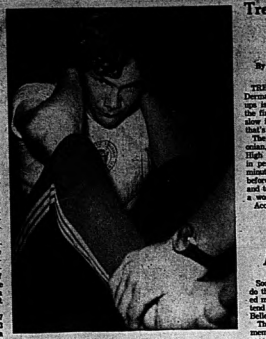
All of which spells trouble for Long Island and Atlanta newcomers next fall. Unless, of course, all the Esposito's have learned about the World Hockey Association!

* * *

SPEAKING of which, here are some more reasons why the WHA will get alkerted:

Among the many crowdpleasing attractions being considered by the maverick league's backers is regular-schedule overtime. "How many times do people pay $7 at the door only to see a game end in a tie?" Dennis Murphy, San Diego sked stated at the WHA's first player "draft".

A number of European players were among the 1,800-plus drafted by the 12 founding WHA franchises, including nine by Calgary alone.



There are ways of getting those Russians out to play in the WHA, a confident league spokesman predicted.

That was two weeks ago. Is it mere coincidence that just last week NHL president Clarence Campbell and International Ice Hockey Federation Kaiser Bunny Ahearne met to discuss the possibility of exhibition games between NHL and European teams?

And financially, WHA teams have a much better chance of picking up good talent and surviving than newcomers to the NHL did. That's the bad, they gave the $6,000,000 expansion fee!

* * *

IN BRIEF: Jim "Obie" O'Brien, Oakville Oaks' centre who was named in the WHA draft, and teammate Ken Knapiss may be playing their senior hockey in this end of steady drop once next winter; they have informed Belleville Quinte Ldssel Beefy that they will both be transferred by jobs this spring. O'Brien to Kingston and Knapiss to Peterborough . . . . George Ferguson, Preston gift to Toronto Marlboros, has been running in the top 20 Junior A scoring with 36 goals and some 70 points in 52 games . . . Brother Al, who scored 33 goals in 36 regular-season and one sudden-death playoff game for Belleville's senior Quintes, would be a likely candidate for the team's MVP award — if it's given this year . . . Ironically, Montreal Expos' Rusty Staub, one of three contract holdouts at the club's West Palm Beach spring training camp, lists "coin collecting" among his hobbies.

High Achiever

Performing 1,000 situps in less than 41 minutes may have won this 19 - year - old Trenton High School student world renown. On a challenge from friends, Charles McDermaid may have excelled any similar feat in recorded history and to verify it has contacted the Guinness Book of Records.

Statistics Don't Tell Junior Tale

While both Jeff Howard and Peter Ackerman are carrying impressive statistics for the Belleville Bobcats in their Eastern Ontario Junior B semi-final series with Oshawa perhaps their most important contributors are the things that don't show up in black and white.

Howard, the leading Belleville scorer in the series with five goals and four assists, has been a regular on power plays shifted to centre when the occasion calls and provided the kind of backchecking that makes a defenceman's job a lot easier since joining the Bobcats this season.

Ackerman leads the team in playoff assists with five, but it's in his own end of the rink that the second-year yearguard really shines. As attributed by his team-leading 12 minutes in penalties, the compact defenceman plays a rugged game looking after the bulk of the Belleville milling.

Of Ackerman, coach Moe Hunter claims that "Game in and game out I'd have to say that he's been our best performer — barring nobody," while at the same time he notes that, "Howard has been a definite asset this year He is a two-way player and he seems to have the knack of coming up with important goals."

The Bobcats are going to need top performances out of both players Thursday night if they hope to make the league finals against Peterborough. Oshawa's 6-3 overtime win Sunday evened the series at three games each with the Crushmen holding home ice advantage for the seventh match.

A special bus for spectators will be available for Thursday's game. It will leave from the Belleville Memorial Arena at 6 p.m. with return fare costing $2.50. The cost includes bus fare only.

Interested spectators are asked to call Frank Mobrhill (962-8467) or Jim Matthews (962-1368) for reservations.

The Blake Kerr Imperial midgets will meet Ajax Thursday night in the fifth and deciding game of their OMHA quarter-final series.

The Belleville midgets scored a 4-3 comeback win Sunday to even the series at two games each and force the deciding game in Ajax. The Bobcats are hoping to reverse a trend which has seen each team win the games on their home ice. Game time will be 9 p.m.

First 210 Situps Hardest

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Charles McDermaid says that 1,000 situps is easy: "You do 210 in the first four minutes, then slow into a steady pace that's all there is to it!"

The 19 - year - old Brighton, a student at Trenton High School, has found that by performing the feat in 40 minutes, 25 seconds last week before an audience of friends and teachers he may have set a world record.

According to the 1970 Guinness' Book of World Records, man's best - ever accomplishment in the field is 961 situps in one hour but, says Charlie, "the 1971 Guinness doesn't list situps — maybe they think it's silly as they dropped it."

In a quandry about the acceptability of his record, the grade 13 student has written to the Guinness people in Britain to clarify his status and perhaps pick up a small stipend for the achievement. "I think they pay a few dollars for verified records," he says.

Charlie misses no words about his motivation-for-tackling the situp record. With a few side bets on his kid for the world title he says "I just had to make it."

Prompted by a challenge from friends, he says he took the whole thing with high seriousness, launching into a preparation program directed by classmate - trainer Tony Dempsey.

"A few days before the world-challenging situp session, he had done 872 in 26 minutes. In his earlier high school days in Oshawa, he had done 414 situps and to one minute flat had pushed out 77.

Rovers Regroup

Soccer players who want to do their roving in an organized manner are asked to attend a prep meeting of the Belleville Rovers.

The team, comprised of members of the Bay of Quinte soccer league boasted an outstanding record last year in exhibition encounters with teams from other districts.

Tonight's meeting is being called to elect a board of directors and to discuss means of financing the operation. It will be held in Room 117 of Queen Elizabeth School beginning at 7.30 p.m.

Wilson Tykes Cement Win

Hounslow and Taylor rapped in two goals apiece for the Belleville athletes, while Mountney and Channell scored the Wellington goals.

Esso Peewees Play for Keeps

It came out in Monday's Intelligencer as an "exhibition game', but the Esso Car Wash Peewee B all-stars' 6-4 Sunday win over Whitby was more important than that.

The peewees, who lost the best-of-three Ontario Minor Hockey Association series opener 4-3 in overtime, stayed off elimination Sunday and won the toss for the deciding game, to be played at the Memorial Arena Sunday at 1.30.

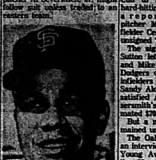
Bavasi Not Phased By Homesick Catcher

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS



Buzzie Bavasi, general manager of the Padres, isn't about to jump off the roof of San Diego Stadium over Mike Ivie's attack of homesickness.

"I went through Sandy Koufax, Frank Robinson, Willie Mays, general manager of the Dodgers, Gene Mauch and Leo Durocher," said Bavasi after the 19-year-old catching prodigy left camp to return home from the team's Yuma, Ariz., training facility after becoming depressed and homesick.

"I should be concerned about that I guess, but I'm not," said Bavasi, seven of whose teams conceded a shot at remaining with the National League West cellar-dwellers after batting .621 in a six-game stint with the Padres.

It was a bad day all around for the Padres, who lived up to their last-place status by losing baseball players as fast as other men were gaining them.

While Juan Marichal signed with San Francisco Giants, Billy Williams with Chicago Cubs, Norm Cash with Detroit Tigers, Al Downing and Don Sutton with Los Angeles Dodgers, Andy Messersmith with California Angels and Deron Johnson with Philadelphia Phillies, the Padres were notified that infielder Tommy Dean, 28, was being sold and workhorse relief pitcher Al Severinsen, 27, might be traded to another team in exchanges for

JUAN MARICHAL

Severinsen lives in Baldwin, N.Y.

Marichal, an 18-game winner in 1971, agreed to a two-year contract with the Giants for an estimated $140,000 a year. Second baseman Tito Fuentes also agreed to terms.

Williams, the Cubs' slugging outfielder, signed for an estimated $115,000. He was the Cubs' top signee. Cash, Detroit's hard-hitting first baseman, got a reported $70,000, leaving pitcher Mickey Lolich and infielder Cesar Gutierrez the only unsigned Tigers.

The signing of Downing and Sutton left pitchers Jose Pena and Mike Strahler as the only Dodgers outside the fold while infielders Ken McMullen and Randy Alomar are the only unsatisfied Angels following Messersmith's signing for an estimated $70,000.

Only a handful of players remained unsigned.

The Oakland Tribune printed an interview with Vida Blue, Cy Young Award winner, quoting the 22-year-old left-hander as saying that "if I have a good year but not a great year, I will be criticized" for holding out.

The Athletics have offered $50,000 while Blue, still at home in Mansfield, La., is demanding $52,500, a raise of $19,000.

Morton, who slipped to a 10-18 record in 1971 after an 18-11 mark which earned him rookie-of-the-year honors the previous season, is in camp but unsigned. He has met at least twice with general manager Jim Fanning during the last five days.

Another unsigned Expo, outfielder Rusty Staub, is in Houston and reportedly seeking a three-year contract. Fanning said that, though Staub played under a two-year contract in 1970-71, the Expos were basically opposed to multi-year deals.

Robinson Won't Force Issue

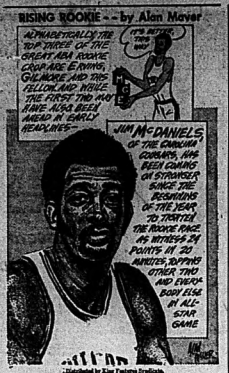
VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Frank Robinson said Monday he has put aside his managerial ambitions because "the public and the people in baseball might start to think Frank Robinson was trying to force himself into a job."

Robinson, long rumored as the leading contender to become the first black manager in the major leagues, discussed the subject as he worked out with his new Los Angeles Dodgers team-mates.

"I got tired of hearing my name rumored every time a managerial job opened up," said Robinson, "and I got tired of everyone always asking. Would you like to manage this club? Would you like to manage that club?

Dizzy Trout Dead

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball lost a great heart and a great pitcher Monday with the death of Dizzy (Dizzy) Trout, colorful right-hander pitching star for Detroit Tigers in the Second World War era.



Trout, 56, a hulking man with a booming voice who was a 27-game winner in 1944 and led the Tigers to the 1945 American League pennant, died of cancer in a hospital.

In 1945, Trout hurled six of his 33 career games in nine days, Sept. 8-16, winning four to pace the title drive.

The father of 10 children, Trout served as Chicago White Sox goodwill ambassador from 1959 when he was hired by Bill Veeck, then Sox owner, to form an unbeatable after-dinner battery with Veeck.

In a major league career from 1939 through 1952, Trout posted a won-loss record of 170-161 with an earned-run average of 3.23.

Canadian Skier Had Course to Herself

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (CP-AP) — Athletes from the United States and Europe continued to dominate the World Student Games here Monday, but the spotlight shifted to a 19-year-old Canadian who stunned the skiing slopes by winning the women's downhill.

Liza Richardson, a third-year arts major at the University of British Columbia, thundered down the 1,69-mile course with a vertical drop of 2,310 feet in two minutes 1.84 seconds.

Her time bettered by 3-100 ths of a second that of the favorite, Caroline Rebattu of France who had been all but conceded the downhill gold medal since it was almost unheard of for the final racer on the course to come in a winner.

Miss Richardson was preceded down the slopes by three Canadian team-mates but one Canada had no Federation International de Sport Universitaire points from which to take them.

The Halifax-born daughter of J. E. Richardson, chairman, president and chief executive of British Columbia Telephone, was so tired when she hit the finish line she continued right through the snow fence, unable to stop.

Eric Stahl of France won the men's downhill followed by team-mate Jean-Pierre Pubied and Bill Farrell of the United States.

In the lone hockey game played Monday, the Soviet Union thrilled the United States 9-0, Sergei Kapoustin and Viacheslav Anisin leading the way with two goals each.

The Russians, who drubbed Canada 8-3 in the opening game of the round-robin tournament, face the Canadians again tonight.

Canadian Artists Honored

TORONTO (CP) — The 1971 Juno Awards for the best in the Canadian music industry were presented Monday night at a gala setting that emphasized the growing appreciation of the music and musicians of this country.

More than 1,500 persons attended the presentation ceremonies at the Inn on the Park in suburban Don Mills, with performers, record companies, radio stations and journalists sharing the honors.

Last year was the first time the awards were tagged Junos, a phonetic tribute to Pierre Juneau, chairman of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission.

Performers on hand to receive their awards in person were Anne Murray (female vocalist of the year); Ginette Reno (outstanding female performer of the year); Joey Gregorash (outstanding male performer of the year); the Stampeders (vocal instrumental group of the year); Lighthouse (outstanding group performers of the year); Myrna Lorrie (female country singer of the year); and the Mercy Brothers (country group of the year).

Also attending the ceremonies was American country singer George Hamilton IV, who received a special award honoring his contribution to the Canadian music scene. He records in Canada and his last album consisted of entirely Canadian material.

Performers not present to receive their awards included Gordon Lightfoot (male vocalist of the year) Bruce Cockburn (folk singer of the year); and Stompin' Tom Connors (male country singer of the year).

Showbiz Shorts

LONDON (Reuter) — The Beach Boys, pop group said Tuesday it will change its musical style and white American image by taking on two non-white South African players.

The California-based group, whose hits include Good Vibrations and Sloop John B, told a press conference that it previously represented "all that is white and middle class." Its six-man lineup has been unchanged for the last seven years.

Now, Ricky Fataar, a 19-year-old South African Asian, will become the group's drummer and Blondie Chaplin, 20, a colored (mixed blood) player from Cape Province, will handle the bass and guitar.

Both were born in Durban, South Africa, and previously played with a South African group called The Flame.

Rick Dodson of the Stampeders received the award for composer of the year for his Sweet City Woman, which also was voted the best produced single of the year, winning an award for producer Mel Shaw.

The band's best produced album was Anne Murray's Talk It Over In The Morning, with Brian Ahearn producing.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Ashley and actor George Peppard have divorced after six years of marriage, saying their differences are "absolutely unreconcilable."

Their romance made news in 1965 when Miss Ashley, the toast of Broadway in Barefoot in the Park, paid $30,000 to buy out of the show and follow Peppard to Hollywood.

The divorce settlement, approved Monday in Los Angeles Superior Court, gives Miss Ashley $1,000 a month alimony and orders her to vacate Peppard's house by June 30, when her alimony will go to $1,500. Additionally, Peppard, 43, is to pay $350 to $500 child support for their son, Christian, 4. Miss Ashley received custody; Peppard got normal visitation rights.

Turn in Pusher Backers Have Second Thoughts

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Some early supporters of a program that pays up to $300 reward to persons who tell police about known drug pushers have withdrawn their support, one saying this type of spying for pay ... started in Nazi Germany.

"I wish you had not given my name to it," Rev. George Goth of Metropolitan United Church, said Monday in a letter.

He, along with former Ontario premier John Robarts, Most Rev. G. Emmett Carter, Roman Catholic Bishop of London, and about 100 others mentioned, 200 citizens earlier endorsed a program started from Tampa, Fla., that would have citizens tell police about drug pushers they know.

The information would be telephoned to police on a special line and if the pusher was arrested and successfully prosecuted, the person who would remain anonymous, would collect up to $300 reward for his information.

However, at least three who earlier signed the program now have publicly withdrawn their support.

Acting Mayor Jane Bigelow and Robert Stikeman, president of the London Association of Western Ontario student council, along with Goth, who withdrew their support last weekend because they believe "valid criticism" of the program "will end as a Pusher (TIP) has been raised."

"This type of spying for pay did not originate in Florida," Dr. Goth said of the Tampa program. "It started in Nazi Germany."

Dr. Marie Fawcett of the London board of education's drug committee told students at Fanshawe College Monday the week-end that talks with Tampa officials indicated the drug problem there has worsened since the TIP program started, "either because of it or in spite of it."

Most of the telephoned tips came from parents, boy friends and girl friends, he said of the Tampa program. Pushers were on the bottom of the list of tipsters, adding that not one major drug bust has been made using some pedlars of marijuana and mescaline who already were known to police.

Backers of TIP, begun five years ago, hope to rid London of drug pushers, especially those dealing in hard drugs. They believe that "who would" informants would end the growing daily.

Supporters of TIP insist it will alienate young drug users from established anti-drug agencies by creating "an atmosphere of suspicion. They also say there is no evidence TIP will reduce the number of pushers.

A $5,000 fund has been raised to pay for the publicity and other operating costs of TIP. None of the money has been spent.

Police spokesmen say they will not be expanded as successful as they "would like" to be, but "I'm afraid TIP may add to the fear and suspicion of the young drug-user."

In a joint news release, Mrs. Bigelow and Mr. Stikeman said citizens should not have to be "bribed" to report incidents of drug pushing. They said that the under law "such persons might be regarded as accessories to the commission of the crime if they do not report it."

"We hope the community would ask, as we now ask ourselves, whether the benefits of the program are sufficient to outweigh any social costs to our community," they said. "If the TIP program is not going to completely eradicate the problem of drug abuse treatment can then TIP should be quickly reassessed."

'Mixed Bag' Crowd Hears David Lewis and Levesque

The two were among speakers attending a union rally in Montreal Forum commemorating the Quebec Federation of Labor.

"It seems to me there was a mixture of confusion in the crowd," Mr. Lewis said in an interview with his speech.

"There were some people concerned about unemployment, many thinking about political action on the federal level, others thinking the Parti Quebecois and some supporting other political solutions.

"I don't think you can build a valid political movement out of that kind of mish-mash."

Mr. Levesque described the QFL rally Monday as "more than 8,000 people, as "a happening."

"It does confirm, however, that there is something here drawing all sorts of different people together. It is very early to look but there seems to be some sort of mainstream feeling towards social democracy."

In his speech, Mr. Lewis said the Trudeau regime is "dedicated to the wasted for the working man and all Canadians, and blamed the Trudeau government for increasing mass unemployment.

"The present system is unacceptable, cruel and inexcusable in a country as rich as ours," the NDP leader said. "A government which does not support the working man has no longer any right to govern.

"As long as the threat of unemployment is over their heads, as long as governments make themselves the servants of big business, workers will have to organize themselves to show their discontent."

The rally broke into yells and boos as Mr. Lewis referred to Prime Minister Stanfield, in his mid-30s and a member of the Conservative party, as the Confederation of National Trade Unions, said the Parti Quebecois would not replace the capitalist system.

"It will replace Anglo-Saxon capitalists with French-Canadian capitalists," he said over shouts from the crowd.

Mr. Levesque called for calm, saying the Stephane Grenier affair at the platform and asked that pushers to police have been distributed throughout schools. Similar literature is planned in newspaper advertisements.

Seven children of TIP cases last year, from the Charbonneau, district director of the Addiction Research Foundation, who said he was surprised that TIP would publ the drug problem.

He said the foundation and other agencies have long been lobbying for a program with limited credibility among drug users, so they will come for help, but "I'm afraid TIP may add to the fear and suspicion of the young drug-user."

In a joint news release, Mrs. Bigelow and Mr. Stikeman said citizens should not have to be "bribed" to report incidents of drug pushing. They said that the under law "such persons might be regarded as accessories to the commission of the crime if they do not report it."

"We hope the community would ask, as we now ask ourselves, whether the benefits of the program are sufficient to outweigh any social costs to our community," they said. "If the TIP program is not going to completely eradicate the problem of drug abuse treatment can then TIP should be quickly reassessed."

Since TIP began here, calls have been received—6 Thursday, 10 Friday and 7 Monday. Police refuse to say if TIP has led to any arrests in this month's 200,000 population surrounded by lush farmland.

Lord Thomson Sees Big Charter Market

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lord Thomson of Fleet said Monday the time is approaching when air-charter market in Europe will be as big as the total market of scheduled airlines because of demand for low-cost travel.

He told the Vancouver Board of Trade that a re-appraisal of certain basic features of air travel is "long overdue."

The governments of the United Kingdom, Canada and the United States are now making possible changes in charter regulations, he said, and these should be designed to facilitate low-cost travel by people who want to do so and not to protect the necessary scheduled carriers.

Restrictions have occurred in the past and stranded air travellers, he said. Some scheduled and charter — non-scheduled — airlines are becoming obsolete, he said. Some scheduled airlines have problems with their fleets, while "many so-called non-scheduled airlines appear to depart and arrive on a regular basis on fixed routes."

Safety, comfort and speed did not diminish between scheduled and non-scheduled airlines, he said. Another development is the increasing use in the passenger fare, a trend that is emerging in the 1970s.

Lord Thomson cautioned against low-cost travel—is a direct cost of the aircraft which is distinguishable only by its low-level fare structure.

Lord Thomson said the speed with which radio and television can transmit news around the world leaves less room for competition from newspapers and magazines. He said the services which have coincided with events of world importance and violence have given rise to an ever-increasing demand for something to fill in the background, give the whole picture and provide wide reporting in depth.

He said it is no coincidence that newspaper circulations rose despite strong competition from television and radio in the last few years.

Man Made Infant Son Retarded

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Ralph Raymond Perkins, 46, of Lindsay was sentenced to five years imprisonment Monday when he pleaded guilty in provincial court to wounding his eight month-old son.

Assistant Crown Attorney Howard Morton told Perkins' son, Ralph Jr. was flown to hospital in Toronto from Lindsay Nov. 4 with severe head injuries and fractures to both arms and legs.

He said that because of the severity of the injuries the boy is grossly retarded and probably would never see again.

Mr. Morton told Perkins' recommended that Fortune serve his sentence in Kingston Penitentiary at Prentanguishene, Ont.

Fortune had been charged with criminal negligence causing bodily harm, wounding and assault causing bodily harm.

Perkins, who has had a history of life. The charges of criminal negligence and failing to provide the necessities of life were withdrawn.

Garbage Builds Ski Hill

TORONTO (CP) — W. L. Bradley, who spends part of his time making a garbage heap into a ski hill, plans to spend the next year making Ontario's professional engineers pollution-conscious.

Mr. Bradley, city engineer for Kitchener, Ont., initially thought that turning residential refuse into recreational land could be a long-term project.

"In Kitchener, we figured it would take seven years to build a ski hill from land fill. It now looks like it will take only three."

As the new president of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, Mr. Bradley will be making up for lost time in informing engineers about their environmental responsibilities.

"In the forthcoming year," he says, "we will have to sort some of these people out."

Two years ago, his group, the licensing organ and trade association for Ontario engineers, amended its code of ethics to include responsibility for meeting all lawful standards for environmental control in all engineer work.

Failure to meet those standards could result in disciplinary action, the amendment also provided for association support to any engineer who is prevented from meeting set standards by his employer.

Despite the provision, no disciplinary actions have been initiated since it was passed.

Bachelors Entertain

MIAMI (AP) — Fate will be tempted tonight when 35 wealthy bachelors entertain several professional beauties aboard a floating palace featuring a Roman bath full of champagne.

It's a gala Year Ark.

"No local talent allowed," says advertising executive Lee Rosen. "We want to entertain women who come from foreign countries and would normally be at loose ends when they're in Miami. We find it's extremely satisfying for us."

"Us," includes Rose and fellow members of Bachelors International. Membership demands a minimum annual salary of $25,000 and single marital status. Fringe benefits are unlimited.

The setting for the extravaganza will be Dr. Sydney Sacks' posh houseboat.

Sacks personalized the Greek definition of a man of pleasure — Hedonist — and christened his floating palace Sybarite. Its ornaments, besides a sunken marble bath, include a Swiss shower with 18 heads and a whirlpool bath.

'Interest Revived In 'North Water'

OTTAWA (CP) — The oil strike on Ellesmere Island in the Canadian Arctic archipelago has renewed interest in the "North Water," a largely ice-free zone in Smith Sound, between Ellesmere and Greenland.

Last report Moira Dunbar of the Defence Research Board said Monday that it is quite possible huge oil tankers to make use of the ice-free area in Smith Sound between Ellesmere.

Miss Dunbar flew over the region as recently as Feb. 20 and found only broken-and-thin ice in a zone 50 miles wide between Greenland and Ellesmere, Canada's most northern territory.

The Canadian ice breaker Louis St. Laurent made a record journey in 1969 to reach the North Water but turned back, not because of ice but because ice was too low on fuel.

The area was named North Water by the whalers which hunted there for nearly a century beginning about 1818. It was first explored by explorer William Baffin in 1616 and was first known in scientific literature in 1853.

Miss Dunbar says that until recently the lack of actual open water is often fairly open but the ice in the northern parts of Baffin Bay is usually heavy. July in May and June, long before the ice breaks up in August, in the Kane Basin further north.

Several causes for the North Water have been suggested, including a relatively warm current stream. But Miss Dunbar says the reason appears to be constant and brisk south and north-east winds which sweep the ice away.

Trudeau Oath Stirs House

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, goaded by Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield, let out another profanity in the Commons Monday—and this time apparently got it recorded.

During an exchange with Mr. Stanfield over remarks the prime minister had made about plans for a Toronto factory, Dist. Mr. Trudeau said:

"That was your God-damned question."

There was an immediate howl from members and declarations that this time the prime minister's remark be recorded in Hansard.

John Lundrigan (PC—Gander-Twillingate), in making the demand, referred back to the famous "fuddle duddle" controversy last year when the prime minister's appointment, modified privately never found its way into the official record of Commons debates.

The draft version of Monday's Hansard recorded the prime minister's profanity in the House of Commons for the first time.

Mr. Stanfield then told Mr. Trudeau that he had said Jan. 21 that "there are many, many jobs offered which are not being taken."

"Is there any mention of Sudbury in that question?" Mr. Trudeau suggested.

"Sudbury?" Mr. Stanfield replied.

"Well, it was your God-damned question," Mr. Trudeau flared.

Ottawa May Be Contact Point

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp says Ottawa would be a logical place, but perhaps not the most convenient, for continuing contacts between the United States and China.

He told reporters Monday the Canadian government would "certainly have no objection" to such contacts even as the talks for such talks, planned as a follow-up to President Nixon's visit a year ago.

The minister hailed Mr. Nixon's trip as a major step "in breaking down barriers between the two powers."

He suggested New York might be a more convenient place than the Canadian capital. Both the Chinese People's Republic and the U.S. have delegations at UN headquarters there although the two countries do not have official diplomatic relations with one another.

Mr. Sharp apparently was unaware that U.S. President Henry Kissinger, briefing reporters in Shanghai before Mr. Nixon's return to the U.S., in effect ruled out New York as the diplomatic contact point.

A U.S. embassy source said it was early to know whether Ottawa will be the place for developing trade with China.

To Your Good Health

Contact Lenses Affected by Pill

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For a year and a half I wore contact lenses without difficulty. Then I had to stop because my eyes became irritated. The doctor said he could see nothing wrong with my eyes, but his nurse asked me if I was taking birth control pills. A number of their patients had the same difficulty.

My trouble began about two months after I started the pill. The nurse said it had something to do with the fluid that the pill caused.

If so, is there any medication to restore the lost fluid to the eye so I can wear my contacts again?—Mrs. V. H.

The pill can cause fluid retention in the body. It bothers some women, doesn't bother others. But that doesn't mean that you have lost fluid in your eyes.

Furthermore, apparently it is not solely a matter of fluid retention that causes intolerance to your contacts. Exactly what it is, I couldn't say.

However, I would suggest that you'll have to choose between the contacts and the pill—give up one or the other for the time being. As a far-out experiment, you might have your doctor switch you to a different kind of pill, giving you a diuretic (to encourage loss of fluid in the system) and see whether that helps him remember, I offer that just as a guesswork suggestion and do not know whether it will be helpful at all. I don't know of any other medication that would be plausible.

As an alternative suggestion, perhaps you can wear your contacts occasionally, on special occasions such as parties, without distress. There again you'd have to try it on an experimental basis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain what colitis is. What to do; medicine or diet?—J. F.

Strictly speaking, colitis is inflammation of the colon or large bowel, although the term is also applied loosely to other forms of nervous or irritable colon in which infection is not involved.

In general, both medication and diet are necessary, and sometimes other forms of treatment including even surgery in some cases.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read in your column about a woman who had a nipple discharge inverting. I had the same thing for some time, and on your advice went to my doctor.

He immediately sent me to a surgeon and, to make a long story short, four weeks ago I had the breast removed. A biopsy could have gone to the doctor about the nipple packing as it was, because I never had to submit anything.

If only one person in a thousand that read your column is helped by checking something (and thereby saving her life) you must feel very gratified. If not for you I would still be walking around with a cancer. Instead of having it removed in time. "Thank you" is all I can think to say.—Mrs. D. B.

Note to M. H.: There is no question that will "stump Dear Abby" — hardened arteries, although medications do help control the cholesterol count—but that medication alone can do the whole job.

Train Hits Gas Truck

CARP, Ont. (CP) — A 23-year-old father of two died Monday when his tank-truck load of gasoline exploded after a collision with a CPR freight train.

Camille Brideau of Orleans, Ont., apparently skidded about 200 yards Sunday into the Highway 17 level crossing, hitting the third unit of the freight train.

The 8,000 gallons of gasoline in the Imperial Oil Ltd., truck exploded on impact, demolishing the truck and derailing four of the train's cars.

Two of the train crew suffered minor burns when the caboose caught fire.

A railway spokesman said the Ottawa-Barry's Bay, Ont., branch line would be cleared in about 12 hours.

The explosion could be seen 20 miles away in Ottawa and firemen were still pouring water on the charred wreckage of the train three hours after the mishap.

Trudeau's Abortion Statement Protested

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Women's Abortion Law Repeal Coalition said Monday it plans to hand out leaflets outside attending a Liberal fund-raising dinner at which Prime Minister Trudeau will speak Wednesday night.

Gwen Gor, publicity officer for the coalition, said in an interview the demonstration is to protest "a most shocking statement" on abortion Trudeau made in Sault Ste. Marie on Friday.

The prime minister told an audience of 700: "I don't know if your slogan is 'free abortion on demand,' but frankly it is not mine . . . at some point you are killing a life . . . at some point an abortion is killing."

The only other public appearance on the prime minister's agenda for the one-day Toronto visit is a Wednesday morning appearance on an open-line program on radio station CHUM.

Russia to Buy More Wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — A further sale of up to 100 million bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union announced Monday, could take Canada's grain sales to the Red Sea since 1963 past the billion bushel mark.

The latest contracts were for a total of 400 million bushels.

Ottawa said it expects the process of supplying 136 million bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union under a contract signed last year. Deliveries are expected to be completed by June.

Deliveries under the new contract, worth a potential $400 million, will begin in July and continue through 1979, said Jean-Luc Pepin, Otto Lang, minister in charge of the Canadian Wheat Board, in a Commons statement.

The agreement, concluded in Moscow last Friday by officials of the wheat board and of the Soviet purchasing agency Exportkhleb, changes in the commitment on the part of the U.S.S.R. to purchase 136 million bushels of wheat.

The U.S.S.R. took an option to purchase an additional 55 million bushels of wheat and flour. Under the terms of the contract, the Russians will pay cash at the time of shipment.

Shipments will be made from both Pacific and East-Coast Canadian ports, said Mr. Lang. However, the Soviet Union has an option to ship part of the wheat through Churchill, Man., during the 1978 navigation season.

Numbers 1 and 2 Canada Western Red Spring wheat will be delivered in 1978 and 1979, and to be shipped in 1979 will be established later.

Some observers relating the deal to the size of exports of a light snow cover in Western Canada and reports of a Soviet Union giving rise to predictions of a light Soviet crop.

Mr. Lang said the current commitments to the 30-year Canada sales agreement signed to supply China with 137 million bushels under a 1961-agreement, have been completed. This itself is in addition to 107 million bushels Canada sold to China in 1977.

Mr. Lang described the latest sale to the Soviet Union as a "tangible follow-up" to last year's exchange of visits between Prime Minister Trudeau and Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Outside the House, a reporter reminded him that Russia had been reported to be in advance of this exchange to give Canada first shot at any future deals it might have to offer in the world market.

Mr. Lang reported that this commitment had been reaffirmed by M. Kosygin and the reaffirmation was "a useful and important thing to have."

Ontario Legislature Begins Session Today

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government, its majority reduced and its cabinet reorganized, is off on its first major lawmaking session since last fall's election.

With today's speech from the throne, read by Lt.-Gov. W. Ross Macdonald, the second session of the 30th legislature is officially under way.

In his election campaign, Premier William Davis said repeatedly it's time for the time for costly new programs that would take taxes.

With few promises to keep in a time of high unemployment and reduced revenues looming, the new session is not expected to be marked with any major new programs.

The government likely will concern itself with the economy, taxes, reorganization of government, the environment and the Municipal Election Act.

Last year the government waited until the budget speech to provide concrete details of its economic plan and allotment of public funds.

The session is likely to deal with the system of tax credits Ontario is setting up for the 1979 taxation year to relieve the burden of property taxes on low-income families and individuals. The system will replace the basic shelter-exemption benefits for homeowners and tenants regardless of income since 1968

In a short pre-Christmas session after the Oct. 11 general election, in which Mr. Davis's Conservatives lost seats, the government introduced a bill to reduce income tax by three per cent.

The government's plan to limit the powers of coroners and protect the civil rights of witnesses at inquests may also come up this session.

An overhaul of the inquest system was recommended in a report last April by the Ontario Law Reform Commission.

Allan Lawrence, who as Ontario was attorney-general and now is provincial secretary for justice, agreed with the need for reform, and said he was particularly concerned about laws being used as "fishing expeditions" by Crown attorneys to get evidence against individuals for criminal charges.

Much of the government time these days is taken up with reorganizing the various departments and ministers who make up the 17 ministries, many with some combined responsibilities.

Whenever it is, governments services and treasury, economy and intergovernmental affairs are grouped into portfolios.

With the shuffling of ministers and senior civil servants, new ministers who make decisions are still catching on their homework.

Through the session, there will be bills to formalize the new government reorganization.

It will create the new post of ppeachers to help out ministers with the heaviest work load.

Legislation is expected on the environment, a top government priority. It may also be in the area of noise control and litter.
